'Take My Girl'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville mother who sent her five-year-old daughter to a loan company that garnisheed her pay cheque says she "would do anything" to get the child back.

But the pretty blonde daughter now is a ward of juvenile court, and the mother, Wanda Lee Thompson, 27, has been charged with neglect.

Mrs. Thompson pinned a note on young Teresa Lynn Thompson's coat Thursday and sent the child alone in a taxi to a downtown finance company. The note read in part:

"Here is my baby. Since you took my cheque you can take care of her till I'm able to."

The mother, divorced, said Friday night that she regrets sending Teresa Lynn to the loan company.

WANTS BABY BACK

"I got to thinking about Easter and her needing shoes and clothes and knowing that I would not get a cheque for the next two weeks," she said. "I couldn't pay a babysitter to stay with her while I worked and everything just seemed to mount up. . . .

"If I had it to do over, I wouldn't do what I did again—not after all the agony I've been through. I'm going to do everything in my power to get my baby back," she said.

Meanwhile, Teresa Lynn was removed from the custody of juvenile court so she could spend Easter with a great-aunt.

Martha Marsh, a court probation officer, said the child may be allowed to stay with the aunt, Beatrice Clements, pending final action in the case.

Teresa Lynn was turned over to police by Bill McMaster, manager of the loan company, who said he was tired of being the "bad guy" in the case.

"I'm not inhuman," he said. "Had the woman called me or done anything and said, 'Look, I can't feed my child' and we would have done something for her — released her cheque or something."

McMaster said the amount of Mrs. Thompson's loan was confidential but added, "she obviously was very far behind or we wouldn't have taken the drastic step to garnishee her cheque."

The mother is employed by a Nashville manufacturing plant.

$8,000 FINE FOR SKIPPER?

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The skipper of a seized Soviet trawler was flown here from Kodiak today for arraignment on a charge of violating U.S. fishing waters.

Senator Ernest Gruening and E. L. Bartlett (D—Alaska) in a telephone call from Washington to the Associated Press in Juneau, said the state department had recommended a fine of $8,000.

Gruening and Bartlett called the recommended fine "a mere tap on the wrist" and said it represented "a weak policy of appeasement."

Waves of Oil Washing Up On U.K. Coast

PENZANCE, England (UPI) — Waves of oil began washing up along miles of picturesque Cornish coast today and the battle of Britain's beaches was under way in earnest. It may be years before it is finished.

Britons by the thousand deserted pubs, movies and their homes to do battle with a tide of oil, 118,000 tons of it, which threatened the English Channel shoreline.

The crude oil has been flowing for seven days from shattered tanks of the American tanker Torrey Canyon, aground on the Channel's notorious Seven Stones reef.

"Great balls of oil on the Lizard!" the coast guard radio flashed at 3:20 a.m. today when the tip of a 260-square-mile blanket of oil touched the white sands near Land's End, the southwest tip of England.

The carpet of oil, earlier thought to be moving out to sea, was pushed inland by gale force winds. It was pushing along 60 miles of coastline.

WORSE TO COME

On some beaches, the oil was reported 18 inches thick as it rolled in from sea. "There is still worse to come," said a navy spokesman. He said the situation was "very bad."

Police in the villages of Cornwall, which is almost completely dependent on vacationers who come to enjoy its beautiful beaches, rushed to round up volunteers to do battle with the black tide.

COMMEMORATING Christ's journey to Calvary Pope Paul VI carried cross in procession observing Good Friday in Rome near Colosseum. The procession made its way to the 14 prayer stations.

EASTER SERVICES

Christians Pray For World Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From the serene St. Peter's Basilica in Rome to the battle-scarred rice paddies of Vietnam, Christians the world over observed Holy Saturday today in preparation for the Easter celebration of Christ's resurrection. They prayed for peace in Vietnam and social justice.

Holy Saturday recalls the period of Christ's entombment and leads to the rejoicing of His resurrection. The Holy Saturday rites included the "blessing of the new fire," which starts a three-hour evening vigil ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica led by Pope Paul.

The vigil service will be climaxed with a papal mass of joy shortly before midnight tonight commemorating the resurrection of Christ. At the same time, the bells of Rome's 400 churches will ring.

The Pope will celebrate two masses Easter Sunday. At noon he will deliver his Easter message in which he will announce that he has prepared an encyclical on social justice.

In Good Friday services, many Christians took note of contemporary social issues and the war in Vietnam.

PROTEST SLUMS

Four Methodist churches in Chicago sponsored a fast to protest slum housing.

"Christ was crucified in this neighborhood this year," cried more than 200 Christians in Washington who followed such symbolic stations of the cross as racial strife, poverty, slum housing, crime and war through the poverty - stricken Mount Pleasant section of the capital.

In Milwaukee, Irish-born Michael Cullen has been sitting alone in a Roman Catholic cathedral pew, awaiting Easter morning and the end of his fast and vigil in protest against the war in Vietnam. Since Tuesday, the ex-seminarian has taken only water and a half-bowl of rice.

In Jerusalem, Western Christian churches observed Holy Saturday with services of blessings of the fire by the stone of unction.

Pilgrims carrying crosses walked in rain along the Way of the Cross Friday as Jordanian troops guarded Jerusalem's shrines.

Greece, Cyprus Arrests Reported

ATHENS (AP) — The hunt for members of an alleged Soviet ring spying on NATO bases spread from Italy to Greece and Cyprus today.

SHAHABIAN
. . . suspect

Three persons were unofficially reported arrested and a Soviet diplomat was expelled from Cyprus.

Reliable sources said one person had been arrested by Greek counter-intelligence agents, but there was no official confirmation The Athens newspaper Agon said that officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had arrived Thursday night to help track down leads on the alleged spy ring.

In Cyprus, the government confirmed that two Greek-Cypriots had been picked up there, and it was believed they were part of the espionage network.

Sources in the Cypriot capital of Nicosia said a Soviet diplomat and an employee of the Soviet airline Aeroflot had been deported for spying on British NATO facilities on the Mediterranean island.

ARREST THREE

The case broke in Turin, Italy, with the March 15 arrest of Giorgio Rinaldi, 39, a parachutist, his wife and their chauffeur, Armando Girard. They were charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

In Lausanne, Swiss police said they had evidence the spy ring was active in Switzerland.

Neither Cyprus nor Switzerland is a member of NATO, but Greece is.

The Cypriots arrested in Nicosia were identified as Vikentian Boutros and David Shahabian.

Boutros was said to work for the Cyprus Telecommunications Authority at a radio station handling diplomatic traffic and all overseas telephone calls. Shahabian was reported employed by the RAF at the Nicosia airport.

The Soviet citizens deported — embassy attache Boris Petrin and Aeroflot employee Nicolai Ranoff — left Friday on a regular Nicosia-to-Moscow flight.

Declines Offer

RED DEER (CP) — Robert Thompson, former national leader of the Social Credit party, said today he declined an offer from Paul Martin to join the foreign affairs branch of the Canadian Department of External Affairs.

Hey! What About Paying Our Bills?

It was a fantastic finish to the legislature Thursday night.

A slight oversight — of $739.3 million — which could have produced the biggest April fool joke Premier and Finance Minister W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. have ever had, was narrowly averted.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes had prorogued the legislature at 9:40 p.m. and, with the MLAs all standing respectfully, was just about to stride out of the chamber behind his aides when:

"Hey, wait a minute! What about the supply vote?" called Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in sotto voce.

The vice-regal party, Speaker William Murray and cabinet ministers were frozen into a tableau of horrified embarrassment for a moment.

Back went the aides, up onto the chair went Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, down sat the MLAs and

'Super' Nuclear Arms Offered U.S. Arsenal

WASHINGTON (WP) — Several new types of nuclear weapons have been offered to the Pentagon for the Vietnam war and conflicts like it.

One of the highly secret devices would demolish Viet Cong tunnels in South Vietnam for thousands of feet around the blast area. Another would be for such hard targets as steel bridges in North Vietnam.

It is virtually certain President Johnson would not break the test ban treaty to use such fearsome weapons, even though he is anxious to end the Vietnam war quickly.

But the fact that such superweapons are being discussed at all indicates that the growing frustration with the grinding war is spawning all kinds of proposals for bringing more U.S. power to bear on North Vietnam.

The latest nuclear weapons proposals go beyond the Vietnam war itself and represent part of a larger, behind-the-scenes debate on U.S. nuclear strategy.

The hawks on the one side believe the U.S. should continue diversifying its nuclear arsenal to provide the president with as many options as possible for Vietnam and future emergencies. The doves contend it is time to retrench and seek disarmament agreements.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says no consideration is being given to use of nuclear weapons in the Vietnam war.

The U.S. defence department said Friday, "there is no military requirement for nuclear weapons orders in the current situation in Vietnam."

Viet Cong Rockets Threaten Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Well-informed U.S. sources said today Viet Cong troops have ringed Saigon with emplacements of 140-mm rockets, biggest artillery in the Communist arsenal in South Vietnam. They warned that attacks on the capital itself could come at any time.

The disclosure followed a surge of heavy new Communist attacks on allied forces in the northern provinces where it was feared the North Vietnamese were building up for a possible invasion attempt across the demilitarized zone buffer strip.

Near the big marine base at Da Nang, the Communists ambushed U.S. and South Vietnamese convoys three times in two hours with mines and machie guns. At least three U.S. marines were killed and 10 wounded and 82 trucks in one South Vietnamese convoy were destroyed or damaged.

Farther north, American marines killed 146 Communists in at least a dozen bitter battles along the demilitarized zone border strip.

The Communists attacked under heavy mortar barrages and once again tried to knock out the big American artillery that fires across the border.

WHEN LOVE TALK FAILS VIET HOMES SET ABLAZE

GIONGH DINH (AP) — The Vietnamese woman ignored the crying baby in her arms. She stared in hatred as the American infantrymen with shotguns blasted away at chickens and ducks. Others shot a water buffalo and the family dog.

While her husband, father and young son were led away, the torch was put to the hut that still contained the family belongings. The flames consumed everything — including the shrine to the family ancestors.

The American troops were acting under orders: destroy everything of any use to the Viet Cong along the main Communist infiltration route from the delta and Cambodia into War Zones C and D. Leave the Viet Cong nothing to eat, no shelter. Remove all civilians who could give the enemy a helping hand.

The area had been so thoroughly dominated by the Viet Cong for so long that pacification, "winning the hearts and minds of the people," was considered out of the question by higher headquarters.

The job was done in an area involving more than 100 square miles.

"God, my wife would faint if she could see what I'm doing now," an infantryman said.

"Killing ole Charlie (Viet Cong) is one thing, but killing puppies and baby ducks and stuff like that — it's something else, man."

STUDENTS RUN WILD

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Frolicking U.S. collegians basking under Florida's sun received a stern Easter weekend message today from police: Have a good time but obey the police.

The warning followed a Good Friday riotous rampage quelled by helmeted police.

"We want you to have fun, but we are not going to condone what went on out here yesterday," said Fort Lauderdale Police Chief Robert Johnston.

He said his men, who have been reinforced, would take precautions today to prevent another rampage. About 30 students were under arrest.

Husky students attacked a passing bakery truck Friday and began taking cakes and bread. As bikini-clad co-eds cheered and jeered, a soft drink truck was looted and bottles and their contents hurled at onlookers.

At the height of the turmoil, a chanting group lifted an empty foreign car and paraded through the palm-lined street, the girls cheering.

The men also rocked a bus, nearly causing it to overturn.

Students to Make Decision Tuesday

By DESMOND BILL

University of Victoria students will decide next Tuesday whether to boycott classes the folowing day in protest against the ouster of three teachers.

A meeting of 500 students Thursday heard three of their leaders mount a sustained attack on the removal of the three professors.

But one of the men being let go by the university, Dr. Charles Tarlton, told them, "Whatever you do, don't do it with me in mind. I'm gone. I'm no longer a part of this (university) at all. I feel alienated from it."

Despite this, the students unanimously decided to hold a mass rally in the gymnasium Tuesday to make up their minds whether or not to "strike".

WILLIAMSON

AGAINST FIRINGS

Paul Williamsons, a former president of the students' council, said the students must "make it clear to the faculty and the administration, to the newspapers and the public" that the students are against the firings.

Mr. Williamson warned the students that the press and the public will oppose any strike action.

But, he said, they should have a one-day strike next Wednesday to show the university administration it has "lost the confidence of the majority of students and of many members of faculty who for various reasons have not spoken out."

The three men whose contracts were not renewed by the university this year are Dr. Tarlton, of the political science department, and J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, both of the English department.

HIGHLY POPULAR

All three are outspoken in criticism of some aspects of university life but are highly popular with students. The students' council has offered to hire Mr. Schwartz next year as an independent lecturer.

Mr. Williamson said the public is not "getting the facts" in the controversy over the non-renewal of their contracts.

He said an editorial in the Times Wednesday noted large research grants being awarded to Uvic's biology department and implied this gave the lie to criticisms of the university.

Said Mr. Williamson, "The man who got the largest award was Dr. Tom Algard. I tell you that last October the dean and his committee tried to dump Algard the same way" as Dr. Tarlton, Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Mackenzie were ousted.

Mr. Williamson also referred to an interview in which Arts and Science Dean A. J. Wood told seven students that if Tarlton, Schwartz and Mackenzie did not go, then the university would lose four and maybe 10 good men.

'NO ONE IS SAFE'

Mr. Williamson said, "No one is safe if he crosses a group of professors unknown to me who have threatened the dean."

Stephen Bigsby, another former students' council president, said the real issue in the row is whether the administration is "100 per cent correct, 100 per cent of the time."

He said president Malcolm Taylor and Dean Wood have refused to defend their decision to let the instructors go because they "cannot justify" it.

Mr. Bigsby said some people believe that those in authority must have good reason for doing what they did. They think "there must be something to be said for the other side."

Said Mr. Bigsby, "I want to hear it. I would like to hear it."

He said some persons will construe a student strike as a revolt against authority. In fact, he said, a strike will be a demonstration in favor of moderation.

He said true moderation is "tolerance of diversity within the law. Let's not purge those we don't agree with."

'SERIOUS PRECEDENT'

Dr. Tarlton told the meeting the ouster of himself and his two colleagues "set a serious precedent here. Decisions can openly be made on non-academic grounds that are not specified."

He said the "sorest point" in the whole affair, as far as he is concerned, is the "general complacency" of the faculty. "No one cares what is going on."

Mr. Schwartz said he and his colleagues during the past two months "have been living under a mud-wagon and it's been tipped on us."

When one student asked him why he had been fired — "the real reason"—he told them that he could not give an answer.

But he said he has in recent months been the victim of the "foulest innuendo I have ever seen" and when it is necessary to "defend a case by slander" it does not say very much for the case.

During most of the meeting a shorthand notetaker was in the audience recording all that was said by various speakers. She sat beside Professor Robin Skelton, a senior member of the English department.

Asked the reason for the presence of the notetaker, Prof. Skelton said, "She was simply there so that if anything important was said we would have a record."

He said he himself would have taken notes but the shorthand writer saved him the trouble. He said the record of the proceedings was not kept "for any particular purpose."

Students' Leaders Hit 'Nothing' Statement

Student leaders at the University of Victoria today said a statement by president Malcolm Taylor "said nothing that in any way clarified the situation."

An open letter to Dr. Taylor signed by Alma Mater Society president David McLean and past AMS heads Stephen Bigsby and Paul Williamson said: "Once more we ask you to answer professors Tarlton and Schwartz when they ask 'Why were we dismissed?' "

"Once more we ask you to state that faculty members shall be judged only by their colleagues.

"Once more we ask you to repudiate the action of those faculty members who in secret threatened the dean with their resignation, and once more we state our disappointment that the administration would bow to such coercion.

"We appeal to you to act decisively and to ensure that never again will an excellent teacher and unimpeachable scholar be lost to this university because of secretive threats to the dean."

A statement from Dr. Taylor outlining threats to the "good name" of the university was published in Thursday's Times.

"harmuph" went Speaker Murray.

"And is an Act for Granting Certain Sums of Money for the Public Service of the Province of British Columbia," Mr. Murray intoned, after a short message to the lieutenant-governor.

Without those words spoken before Gen. Pearkes finally left the chamber, there would have been no budget money in the provincial coffers on April 1 at the start of the new fiscal year.

They constitute the final reading of the bill to make it legal—capping the scores of hours the MLAs spent on estimates.

They should have been spoken early in the ceremony before Gen. Pearkes began reading the formal closing speech — which also is written by Premier Bennett — but no one noticed something was askew except Mr. Strachan and one of the house clerks.

The Opposition Leader scanned back through the list of procedure and checked the journals during the remainder of the ceremony waiting in vain for an unobtrusive opportunity to remind someone of the slip.

He tried, but never succeded, in catching Premier Bennett's eye and, in desperation, hissed the electrifying words after the ceremony was officially over and Gen. Pearkes was about to leave and the clerk was whispering in agitation to Mr. Murray.

So the legislature actually was protogued twice — and if the slip had not been retrieved then, a constitutional dilemma would have ensued that could well have required re-convening of the MLAs after Easter to patch things

Mr. McCarter's wife, Elizabeth, died in 1958.

Gangster Graveyard Located

JACKSON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP)—FBI agents using bulldozers churned up the muddy grounds of a suspected Cosa Nostra cemetery today in the search for more gangland murder victims. Two bodies already have been dug up.

Disclosing the investigation Friday, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover issued a statement saying the search was the product of an extensive two-year investigation of the Cosa Nostra in New York and New Jersey.

Hoover said the investigation "specifically concerned a number of individuals who had disappeared, allegedly as a result of having incurred the disfavor of Cosa Nostra officials or leaders as far back as 1960, and who are thought to be buried on these sites."

The two bodies found Thursday night in this sparsely populated area 60 miles from New York were little more than skeletons in tattered remnants of clothing.

One was tentatively identified as that of Angelo Sonnessa, who was 48 when he disappeared in September, 1961.

SECOND WAS BROKER

The remains of the other victim were tentatively identified as Kenneth Later, who was 55 when he disappeared March 29, 1963. He was identified as a New York city stockbroker.

The bodies were found on what was once a 20 - acre chicken farm. Later's body was found in an oil drum filled with hydrochloric acid and was largely disintegrated.

The owners of the farm, Joseph Celso, 49, and his 46-year-wife, were arraigned Friday in Asbury Park as material witnesses. Each was held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

The FBI said Sonnessa was a business partner of the late Joseph Vecchio in the All State Asphalt Co., a contracting firm in Nutley, N.J. Vecchio was indicted in May, 1960, with 29 other men alleged to be the prime distributing organization for heroin in the United States.

The FBI said Sonnessa "had allegedly gained the disfavor of an identified member of Cosa Nostra who is presently serving a term in a federal penitentiary on a narcotics violation." The FBI declined to identify the narcotics violator.

An FBI spokesman would not say what, if any, link had been established between Later and the Cosa Nostra, but it is known that the crime syndicate has infiltrated some brokerage houses and has the money to manipulate the stock market.

Sierra L. Gets New Strongman

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A sudden turn in Sierra Leone's week-long power struggle has boosted Lt.-Col. Ambrose Patrick Genda from fifth rank on his country's six-man UN mission to head of the country's new military junta.

"I think it was very kind and thoughtful of my brother officers back there," Genda said Friday after learning that he had been named chairman of a national reformation council of six army and two police officials. He said he is awaiting word from Freetown on his next move.

A year ago, Genda, 39, was retired as deputy commander of the armed forces and sent here as a second secretary because of a dispute with some of Sierra Leone's leaders. Some of those leaders were under arrest today.

The strife in the West African nation, a Commonwealth member of about 2,200,000 persons, broke out after its general election March 17. Neither Prime Minister Sir Albert Margai's Sierra Leone People's party nor the All Peoples Congress of Siaka Stevens won a majority in Parliament. But Governor-General Henry J. Lightfoot-Boston swore in Stevens as the new prime minister.

Brig. David Lansana, commander of the army, said the election results were incomplete and seized power. About 20 persons were reported killed in clashes between mobs and military units.

The national reformation council took control of the country Friday.

New Suspect Faces N. Orleans Jury

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Layton Martens, arrested here three days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and held for "investigation of subversive activities" was subpoenaed by District-Attorney Jim Garrison Thursday in his investigation of the crime.

The district-attorney also ordered the arrest of Gordon Novel, 29, a former bar owner whom he described as an important material witness for the grand jury considering the case.

Martens, 24, was ordered to appear before the grand jury next Wednesday.

He formerly roomed with the late David W. Ferrie. Martens, Ferrie and Roland Beauboeuf, then 19, were arrested by Garrison's men at the request of the secret service and FBI Nov. 25, 1963. Ferrie was booked for being a fugitive from Texas; Martens and Beauboeuf were booked for vagrancy.

Police records show that Martens was held for the FBI and secret service "under investigation of subversive activities."

Garrison said at that time that Ferrie, Beauboeuf and Martens were picked up "in connection with some leads of our own."

All three men were released the next day.

Also subpoenaed Thursday was Donald Dooty, a balding, red-bearded man about 35 years old. No background information was available on Dooty.

Now More Than Ever

IT IS PERHAPS INDICATIVE OF the state of Western civilization today that the annual observance of a religious festival can often prove to be a source of embarrassment.

Christmas, with all its Christian connotations, comes upon us as we are engrossed in the material pursuit of profits and worldly gain. And Easter, with its superb ideals of sacrifice, atonement and rebirth, all too often catches us in the midst of savage international warfare, national dissension and personal disharmony.

But despite the frequent inappropriateness of the earthly environment for the yearly observances, it is to the credit of mankind that the desire to celebrate them still arises anew each season, the age-old longing for the spiritual comfort and encouragement which they convey still survives.

These are days in which the theological content of Easter is subjected almost to laboratory analysis. But even though the spiritual essence of Calvary may now be surrounded by references to the equinox, ancient Spring rites and other historical flowerings of the Golden Bough, man finds in this periodic time of self-analysis, resolution and restored hope an answer to his inner doubts and his dismaying vision of what he and his world are becoming in this twentieth century.

The Easter season, therefore, regardless of religious affiliation or the lack of it, is welcomed as a very necessary antidote to lurking despair; a recurrent reminder that all need not be lost despite the swirling clouds, mushroom-shaped and otherwise, through which we pick our way; a lift to the human spirit which no computer, no electronic relay, no space-soaring rocket can provide.

The Easter story may not always be heard, but the re-telling must never cease.

The 'Me Too' Response

THE CALCULATIONS WHICH only a few months ago led to the optimistic hope that a nuclear non-proliferation treaty could be arranged without difficulty have proved decidedly wrong. The major nuclear powers — the Soviet Union and the United States—have been discovering to their astonishment that a number of countries don't like the plan that was drawn up, that they are unwilling to relinquish their option to create their own nuclear weapons, and that they have serious reservations as to the effects on their advancement in peaceful nuclear technology if they sign the treaty.

West Germany has been in the forefront of the objectors to the treaty—giving the Russians new fits of suspicion about German revanchism—but in a quiet way Japan also has been backing away from assent. The Japanese, despite their post-war revulsion against nuclear weapons, are becoming concerned about the threat posed by China. India, also a country which had previously renounced any ambitions to possess nuclear weapons, is in much the same position as Japan. Some smaller countries have their fears as well; Israel, for example, is highly suspicious of the activities of German nuclear and rocket experts who are reputed to have been given refuge in Arab countries after the war, and cannot help but wonder if it is wise to be without a nuclear deterrent.

Even Britain, which can count itself as a minor nuclear power, is embarrassed at having to support the treaty when it is opposed by a number of the Common Market countries. The French, despite having heard endlessly from the United States that the "force de frappe" is useless and a waste of the country's resources, cling to the philosophy that no country can lay claim to greatness without these weapons.

The United States and the Soviet Union proceeded blithely on the assumption that the nations of the world would be so dazzled by the sight of the two great super-powers reaching an accord on non-proliferation that they would queue up to sign on the dotted line any treaty which the two devised. The reality has shocked them, but it should not have. Implicit in their assumption was the belief that the nations of the world would be forever content to be client states of one or the other super-powers; that independence was to be subordinated to the wishes of the two masters who would henceforth settle all the affairs of the world to their own liking. It was a faint, and unrealistic, hope.

What is emerging from the discussions and controversies over the non-proliferation treaty is the hard fact that such an agreement cannot be divorced from international political realities, among them the belief of many countries that disarmament and not the further spread of nuclear weapons is the real issue. And so long as neither the United States nor the Soviet Union show a real willingness to divest themselves of their weapons, many other countries will refuse to give up the option of obtaining them.

Krupp: A Good Buy

WHAT THE ALLIED JOINT Commission for Germany was unable—or unwilling—to do, time and a changing economic system are accomplishing after 20 years. The 156-year-old family firm of Friedrich Krupp, industrial giant of Europe and purveyor of munitions to Kaiser Wilhelm and Chancellor Adolf Hitler, is in the hands of the bankers and is to be converted to a joint stock company before the end of next year.

The last head of the firm, Herr Alfried Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, who served a term in Spandau after conviction by the War Crimes Tribunal for his use of slave labor, has been forced to acknowledge the fact that one-man rule of his huge and diversified industrial empire was an anachronism in the age of mass production and broad-base capitalism.

As the story has finally emerged, the Krupp firm has been getting deeper into financial difficulties for several years for the reason that it was not generating sufficient revenues for the up-dating of plant and equipment necessary to remain competitive. The company's ability to draw on outside capital was limited by the fact that it was a one-man show, hostile to all attempts to find out what its true financial status might be.

There is not likely to be much sadness anywhere for the passing of dynastic control over the Krupp enterprises. There has been as much blood as iron involved in the building of the family's enormous fortune and disproportionate influence on German — and world — affairs. The very fact that the United States saw fit to annul the post-war decision to break up the Krupp empire was a strong factor in the climate of suspicion which intensified the Cold War.

The Krupp companies are reported to have capital resources of about a billion marks, but debts of over 3.2 billions. Collapse of the business would have been a fearful blow to the West German economy but the bankers who are now in charge believe that it is basically sound and can be presented to public investors as a good buy after a period of adjustment. The Krupp name will be perpetuated but, it is hoped, as a symbol of progress rather than one of autocratic absolutism.

To Clear Gonzales

As a lover of Gonzales Beach I am interested in its being cleared as otherwise my young children and I would not possibly be able to enjoy our summer there. There are many people in Victoria who enjoy using driftwood for their fireplaces. My suggestion is that the city saw the wood on Gonzales Beach into pieces of a size able to be carted away by homeowners seeking free wood. I have no way of knowing what the cost would be for this. Is this idea at all feasible? —Gonzales Beach's most loyal patron.

No Fit Toy

On behalf of concerned parents and other responsible adults in our community, the Victoria Voice of Women has written to the Esquimalt Municipal Council emphasizing the fact that a cannon is not a suitable toy for a children's playground, and asking that council give the whole matter more serious consideration.

If, as has been suggested, interest in the cannon is mainly historical, then it should be mounted and displayed properly as a museum piece.

I remember, as a child, having played on a cannon, relic of the First World War. We children but dimly comprehend its actual use but we did realize that its purpose was to destroy life. Many were the sadistic games we felt impelled to invent in its shadow.—(Mrs.) Dorcas Blair, Voice of Women, Victoria.

An Assurance of Eggs in the Nest for the CBC

Western

AMONG the reports which came raining down on Tuesday like Easter examination papers on the principal's desk is an important document from the standing committee on broadcasting. It deals with the white paper of last November and fails regrettably to wander very far from ministerial guidelines. We are informed almost in the first paragraph that "in future broadcasting may well be regarded as the central nervous system of Canadian nationhood." It is not clear whether this is meant to be reassuring.

A glance at the CBC's operating budget for 1967-68—up nearly $30 million in a year to roughly $144 million—should cause any taxpayer to twitch. There is not much in the committee's observations to calm our national nerves.

The reconstituted Board of Broadcast Governors, on the basis of clear directives from Parliament, is to act in future (in the committee's words) as "auditor-general" of broadcasting. But this does not mean what it might, at first glance, appear to mean. The BBG is to assess the performance of the CBC, taking into account its financial resources, and report to Parliament annually. It will however, have no responsibility for the corporation's budget although it may talk about it with the CBC. For critical comments on this side of the operation, we will doubtless rely as in the past on the services of the official auditor-general.

Five-Year Grants

We come to the heart of matters in the section of the report dealing with financial provisions. For years Mr. Ouimet has bewailed the unhappy fate of a Crown corporation dependent upon annual grants from Parliament. The government, in its white paper, finally yielded to his tearful petitions and declared its acceptance of statutory five-year grants based on a formula related to television households. Now the committee obligingly concurs observing only that it "considers this basic to the goals which justify the corporation's existence."

This seems a very odd way of putting matters. We have had public broadcasting for some 35 years, until now on the basis of annual grants. Unless Mr. Ouimet, a frequent and eloquent speaker, has been much misunderstood, the CBC has always been able to justify its existence although it occasionally has had difficulty in justifying particular activities and expenditures.

The CBC's runaway expenditures have been a subject of concern for years and some of its practices (such as payment for work not done) have drawn acid comments from the auditor-general. It is puzzling that in the face of the largest annual increase yet projected, the committee, with no word of explanation beyond the generality above quoted, should advocate a further loosening of parliamentary control of expenditures. There is no ground whatever, on the basis of past experience, for believing that the CBC will live within a five-year budget. Almost certainly it will be back within that period to be bailed out by Parliament.

To a limited extent the CBC has, of course, relied on advertising revenues. It is interesting that, in contrast to everything else, its revenues from this source have gone up very, very slowly (by about half a million annually in the past two expansive years). This does not suggest that the CBC has made much effort to lighten the taxpayers' load and, indeed, it has at all times complained bitterly that it is subject to this discipline.

The white paper generously concluded that the CBC should be asked to increase this effort. "It should seek to retain but not to increase its present 25 per cent share of the television advertising market and 4 per cent share of the radio market."

The committee is even more solicitous. "If the corporation is to carry out its mandate, improving quality and expanding Canadian content of its programming its first concern must be competition for commercial sales." (When was this ever its first concern?) The committee thinks the CBC should not be asked to go for any special share of the advertising market. Instead its over-all revenue needs for operational purposes should be given a specific dollar target. Someone with a lingering regard for the taxpayer, slipped in an admonitory sentence that the corporation should then "use aggressive advertising and program sales policies to the degree necessary."

Harsh Fact

In rating the performance of private broadcasters, will the BBG take into account the harsh fact that they must struggle with the daily distraction of finding means to pay their way since they have no access to the public purse?

The committee skates rather lightly over the question of educational television. It notes first that it wishes to reserve the subject for more intensive study, which seems eminently sensible. But then, secondly—and having been served warning by Miss LaMarsh's supplementary estimate—it says: "However, we appreciate that some steps might have to be taken toward making broadcasting facilities available for instructional purposes before we can report further." Why it thinks this, we are not told.

The last thought is, however, unexceptional. "The committee therefore cautions against any departure from the long-standing policy that broadcasting licences not be granted to governments or to agencies under their direct control, and urges that no facilities be committed to the exclusive use of any government or any such agency of government." We might as well stay within the constitution while we still have it.

Easter Sacrament

Here, at the Cross, they press the cup of death,
Dark chalice of Herodian treachery;
Whose sullied wine exudes the acrid breath
Of Pharisaic scorn and falsity.
Upon His broken hands they lay the bread
Of bitterness and grief impassionate;
While darkness on Judean lands is spread.
And love is martyr to the lords of hate.

Now, nations at this hallowed Eastertide,
His victory over evil consecrate;
While still the Apocalyptic horsemen ride
On ravaged lands shell-torn and desolate.
We pray, within the chancel of the Lord,
As we await the sacramental wine
It be not turned to blood; that truth despoiled
Casts not its sombre shadow on the shrine.

Yet, may we glimpse, through disillusioned eyes,
The halcyon hills of Hebron, fair and free;
Capernaum before our vision lies
Serene beside the Galilean sea.
So shall we walk with Him throughout this day,
Affirming faith anew. Nor shall we then
Mourn for the world unduly as we pray
For resurrection in the hearts of men.

ORIGINS OF CUSTOMS

A CAKE FOR PEACE

A Hat Full of Luck in Sunday's New Bonnet

IF your wife has bought a new hat for Easter, don't grumble about it as an extravagance, for according to legend, she needs it to ward off bad luck.

The custom of wearing an Easter bonnet stems from an English legend that any woman unfortunate enough to enter church on Easter in old clothes will not only have bad luck for the coming summer, but the local black birds will fly at her and muddy the offending garments.

In Britain ancient and mysterious customs are kept very much alive. Easter is the season when they most frequently occur, according to the British Travel Association.

Some, like the baking of hot cross buns, have been adopted in Canada, but others, like Pax cakes, which remind church-goers to make peace with their neighbors, are unknown here.

Traditional Bun

In the "Widow's Son," a well-known London pub, a hot cross bun has been placed in a wicker basket each Good Firday since 1823, when a widow, the original owner of the pub, put aside a bun for her sailor son to eat when he returned from sea. Although the young sailor never returned, the widow refused to give up hope and continued to save a bun for him each year. This year the first sailor to enter the pub on Good Friday will be asked to place another bun with the time-blackened remnants in the basket.

An enormous hot cross bun known as a "Tuppenny Starver" has been presented to each of the choir boys of St. Michael's Church in Bristol every Tuesday after Easter since the Middle Ages, when it was the only occasion on which the poor ate anything but black bread.

"Deserving elderly widows" in the London parish of St. Bartholomew the Great are presented with a hot cross bun and a new sixpence every Good Friday. In a ceremony that goes back 500 years, 21 sixpenny pieces are placed on the benefactor's tombstone in the churchyard, and as each widow kneels beside the stone to pick up her sixpence, she is presented with half-a-crown and a hot cross bun.

Pax, or peace, cakes, little shortbread biscuits stamped with a lamb and a flag, have been given out on Palm Sunday since 1688. An even older tradition are the Biddenden cakes, given out in Kent on Easter Monday. They are stamped with the picture of two 12th century sisters who were born joined together at the hips and shoulders and who spent their lives helping the poor.

One of the most famous alms-giving ceremonies in the world comes each Maundy Thursday, when the Queen gives out silver pieces in Westminster Abbey. Each of the red and white purses this year will contain 41 pieces, since the tradition declares that the number must equal the monarch's age.

Tithing was the starting point for a gay custom in Hungerford. There "Tything men" or "tutti-men" are elected on the second Tuesday after Easter and then go around the streets with two long flower-decked poles demanding a coin from every man and a kiss from every woman. If the kiss is given, the woman gets an orange, if she refuses, she must pay a penny. After the ceremonial lunch the remaining oranges are thrown to a large crowd of children.

Rough Holiday

An obscure Easter custom known as "Hare Pie Scrambling and Bottle Kicking" looks like an ancestor to Canadian football. The celebration is held on Easter Monday in Hallaton, Leicestershire when children scramble for huge meat pies while adults kick beer-filled casks toward the "goal posts", two streams a mile apart. It looks a little messy for Easter, but it dates back to a grateful woman who escaped from an enraged bull when he was distracted by a hare. She willed that two hare pies should be the targets for a scramble every Easter.

The Canadian custom of Mother's Day may originate in the English version known as "Mothering Day", celebrated the fourth Sunday of Lent. Mothers are given a special delicacy known as Simnel Cake, named after a Roman delicacy, and in the East End of London children take flowers to the altar for blessing and then present them to their mothers.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

Go for a leisurely Easter Sunday walk over the Nature Trail at Goldstream, heading in from the log bridge.

See the log jam in the stream and note how it has formed a deep pool where the back eddies form swirls and the foam piles high against the logs.

If you look on the ground you will see thousands of tiny little winged seeds of the cedar. They look like carrot seeds, and have been shed by the recent high winds. In places they have formed a layer on the water.

Now the broad leaf shrubs and trees are bare, many things can be seen that are hidden in the summer.

There is a very heavy growth of western yew, and one can find a dozen in one group.

Many "log bridges" cross the stream, some bare, some moss-covered. Others have shrubs and trees growing from them.

There are several places where you can get down to the water's edge. Listen to the many different sounds the water makes as it tumbles and swirls over and against the rocks.

On some of the older trees the lung lichen grows in abundance. It is fascinating to see how the under side will flash white in the wind. Many fine specimens can be picked from the ground where they have blown down.

There are some really fine specimens of old Douglas firs with their thick deeply funneled bark showing scars of fires that happened perhaps over a hundred years ago. These trees reach up to the sky and the tops are no longer tapered but have spread out into a canopy.

The salmon berry is in bloom, its delicate pink blossoms showing up against the bare stems.

There are hundreds of the yellow arum (skunk cabbage) with their yellow sheaths and spathes which add a bright color to the dark green background of the sword and deer ferns.

Is a Guaranteed Annual Income Next Big Canadian Decision?

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Although most of the files piled on Lester Pearson's desk for immediate attention following his return to Ottawa this weekend deal with important and long overdue appointments of personnel, there's at least one grave policy matter confronting the Prime Minister.

This is a decision whether or not to proceed with the studies now quietly under way by some senior Ottawa civil servants, toward the establishment of a comprehensive guaranteed annual income scheme for Canada.

If realized, this would be the next major advance in the country's social security network, and the final element in turning Canada into a welfare state. As presently visualized in informal studies by officials of the National Health and Welfare Department, the scheme would guarantee all Canadians a basic income of about $3,500 a year.

Newman

It would mean that the complicated and at times humiliating welfare process would disappear. Instead of going begging from one social agency to another, every citizen would be entitled to a living income. Annual cost of the plan has been estimated at approximately $2 billions. Accurate predictions are impossible, because it's not known at this point how many existing welfare schemes the guaranteed annual income plan would displace.

Although some preliminary memoranda have been prepared by the Health and Welfare Department and the Department of Finance has begun to think about the idea, GAIP has not yet reached the planning stage. But no one here would be very surprised to see it become the central plank in the Liberals' 1968 platform—particularly if the NDP keeps adding to its electoral strength.

The great breakthrough which has moved GAIP into contention as a practical idea was the recent adoption of the guaranteed income supplement which assures an income of $105 per month to Canadians over 65. Although it's of very limited application, it has established the sociological and political principle which reaches beyond the existing techniques of social insurance (unemployment insurance and the Canada Pension Plan, for example) and social assistance (family allowances and old-age assistance, for instance).

Pushing Idea

The man who has been most actively pushing the idea is Health and Welfare Minister Allan MacEachen, who told me in a recent interview: "We must take steps to coordinate and integrate into a single system of income maintenance, all the various welfare plans already in existence. The guaranteed annual income principle has been established. Now we must improve the maintenance approach as an alternative."

MacEachen's approach is based on his contention that the guaranteed annual income holds the only hope of dealing with contemporary problems. "It's the only effective way of putting money in the hands of the people who really need it," he says. "Up to now, welfare programs have been specifically designed with certain disadvantaged groups in mind. But the prospects of an automated, cybernated economy, where an entire assembly line—from blueprint to finished product—can be operated by a series of computers, raises some pretty fundamental questions about this categorical approach to income maintenance."

ALAN MACEACHEN
. . . for the alternative

Other members of the Pearson cabinet, notably Walter Gordon and John Turner, have supported the GAIP approach, and the prime minister himself, speaking during a "hot seat" confrontation at the Canadian University Liberal Convention last February 2, said: "Perhaps the next big stage in social security as such — and this will take a long time because it's a very complicated business — is the establishment of a guaranteed minimum income for everyone."

Apart from the fact that the social security system has run out of room to expand unless the GAIP idea is accepted, its proponents claim that it would be particularly relevant to the Canadian situation, because it would free municipal and provincial governments from the burden of straight welfare handouts and allow them to expand into more creative public sectors of activity.

At the same time, the adoption of GAIP would expand direct fiscal contact between the citizens of Canada and their federal government — the narrowing scope of federal participation in the everyday lives of Canadians is one of the main worries haunting all Ottawa politicians.

Quebec Budget

One factor which has prompted increased interest in GAIP at this particular time was the nature of the first budget brought down by the Daniel Johnson government in Quebec.

By bringing the family allowance schedules (which Ottawa has ignored for the past 23 years), into a more meaningful relationship with the realities and needs of family life, Quebec has grasped the initiative in welfare reform.

The only way the federal government can now outdo Quebec, is to propose such a fundamental reform of the whole welfare system that it will render obsolete the whole idea of family allowances and a galaxy of other plans being subjected to provincial incroachment.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

"We shall persevere in our efforts to find an honorable peace," said Lyndon Johnson this week, but no one was able to take much cheer from his words.

The president had just returned to Washington from a war conference in Guam and learned that North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh had publicly rebuffed a direct peace overture he made last month.

More to the point Johnson coupled his "persevere for peace" statement with a remark that "Until that is achieved, we shall, of course, continue to do our duty in Vietnam."

Casualty figures issued later in the week confirmed he means business. Losses on both side were some of the highest of the war. The Viet Cong were especially hard hit, losing close to 2,000 men in one major battle near the Cambodian frontier.

Reports from the Guam conference said allied military leaders were agreed the only way peace will come about is if increased military pressure breaks the will of the North Vietnamese.

●

At Guam, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky put out proposals to bomb Hanoi, blockade Haiphong harbor and expand the war into Laos and Cambodia.

At home, Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen said it was time to "turn the screws" on the enemy by hitting more targets in North Vietnam. Johnson for the time being disavowed any intention of giving in to the "hawks," but he was obviously miffed by Ho's curt reply.

Ho again insisted that bombing raids on the North must be halted unconditionally before negotiations can begin. Senators William Fulbright and Robert Kennedy urged Johnson to take Hanoi up on this offer but they drew no response.

To cap off a gloomy week the disarmament talks in Geneva, once on the brink of success, were recessed for six weeks after becoming stalemated again.

The Soviet Union and the U.S. had previously reached agreement on a treaty to block the spread of nuclear weapons but a formal pact has been held up by protests of some of the smaller western nations.

U.S. negotiators said they will use the recess to seek compromise arrangements with western allies that will satisfy the Russians.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson ran into more opposition from his own ranks when he disclosed the government intends to keep the clamps on Britain's economy after the present wage-price freeze ends July 1.

Economic Minister Michael Stewart said the year of enforced restraint had helped check the nation's slipping balance of trade but more controls still are needed.

After July 1 some wage and price increases will be allowed but they must be approved by a government board and will be limited to one a year.

Wilson moved to pacify his left-wingers by finally pushing through a bill nationalizing 90 per cent of Britain's steel industry. Starting this summer the government will pay out $1.34 billion dollars for the country's 14 largest steel-making firms.

Wilson held off making a formal application for membership in the European Common Market amid reports the West German government had advised him to wait until next September at the earliest.

Some other ECM members want Britain to apply now but Charles de Gaulle is reported to have warned the Bonn government the Franco-German alliance will be jeopardized if it supports the U.K. entry.

A Misprinted 'Easter Joy' That May Be the Reality

By ART STOTT

On the top of our kitchen dresser stands a three-and-one-half inch blue-green cutout of an Easter rabbit with a slightly lop-sided grin. Mounted behind it on cardboard is a four-inch paddy-green cutout of an Easter egg. On the base, in bold pencil, is inscribed "Easter Joy"— the "r" facing the wrong way. Under that is the identifying artist's signature, "Gordon" with the "r" correctly formed.

Stott

This example of kindergarten craftsmanship has been with us several days —a preliminary indication of the excitement a small redhead wishes to share with those close to him as the great occasion of childhood's springtime delight approaches.

There have been other indications. At breakfast the other morning, when his cheetrulness was in sharp contrast to the attitudes of adults not yet through their first cup of coffee, he asked brightly:

"You know who's coming?"

The answer should have discouraged him, but it didn't: "Yeah, the tax collector."

"Nope," he told us, "the Easter bunny. You know what the Easter bunny does?"

We waited for the pitch about chocolate eggs and goodies—the conventional come-on. He surprised us.

"He goes hippety-hop, hippety-hop," and he demonstrated with the cookie that tops off his cereal, dancing it around his bowl like an expert checker player taking an opponent's counters.

At 6 or. Thursday morning he appeared as a grey dawn revealed a gusty east wind whipping white crests off bottle-green waves beyond our bedroom window, while a scudding cloud dumped its quick shower on the lawn. "This," he crooned, his chin even with my pillow, "is my lucky day. This is my lucky day."

It was term wind-up at the pre-primary and the children had been promised an egg hunt. "I've got a basket with a little chicken. It's only this big," he spread his thumb and forefinger an inch apart. "Fluffy," he added.

Tonight, if things go according to plan, he will sleep at Cigarmakers' Bay, a soup bowl lined with Druid's Beard, by his bed. In the morning, if miracles persist—and there is every chance they will—the nest will be overflowing with those toothsome symbols which lend substance to a child's beliefs at Easter. There will be at least two large, chocolate covered eggs, and the gaudy miniatures which delight a small boy's eyes and set and adult's digestive system churning on sight.

* * *

Then, weather permitting, there will be another egg hunt in woods where succeeding generations of the clan have sought out the tinted treasurers of other Easters and where, when the festive day comes later in the year, trilliums have raised their heads and yellow violets have given shy greeting to a season of renewed life—a resurrection that is visible.

This is a festival of childhood. It is a time when grown-ups use a small deception to give the little ones pleasure, create a brief world of make-believe to add happiness to the lives of the young close to them.

Yet I wonder who gains most, the child receiving the presents or the adult who is led back to the shining brightness of life in its early morning.

The cutout carries the legend "Easter joy." Perhaps this is the reality. Like the old advertisements for vodka: you cannot see it, it has no aroma—but you know it's there.

Bubonic Plague Threat?

By STUART AUERBACH

WASHINGTON — A Harvard University professor has warned that South Vietnam stands on the brink of a bubonic plague epidemic that could spread through all of Southeast Asia.

Citing World Health Organization figures, Prof. Jean Mayer blamed the war in Vietnam for the sharp increase in the dreaded plague, which killed millions of Europeans during the Middle Ages.

W.H.O. figures show that cases of the plague in South Vietnam have increased 344 times since 1961, when eight cases were reported. Last year, 2,753 cases were reported and by March 9 of this year, 905 cases were reported.

Mayer, a French-born professor of nutrition at Harvard, said he doubted that the plague would spread to the United States army. Health officials here said that only four Americans caught the plague in Vietnam since the U.S. troop buildup began in 1963.

Mayer made his comments at a press conference called by the Health Professionals for Peace in Vietnam, an organization that said it collected 6,000 signatures on petitions opposing the war.

Mayer predicted that South Vietnam is "right up on the ascending track of one of the great epidemics in history."

He said that Vietnam has only 1,000 physicians to care for 15 million people "who never have been in particularly good health." He said 700 of the doctors serve in the army and 150 are based in Saigon. Some provinces, he said, have no doctors at all.

During normal times, Mayer said, health authorities concentrate on preventing epidemics. This has broken down during the war.

The heavy increse in bubonic plague cases is also due to the large number of rats which flock to the unsanitary refugee camps, he said. Fleas infect the rats who spread it to humans.

American troops escape the plague, he said, because of the high level of medical care they receive.

But the port and resort city of Vungtau was placed off limits to "non-official foreigners" last Tuesday because of an outbreak of the plague. Two South Vietnamese died from the disease there and 23 other cases were reported.

The plague is mentioned in the Bible and almost brought organized society to an end during the 14th Century when it killed 25 million people.

By the 1840s, the plague practically disappeared from Europe, but there have been major outbreaks in Asia throughout the 20th century.

POORER COUNTRIES BEING ROBBED OF BEST TALENT

U.S. Demand for Scientists Takes Heavy Toll of World

By LORD BOWDEN

Excerpts from a speech delivered at Toronto's York University by Lord Bowden, British Minister of State, Department of Education and Science, and principal of the Manchester College of Science and Technology and dean of the Faculty of Technology, Manchester University.

The U.S. universities are growing as never before. Every year they spend about $1.5 billion in new university buildings and add 250,000 students to their university population.

It is salutory for an Englishman to remind himself that all our English university buildings put together and their equipment are worth about $1.5 billion and that they have about 200,000 students between them.

Every year the Americans create another university system as big as ours. They plan to have 7,000,000 students by the early Nineteen Seventies; we shall be lucky to have 300,000.

Every year Canada spends as much on its universities as we do in England. You already have as many students as we have, although your population is only half as big as ours.

. . . The first industrial revolution was made in England by self-taught men who knew nothing of universities and cared less; in fact the universities of England ignored and resented the whole of the industrial revolution and did their best to thwart it.

The idea that universities should study problems of applied science which were important to industry first took hold in the United States . . . the Great American West was conquered in the laboratories of the land grant colleges and their graduates tamed the continent.

Transformation

Their ideas and their graduates transformed U.S. industry, they transformed the very nature of a university and they helped to create the world as we know it.

The United States has always wanted more scientists and engineers than it can possibly produce itself — it has always taken them from every part of the world, but now its demands are becoming insatiable and unmanageable.

Science-based industries want to go on doubling in size every 10 years or so as they have become accustomed to doing for so long. But the supply of scientists and engineers is running out all over the world.

By 1970, the United States will need at least 200,000 more sceientists and engineers than it can produce itself — some businessmen think they will be 500,000 short — and it is trying to get them wherever it can.

Last year, 200 scientists and more than 1,000 engineers went to the United States from Canada — about half of all the engineers who graduated that year in Canadian universities.

The loss of graduates from England to the United States was never serious or important until a few years ago. In 1961, Britain had lost 198 PhDs to the United States; in 1965 we lost 415 — which was one PhD out of every six who graduated.

That is bad enough, but the United States wants 10,000 more physicists at this moment and we lost one PhD physicist out of every three who graduated last year. In the past five years we have increased our output of scientists and engineers by about 40 per cent, but the rate of emigration has doubled and is increasing fast.

Few people have realized the value of these migrants to the community. It probably costs Britain about $60,000 to educate a PhD, and his value to the community during his lifetime as a source of new ideas may be as much as $750,000.

Not Simple

The complicated migration which we have come to call the brain drain is not a simple process of the translation of people to Canada and the United States; it is an enormous movement of scholars in which Europe plays the part of what I can best call a staging post.

Canada gains far more professional men than it loses. Between 1950 and 1963, 7,790 professionally qualified immigrants came to Canada, 4,681 went from Canada to the United States, leaving a net influx of 3,109, half of whom came from Britain.

It seems always to be the poor and underdeveloped countries which lose their precious praduates although they are so desperately short of educated men . . . the University of Newfoundland is about to build a new medical school. Everyone expects that half or two-thirds of the graduates will emigrate — it will cost the taxpayers of Newfoundland (who are the poorest in Canada) two or three times as much to produce a doctor for themselves as it costs anyone else in North America.

The United States has been most generous in giving scholarships and grants to students from all over the world so that they can study in the United States. What happens to them? More than half the overseas students who went to the University of Iowa between 1950 and 1960 stayed. The proportion is increasing.

Universities in the United States select the ablest men of their generation from primitive societies — and take them away from their people forever. They are depriving struggling countries of their natural leaders.

Ruining Aid

Perhaps that is why President Lyndon Johnson's advisory committee has said that the migration of educated men from countries which are desperately short of them may be making a hash of the U.S. foreign aid program.

Engineers from India and Africa help to man British factories, university teachers from Turkey, from Egypt and from the Argentine educate Britain's young men. They replace our own people who have gone to the United States. This migration has begun to dominate academic and industrial policy in every country in the world. It has become one of the most important reasons for the increasing wealth of the United States and for the continuing poverty of underdeveloped countries.

Three-quarters of the U.S. research and development program is now in the defence and space industries. The U.S. defence and space budget next year is about $80-billion more than the gross national product of Britain.

The program dominates the biggest U.S. industrial firms, and is beginning to play an ever-increasing role in the universities.

Nearly 80 per cent of the research in Massachusetts Institute of Technology is paid for by the Defence Department. The California Institute of Technology engineered the Mars probe. But it may be a preliminary to a bigger Mars probe which might cost $100,-billion, which is more than the GNP of England or Canada.

Most of the engineers and scientists in the United States are sooner or later involved in defence or space. For this reason, the whole pattern of education in the United States has been distorted, and it is beginning to appear that the educational system of the world is being distorted, too.

British universities, and the Canadian universities and the universities of poor countries in Africa and Asia may find themselves chained to the chariot wheels of the U.S. Moloch which is to put a man on the moon by 1970; and this machine, let us remind ourselves, was created after the United States had already produced the nuclear equivalent of about 100 tons of dynamite for every living human being and had established a method of delivering it to any point on the face of the earth.

The whole pattern of development throughout the world is being disturbed by the toll that the United States is levying on countries less wealthy than itself. How much longer will scholars be free to move about the world?

Poor countries took the advice of well-intentioned liberal scholars who hoped to help them by building an educational system, but the United States is taking all their natural leaders and their educated men, and seems to do so quite unconsciously.

Marx Right

Last year, the U.S. GNP increased by more than the total GNP of the African continent, which is hardly changing at all, and it is beginning to seem all too probably that Marx will be proved to be right after all in a way he did not foresee.

The rich countries are becoming richer at the expense of the poor countries. Men go to the United States because it is spending so lavishly to combat the menace of the communism which Marx inspired in Russia and China.

This seems to me to be the supreme irony of history.

Endless Vietnam Warfare Has Overtones of Orwell

HALFWAY TO 1984 by Gladwyn Jebb, Lord Gladwyn, Columbia University Press, New York, 1966; 89 pages; $3.95.

Reviewed by Richard Gravil.

If one expects a treatment in this book of all Orwell's social and political themes in 1984 one will be disappointed.

Lord Gladwyn's book on our rate of progress towards Orwell's nightmare world takes up some of the novel's major themes but leaves many of the more interesting problems undeveloped. A point he might have considered, for example, is whether we are approaching a situation in which the balance of power between major blocs makes it possible for perpetual limited war to take place by common consent.

The Vietnam war is a case in point. The U.S.S.R.'s reticence in response to this conflict could be seen, in Orwellian terms, as a sign that the Soviets are prepared to let Vietnam be immolated if this serves the purpose of maintaining the political tension required for a high level of proletarian loyalty to the state.

•

Is it not possible, too, that at least subconsciously, the power elite in the U.S.A. finds Vietnam (or Dominica or the Bay of Pigs) a convenient means to maintaining its own power at home? How easy it is to accept this hypothesis when it appears in a novel, or when we see Sukarno's campaign of "Confrontation" against Malaysia; how much more difficult to apply the same hypothesis to ourselves and our neighbors.

Perhaps the prospect of perpetual limited confrontation between two or three blocs is less remote than we would wish.

Richard Gravil teaches English at the University of Victoria and is a member of the Fabian Society.

Orwell, writing in 1949, conceived of the world of 1984 as dominated by three superstates — Oceania, comprising the Americas, Britain and the White Commonwealth; Eurasia, comprising the Euro-Asian land mass from Lisbon to Vladivostok; and Eastasia, China and her allies.

Between these alliances there exists a perpetual state of war, ostensibly concerning which group shall control the remaining areas, but really designed to preserve the power of the ruling parties by fostering xenophobia, an arms race which is so costly as to keep the 'proles' in penury and ignorance, and a civil 'state of emergency'. The parties are all totalitarian, whether they began in capitalism or communism, and alliances between the groups are volatile and arbitrary.

A lot of Lord Gladwyn's material tends to confirm that we are moving this way, but his own prophecy holds out an alternative, perhaps the only alternative. While rejecting World Government as impracticable (by 1984), he suggests that we may by that time achieve a "World Authority of Regions." He mentions a United Europe, North America, China, S.E. Asia, Latin America, The U.S.S.R. as the most likely groupings. But the discussion is complicated by imponderables.

•

What way will Britain, the EFTA countries and the White Commonwealth go? His ideal is clearly a really united Europe containing Britain and EFTA and the Eastern European countries, as a body which could live on equal terms with both of the present Super-Powers.

The alternative is that menacing split which would divide Europe in almost Orwellian terms between 'Atlantica' and 'Eurasia,' with Britain and Scandinavia dominated by U.S. hegemony and the European Six, inviable alone, drawn to Mother Russia.

The problem for smaller countries is that they have to make a choice between voluntarily creating a supra-national entity — e.g. a politically united Europe — or submitting to the hegemony of one power.

A United Europe might form an 'equal pillar' in a broad Atlantic community, but any smaller part of Europe in such a relationship would find itself virtually annexed goodbye Canada!). Similarly the long-term hope for, say, India, Indonesia, the Philippines, Malaysia, Japan, the Arab countries—if they wish to avoid domination by China or the U.S.A. or the continuing intervention of great powers into their affairs — is to achieve some viable regional status.

•

Lord Gladwyn's book is based on three lectures given at Columbia University and it suffers the limitations of all such books. The argument is oversimplified and the assertions disembarrassed of scholarly paraphernalia. At times such simplification may clarify the prophetic argument. But it reduces the credibility of the historical survey of the last two decades.

The early part of the book reviews the post-war years, which Lord Gladwyn sees as comprising three main periods. First came two years of attempted co-operation between the West and Russia, until 1947, and the author very candidly (and rather unrealistically) suggests that Allied behaviour was unimpeachable.

•

Stalin, he suggests, betrayed the wartime trust of the allies and ignored the liberal overtures of Churchill, Roosevelt and Truman.

He makes no mention of Churchill's betrayal of Stalin in 1942 on the "second front" issue, or of the clear Allied support for reactionary forces in Greece and Yugoslavia and elsewhere in the latter years of war.

The second period he terms the "Cold War" — the era of the Marshall Plan, the Coup de Prague, the establishment of NATO. The third was the Post-Suez and Hungary period, the years since 1956 while we have been learning to live with the Balance of Terror.

The further back Lord Gladwyn goes, the more one-sided his views become, and the less reliable his facts — has anyone heard of "Prime Minister" Bevin?

But where he is more detached Lord Gladwyn's observations are perceptive, sometimes encouraging, sometimes disturbing. He argues that since there is no longer any such thing as "world communism" America's post-war pre-eminence should give her the "self-confidence" to tolerate revolution and to recognize legitimate national aspirations where they do not genuinely threaten U.S. security.

•

Such feelings, though welcome from a Liberal, are by now rather commonplace. Less predictable, however, is Lord Gladwyn's sensitivity towards totalitarian leanings in the great powers. He argues that vandalism and other social problems reflect a feeling in young people that our society is trivial and offers them a life of futility and absurdity.

The impersonal nature of our regimes does nothing to diminish our propensity for mass hysteria, which can be the vehicle of totalitarian groups, or to safeguard minorities, and dissenters, from mass and institutional prejudice. The extent to which our social fabric prefigures that of 1984 is one of the themes one would have liked Lord Gladwyn to pursue.

This is an interesting and congenial book, and yet finally a disappointing one.

There is reason and sanity in Lord Gladwyn's point of view and one can forgive the superficiality of the lecture approach.

•

But is anything said that can strike one as new, or deep, in 1967? Why has it taken moderate opinion so long to come around to what Aneurin Bevan saw in 1943? In that year, discerning the seeds of Cold War in Roosevelt's "Great Power" dreams, and showing the need for a United Europe as a third force, Bevan said: "This polarization of international relations between Moscow and Washington would be nothing short of world catastrophe. It would petrify the existing systems of both countries ... make a third world war an eventual certainty ... reduce all other nations including Britain to a satellite status ..." Bevan's 1943 lunacy is become Gladwyn's 1967 moderacy. Must sanity always take a back seat? Or can we learn not to revile those in our midst who have the keenest insight?

And what of that other prophet, George Orwell? For all its optimism Lord Gladwyn's book does little to dispel the fear that if Orwell's choice of date was pessimistic, his analysis was not. 1984 was not a tale of some imaginary world, but a darkly ironic projection of our own too-evident potential.

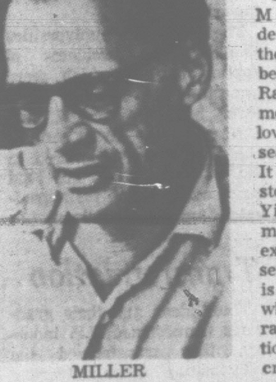
NEW SLANT ON THE OUTSIDER

Fear of Family Split-Up Dominates Work of Miller

I DON'T NEED YOU ANY MORE, Arthur Miller, New York; The Viking Press, 1967. Reviewed by William Goede



MILLER
. . . isolation

Arthur Miller says he is surprised to find "a certain continuity" to his collected short stories, but he does not tell us what it is.

In his plays there is a certain thematic continuity, a common predicament. It is difficult to explain. Call it a fall into knowledge: someone knows something nobody else does. This knowledge is acid and it burns through Willy Loman in Death of a Salesman, Joe Keller in All My Sons, and Quentin in After the Fall. To learn something, to be punched through appearance into reality, is to be isolated, alienated. But each of Miller's protagonists, whether he is an unsuccessful salesman, an industrialist who sent out cracked cylinder heads for fighter planes and let another take the blame, or a writer who watches a movie star become a public whore, asks, with Quentin, "Is the knowing all?" These plays are profound psychological studies of men attempting to convert knowledge into act, to make what they know into what they do.

•

In the title story, "I Don't Need You Any More," five-year-old Martin takes his own life to redeem himself from the knowledge that he is breaking up his family because he does not need any of them any more; in "The Misfits," Gay Langland risks death and poverty hunting five mustangs because he knows that living in town on "wages" is working so that someone can "buy gas for his Cadillac." And in "A Search for a Future," a famous actor sadly discovers all the world is a stage, including LBJ's press conferences, but when his father escapes from an old folks' home to return to his home, he vows to "find something honorable about acting" again. In "The Prophecy," Joseph refuses bed with Cloeta Rummel, whose husband is away, because to do so is to advance her particular brand of paranoia one more step; ironically, he knows nothing to take the place of lust.

In the best story in the book, "Monte Sant' Angelo," Bernstein unenthusiastically but jealously watches his Italian - Catholic - American tourist friend Appello tracing his ancestral roots to a mountain-top city in Italy. Mere traces remain, enough however to give Appello historical dimension. All that is lacking is the discovery of the family tomb.

But Bernstein is a Jew; his own forebears were sellers on the run from town to Northern European town. His history is in ruins — or so he thinks. At lunch he watches an itinerant pedlar tying knots in a bundle just as his father and grandfather had done. Bernstein thinks the pedlar is a Jew, and when they invite him to their table, he refuses, saying he is on his way home to his family for Shabbas. But when Bernstein asks him if he is a Jew, he does not know what that is; he is, he protests, a Catholic.

•

Bernstein knows the pedlar is a Jew: "The whole history is packing bundles and getting away." After the man leaves, Bernstein suddenly feels at home in the world. "There was an irony in it he could not name," he thinks. "And yet pride was running through him. Of what he should be proud he had no clear idea; perhaps it was only that beneath the brainless crush of history a Jew had secretly survived, shorn of his consciousness but forever caught by that final impudence of a Saturday Sabbath in a Catholic country; so that his very unawareness was proof, a proof as mute as tones, that a past lived." Now Bernstein can help Appello discover his family tomb; when he finally does, Bernstein, who now has a history too, cheers in triumph.

Most of these stories shout the imminent destruction of the family. Miller is the poet of the family and in this sense he is the offspring of Eugene O'Neill.

In "I Don't Need You Any More," young Martin descends into knowing that the family is breaking up because he has watched the Rabbi dance, observed his mother talking to a childhood lover, and heard the "bearded sea" reproach his sinfulness. It is a tight, psychological story in the tradition of the Yiddish tales of Singer, Malamud, and Bellow. There is extreme angst and a terrible sense of sin and guilt. The boy is "dos kleine Menschele" who spills soup, asks embarrassing metaphysical questions and causes his mother to cry. Each act quickens the consciousness of his guilt.

•

In "A Search for a Future," the actor discovers only his dying father is true; in "Fitter's Night," Tony Calabrese, a fitter in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, is shattered by the family's inability to survive urban blight; he is, however, saved in a Hemingwayesque moment of grace under pressure when he repairs the rails of a depth charge device in freezing weather.

The brilliance of "I Don't Need You Any More" and "Monte Sant' Angelo" stands with the half-dozen great stories of Flannery O'Connor, Malamud, John Updike, and J. D. Salinger. The others should be allowed on view only from a distant bridge.

In short, when Miller is good, he is very, very good, but when he is bad, he is slightly under average.

Life Begins Again For 'Dead' Woman

EVIL IS AS EVIL DOES, by Rosemary Gatenby. M.S. Mill Co., Inc., distributed by William Morrow and Co. (published in Canada by George J. McLeod Ltd.), N.Y. 1967. $4.50.

Reviewed by

MARJORIE MENHENETT

Identified as its author's first mystery, this novel by Rosemary Gatenby shows a certain faint promise of better things to come, though it is not in itself a first-rate example of its kind.

The heroine — or anti-heroine — is cleverly conceived, though her characterization does not, in the end, strike one as sufficiently credible. Betty Graham, once Liz Mellinder, is a female Iago, obsessively egocentric and totally amoral, who gratefully seized an opportunity to be presumed dead in a train accident in order to escape from a husband and child who did not fulfil her notions of the glamorous kind of life she was entitled to.

After the accident has been related in the Prologue, we meet her again some five years later: possessed of a new name and a new and wealthier husband but understandably nervous because his job has forced them to return to New York and she fears being recognized by someone who knew her as Liz Mellinder.

But even if one accepts the fact that Liz-Betty is truly so driven by the desire for money and social status that she would abandon her husband and child by a rather difficult and chancy manoeuvre (in this age of comparatively easy divorces), and then remarry, still without bothering to get a divorce, we are hard put to see why yet another amoral individual, who took advantage of that same train wreck to further his fortunes by murdering his father-in-law, should even consider silencing Betty for fear she will recognize and betray him.

She stands to lose as much as he does if the true story of their activities should ever come out. The major weakness of the novel is its failure to supply adequate motivation for the criminal activities of its characters.

Still, the novel moves rapidly, and there is no lack of excitement of a number of different sorts — from murder to love. One has some reason to hope that with practice Mrs. Gatenby will write something much more satisfying.

Others Are Persons, Not Things, Religions Discover in Dialogue

Roland de Corneille: CHRISTIANS AND JEWS: DIALOGUE, Longmans, Toronto, Cloth $4.50, Paper $2.25. Reviewed by Henry Summerfield.

Five years ago the experiment of a Christian-Jewish dialogue was initiated in the Anglican Diocese of Toronto. The director of the project, the Reverend Roland de Corneille, has written the present volume to explain its procedure and underlying philosophy.

•

The early chapters give a frank chronological account of the long series of persecutions to which Jews have been subjected at the hands of the major Christian churches during more than 15 centuries. It is shown that the coming of toleration in modern times was largely due to changes in the secular world.

Eschewing the traditional Christian aspiration of converting the Jews, the Reverend de Corneille based his project on the concepts of the late Martin Buber, the famous Jewish philosopher who held that a true dialogue depends on the rare ability to approach another person as a person and not as a thing—as a "Thou," not an "It". He who meets another on these terms will himself become a full person in the encounter.

The author gives a comprehensive account of the project and includes practical details for those who wish to initiate their own. In preparatory church meetings congregants disclosed their prejudiced, stereotyped and self-contradictory images of the Jewish character. (Their comparative freedom from specifically religious hostility is far from universal.) Historical factors which have limited and moulded Jews (factors which are still living memories in the case of immigrants from less emancipated countries) were explained to them. Interfaith meetings were then arranged at both clerical and lay levels.

The program seems to have been a remarkable success. Though contacts of this kind between personal friends bringing insight into each other's religious and family life are in no way new, such communication between groups is a considerable achievement. Jewish suspicions that this is yet another subtle attempt at conversion and Christian fears that a weakening of their faith is implied have to be overcome.

•

To add a Jewish view of the Toronto program, Rabbi Balfour Brickner has written a postscript combining necessary frankness about the more conservative part of the Jewish community with great enthusiasm for the project. Both the Reverend De Corneille and Rabbi Brickner believe that the experience of dialogue may deepen the participant's appreciation of his own faith and help to combat the growth of indifference and hostility to religion as such.

The Reverend de Corneille writes simply in a very readable style and this account of a wholly admirable movement may be thoroughly recommended to all interested in the subject.

REDEMPTION

Having been tenant long to a rich Lord,
Not thriving, I resolved to be bold,
And make a suit unto Him, to afford
A new small-rented lease, and cancel the old.

In heaven at His manor I Him sought,
They told me there, that He was lately gone
About some land, which He had dearly bought
Long since on earth, to take possession.
I straight returned, and knowing His great birth,
Sought Him accordingly in great resorts;
In cities, theatres, gardens, parks and courts:
At length I heard a ragged noise and mirth
Of thieves and murderers: there I Him espied,
Who straight, Your suit is granted, said, and died.

—George Herbert, 1593-1633.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Prime goal for young acting students in the English speaking world has been for many years the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

Or — and a hair-breadth close second — the Old Vic Theatre School.

As it happens there is evidence that the feeling is amply justified and not merely a "far hills" or Anglophile complex.

The present domination of the stage in this hemisphere by British actors is undeniable.

The great families of the theatre — the Redgraves and the Mills; the towering actors — Burton, Scofield, Gielgud, Richardson and that prince of them all, Olivier, reign supreme in New York as well as in London.

In recent months several leading American theatre commentators have discussed the merits of British actors and the British theatre and the reasons for their ascendency over those of the United States.

Young Canadians, therefore, with serious theatrical ambitions, are justified in looking to London as their mecca, and fortunate indeed if they can achieve it.

For as you might guess it is not easy to gain acceptance to the major British schools. Victoria's Dougal Fraser who was accepted by three, including Canada's National Theatre School, chose RADA.

With his several roles in local productions as an invaluable background (Bottom in Midsummer Night's Dream, Sir Epicure Mammon in The Alchemist, the lawyer in One-Way Pendulum) and a B.A. (theatre major) from University of Victoria, Dougal arrived in London in January.

What is it like to be an overseas student at RADA?

A recent letter from Dougal is rather like looking through a keyhole, getting a kaleidoscope of impressions, with every now and then, a bit of vivid detail.

The class of 30 includes one other Canadian, three Americans, a boy from Turkey and one from Israel. All the rest are from the United Kingdom.

The Victoria actor describes "seemingly endless classes in movement and voice production." All first term people are presumed, he says, to know nothing.

Discipline Before Freedom

"Although a shock at first, it soon becomes commonplace to be told that one's shoulders are misplaced, one's pelvis is wrong, a foot is lazy, a knee is bone-idle, and that one was able to come to school at all is a major miracle.

"At Uvic I was told repeatedly that my voice needed a lot of work; judging from comments on this side, it is not quite as major a disaster as the floods in Florence, but almost," Dougal continues.

"After lengthy relaxing exercises, the first cautious whisperings are allowed to bloom into a projected voice."

He is discovering that the hours upon hours spent in this work, in mime and with teachers who are specialists in such specifics as Restoration movement, are based on the tenet that through technique only comes the freedom to create.

"Our first test was to do an amended Act III of Gorky's The Lower Depths," Dougal writes.

"One thing which I found very stimulating about the play, especially from the way in which it was directed, was the tremendous sense of security I received in knowing to an nth degree the substructure of my character (the Baron)."

And then he adds something which I wish all serious amateur actors would mark well and inwardly digest.

"We had to be present at all rehearsals whether our scene was being rehearsed or not, and this entailed listening to others' directions, which gave to us all a great empathy one with the other, and with each other's parts as well as our own."

Dougal feels that while it is early days yet, he has already grasped something.

"By getting rid of mannerisms, by grasping a technique of movement and of speaking that frees one from the worry of the "how" to grapple with the "why," I think this is the essential benefit of studying at RADA, or indeed at any drama school," he says.

Denise To Speak In April 22-29 Guild Production

Denise Wood, the 12-year-old actress who made such a deep impression on audiences as blind, deaf and dumb Helen Keller in Victoria Theatre Guild's The Miracle Worker, gets to talk in the next Guild production.

Opening on April 22 and playing through at Langham Court Theatre until April 29, Philip King's comedy On Monday Next is all about a theatrical troupe preparing for an opening.

Director of the light and lively piece is Ted Gaskell.

It replaces the earlier announced Witness for the Prosecution which ran into casting difficulties.

Rehearsing under Mr. Gaskell, besides Denise Wood, are Richard Litt, Phyllis Gaskell, Stanley Bowles, Doreen Renton, Jim Cotton, Dave Foster, Alan Wyatt and Barbara Copeland.

Glass Walls

Glass walls are only one of the many new trends towards beauty and convenience which are highlighted in the Chatelaine Expo 67 House. A feeling of light, space and air is evident throughout the house from the first step into the vaulted living room with its vast floor-to-ceiling, wall-to-wall window, that softly floods the living room and family room with light, filtered through curtains of Fortrel extending over the huge windows.

FOCUS

By BRAD NUGENT

Well, Victoria promoters have finally found a way to eliminate trouble and fights at local open dances.

Instead of trying to keep the usual group of trouble-makers quiet at a dance, they just close the door to them.

At the last couple of dances where certain bad elements have been refused admission there has been no sign of trouble other than a few harsh words at the door.

Such a dance was the Friday, March 17, Battle of the Bands.

Round one of this three-week contest saw the 7th Edition and The Pacific Scandel take the honors that will put them on stage at Club Tango March 31 with three other city bands sounding-off for the title of Victoria's best band.

And at this, the deciding bout, the promoter promises a good clean dance with the hoodlums left outside the Tango, where they belong.

Noted Conductor Here April 2

An oustanding Canadian-born, British-trained conductor will be brought to Victoria to conduct a special University of Victoria-sponsored symphony concert.

On Sunday, April 2, at 8 p.m. in the Uvic Gordon Head gymnasium, Harry Newstone, resident director of the Sacramento Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the Victoria Symphony Orchestra in a single concert.

NEWSTONE . . . special concert

FREE CONCERT

Local symphony fans get this concert free of admission charge. This is in part due to the Victoria Musicians' Association, Local 247, which has assisted the university by arranging a grant from the Recorded Music Industries Trust Fund.

Free tickets must be obtained and will be available from Wednesday on, at Munro's Book Store, 753 Yates Street, Eaton's ticket centre and the Student Union Building on campus.

Mr. Newstone's program will include a Rossini Overture, La Scala di Seta, the Haydn "Clock" and Mozart "Haffner" Symphonies, and a short piece by Delius — On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring.

WINNIPEG-BORN

Born in Winnipeg, Mr. Newstone grew up in London, England. He studied there and at the Accademia di Santa Cecilia in Rome, where he was awarded the Diploma of the Perfection Course in Conducting.

He has conducted most of the leading orchestras in Great Britain, including the BBC Symphony, the Philharmonia, the Royal Philharmonic, the London Symphony and also with distinction in Berlin, Hamburg, Copenhagen, Budapest, Prague and Jerusalem.

Since 1960 he has been an annual guest of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Vancouver and has also conducted the Vancouver Symphony and in Toronto.

Mr. Newstone was appointed to his present post in 1965 after the Sacramento Symphony had had a season of guests in its search for a new conductor.

The orchestra under his direction has made great strides and has played to sold-out houses and to enthusiastic public and press acclaim.

The conductor spends about two-thirds of the year in North America.

The rest of the time he is in Europe with his Haydn Orchestra which he formed in London in 1949, and as a guest with other orchestras and with the BBC.

Last year he recorded about 60 programs for the BBC.

Recently he contracted for another season at Sacramento, but he is reported to be interested in the resident director's post with Victoria Symphony.

Symphony board members will have this in mind when he conducts his concert here.

The April 2 concert is the third symphony performance this season to be sponsored by University of Victoria and organized by the School of Fine Arts.

It is one of a number of projects by the university designed to involve the community in campus cultural activity.

Accordionist Rocketed Out of Pits

Although fabulous Will Starr was considered a musical prodigy with the accordion at the age of nine, he was twice that age before he was discovered and precipitated into a successful professional career.

Starr, who comes to Victoria with the Breath of Scotland concert party April 1, credits the late well-loved Scottish singer Robert Wilson with his "break."

He was working as a bavin boy in a Croy coalmine and playing Sunday concerts at Dunoon when Robert Wilson happened to hear him and invited him to play the following Sunday in Forfar with the famous White Heather troupe.

INSTANT HIT

He was an instant success and recording contracts, personal appearances and tours soon spread his reputation as a master accordionist around the globe.

World fame and popularity have never caused the beetle-browed Scottish entertainer to forget his humble beginning nor his respect and admiration for the great artist to whom he feels he owes everything.

"GREATEST"

"He was the greatest man I have ever known," Starr says. "At times he was like a father and a mother—helping me with contract and other business details of which I knew very little in those early days."

The Breath of Scotland party, which includes also tenor Dennis Clancy, singer-comedian Jimmy Neil and champion Highland dancer Sandra Bald Jones, will give one performance at the McPherson at 8:30, April 1.

A VOICE FROM THE GALLERY

Art Radicals Join Establishment In Time

By TONY EMERY

One of the interesting things about taking an interest in art or politics is the way that the "far-out" radicals of one decade become the middle-of-the roaders in the next one, and by the time that a generation has passed are considered as pillars of the Establishment.

Emery

The change is usually both an internal one, in the gradual hardening of a self-image, and an external one, in the way in which the artist or politican is regarded by other people.

I was reminded of this observable shift the other night when I was listening to Barry Lord, editor of Arts-Canada, giving voice to ideas which struck some people as being impossibly, destructively radical. They are, however, so widely held by his generation that one does not need a very highly-polished crystal ball to be certain that this point of view is on the way to being the middle-of-the-road position of the late 1970s, and last word in old millinery by the 1980s.

What kind of art, I found myself wondering, will be the focus of attention for the cultural revolutionaries of the late '70s, to be brandished like a banner in the face of crusty old Barry Lord when he is pushing 40 and ripe, in the eyes of the new wave of "hippies", for retirement?

•

When Herbert Siebner came to Victoria over a dozen years ago his work struck many people as being outrageously "far-out," in spite of the fact that it was largely figurative. I wonder how many of the visitors to his present show in Pandora's Box would regard him still as a cultural Bolshevik?

He calls the show "Twenty Years of Faces" and the dominant theme throughout is the human head. It is an extraordinarily impressive documentation of Siebner's deployment of his considerable talent — virtuosity is a word that will come to mind on several occasions as you tour the gallery — in the service of a humanistic view of life.

When Russell Harper in his recent, compendious survey, "Painting in Canada," referred to Siebner as a "colder and more impersonal worker" than the Vancouver painters Shadbolt, Smith, Jarvis and Korner I was struck by the inaccuracy of the remark.

In human terms, surely, the man who has never left the human being out of his work is entitled to be considered at least as warm and personal as painters who have seldom, if ever, alluded to the presence of humans in the landscape?

There are changes of style and of medium between the romantically introspective brooding acrylic and plaster "Searching and Finding" of 1967, but the constancy of Siebner to a central preoccupation with the human face and head is pointed up by the little 1958 brush drawing just above "Searching and Finding."

All of Siebner's work is based on his rare gift as a vital and compelling draughtsman. In a long and characteristic utterance pinned up in the gallery he appeals for a retention of humanistic values in the face of the engulfing wave of technological and other manifestations of change. It is a measure of Herbert's stature as a painter that the statement is unnecessary for those who have eyes to see. The message is plain in the works on the walls.

Choral Society Delays Messiah

Two performances of Handel's Messiah scheduled by Victoria Choral Society for the end of April have been postponed.

Reasons given for the postponement are the visit of the Red Army Chorus in the same week, and the particularly heavy schedule of rehearsals recently undertaken by the Choral Society for the Verdi Requiem performance.

New dates for the Messiah presentation at the McPherson Playhouse will bring it into the Christmas 1967 season.

The workmen completing our expanded facilities (you must see the project, we can't tell you) were talking about voting.
"See where the city plans to spend $10,350 in a get-out-the-vote campaign this year," said the carpet man.
"I could save them the money," said the cabinet-maker.
He said the province should let the mayor levy a non-voter tax.
"Charge anyone who does not vote $5. That would bring them out and it wouldn't cost anything. If not, it would make money for the city. About 12,000 voters didn't vote last year. That would be $60,000 toward a civic auditorium."
"Might work," said the carpet man. "If you don't vote you can hardly complain at anything."

RECORD REVIEWS

Top Boheme By Beecham

By PAUL HUME
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON. — Low-priced records of excellent quality and superb performances flood the market these days. Marked for sale at $2.50 but usually selling for less, such labels as Angel's Seraphim, Philips's World Series, and Victor's Vics Discs make it possible to buy first class stereo and mono records at incredibly low cost.

Seraphim's original list came to me without what is perhaps its finest item, the "Boheme," done by Beecham. Though non-stereo, I know no performance of this opera that approaches the beauty of the conducting, playing, and singing, with a cast of stars including Victoria de Los Angeles, Lucina Amara, Bjoerling, Merrill, Rearson, Corena, Tozzi. Made just 10 years ago, it has a radiance of spirit no other recorded performance ever attained.

MOTHER GOOSE

The new Seraphim list includes Beecham's Franck Symphony, which I rate with Monteux's as the finest to be heard anywhere. This is stereo, 60012.

There is also a marvelous Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 3 with Solomon and the Philharmonia, 60019; an indescribably lovely set of Ravel's "Mother Goose," Stravinsky's "Firebird" Suite, and Bizet's "Children Games," by the Philharmonia under Giulini, on 60022.

The World Series, put out by Philips. offers among its finest items a brilliant Liszt recital by Gyorgy Cziffra, on which the Fantasy and Fugue on Bach, usually heard on the organ, is stunning, as is his "St. Francis Walking on the Waters," receiving its first great reading on discs, on PHC 9005.

There is a poetic but exciting 2nd Tschaikowsky Piano Concerto by Nikita Magaloff, with the London Symphony under Colin Davis, on PHC 9007, and a record by I Musici of Geminiani Concerti Grossi, Op. 7, that is not less than magnificent music and playing.

JUNIOR OPERA

Of three current versions of Mozart's junior opera, "Bastien und Bastienne," I prefer this one with Ilse Hollweg and Waldemar Kmennt, plus Walter Berry, with the Vienna Symphony under John Pritchard, on PHC 9024.

MGM puts out its lower-priced records on a Heliodor label, and includes among its notable discs one of Clara Haskil in two Mozart Piano Concertos, K. 459, and K. 595, with expecially knowing support from Ferenc Fricsay and the Berlin Philharmonic on 25042.

NEW RECORDINGS

Brand new recordings recent and notable: Brahms: Piano Concerto No. 1 in D minor. Rubinstein and the Boston Symphony under Leinsdorf. Victor 2917. Entirely all right, this is simply not on a par with the earlier one Rubinstein made with Reiner and the Chicago Symphony.

Bartok: Duos for Two Violins and the Violin Concerto No. 2. Menuhin, with Nell Gotkovsky, violin, and The New Philharmonia under Dorati. Angel 36360. The competition in this Concerto includes Stern with Berstein, and Silverstein with Leinsdorf.

Personal preference leads me to this new one, though I value the Stern highly. The presence of the six fascinating duos, marvelously played by Menuhin with Miss Gotkovsky is a valuable plus.

STRAUSS WORKS

Strauss: Don Quixote. Pierre Fournier with Berlin Philharmonic under Karajan. DGG 139009. Flawless, filled with poetry, brilliance in the orchestra and fabled solo playing from Fournier.

Prokofieff: Piano Concertos 1 and 2. John Browning with the Boston Symphony under Leinsdorf. Victor 2897. This makes three of the five Prokofieff Concertos that Browning has done with Leinsdorf, though the third is on the Capitol label.

TEEING OFF with a little golf practice while Waiting for Godot, are Jim Leard (left) as Vladimir, and James Netherton as Estrogen in the University of Victoria Campus Players' production of Samuel Beckett's play which opened at the Phoenix Theatre Friday. It will be repeated tonight and all next week, Monday through Saturday, with curtain at 8:30 p.m.

Youthful Ensembles Play With Vitality

Fine work being done with school instrumentalists was further demonstrated this week when the Oak Bay and Gordon Head Centennial Orchestra and the Greater Victoria Elementary Schools Orchestra presented a concert at Oak Bay Junior Secondary auditorium.

Under Bernard Rain's conducting, the youthful ensembles played with keen attention to musical detail and with vitality.

Solo violinists John Rigby and Ronald Comber demonstrated considerable promise in a concerto by Vivaldi.

Assisting on the program was the Moneterey School Choir which sang charmingly under the direction of Mrs. Lorna Griffiths.

Another feature was the appearance of the Peninsula Concert Orchestra conducted by Derek MacDermot.

This adult Saanich night school ensemble is well trained, responds to Mr. MacDermot's musicianly direction alertly and altogether achieves a pleasing effect.—A. J.

Happy Easter From Bastion

A beautiful, enchanted, dancing doll; a handsome prince; a wicked inventor, a pair of magic spectacles.

The Enchanted Princess has all of these, plus three of Victoria's most talented dancers, and singer-actor-entertainer Bill Hosie, to intrigue young people and provide an Easter holiday treat during the forthcoming week.

Adapted and directed by John Heath, Bastion's latest children's musical plays 2 p.m. matinees at the McPherson Playhouse Monday through Saturday.

In the cast are Paul Blakey, Eugene Gallant, Bill Hosie, Sylvia Hosie, Glenn MacDonald, and in the title role — Wendy Packard. Musical director is Peter Williams. Special choreography is by Paul Blakey, Sylvia Hosie and Wendy Packard.

In The Enchanted Princess, Bastion is experimenting with the presentation of a North American version of an English pantomime — with songs of the musical comedy variety, dance routines, and enough satire to make them appreciated by adults with a sense of humor.

Although musical play is recommended for children six years and over, the colorful costumes, clever puppets created by Master Spalanzani (Bill Hosie), and for good measure, an exciting chase plus a friendly clown, will hold the attention of youngsters of all ages.

Bastion is also continuing the free ice cream offer, for birthday parties attending the show. Numbers should be phoned in advance to 382-4112.

* * *

Three Bastion productions were rehearsed Sunday last. Director - playwright Patrick O'Neill began blocking his new theatre-in-the-round production, Barbecuing an Indian, Sunday afternoon, at Bastion's Government Street Studio Theatre, with Dan Christian, Barry Flatman, Joan Fordham, Ed Fordham, Glenn MacDonald, Ian McIntyre, and Bronwen Palfrey.

The production opens May 12.

In the evening at Government Street, Peter Mannering gathered part of his Point of Departure cast for a read-through.

Leading players Edwin Stephenson and Dan MacDonald are arriving from Toronto this week to join Victoria's Gertrude Ball, Jeremy Boultbee, Doreen Crook, Jim Dunn, Lawrence Eastick, John Heath, Bill Hosie, Markyta Mares, Ian McIntyre, Don McManus, Wendy Packard, Jonathan Raitt, John Richards and Nancy Watt.

The play, by Jean Anouilh, opens April 7, at the McPherson Plyhouse.

At the same time Sunday, John Heath, adapter and director of Bastion's Easter holiday musical for children, was at the Broad Street studio for a full dress run-through of The Enchanted Princess.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Surge by Western Oils Baffles Stock Experts

By LARRY DWORKIN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

High-flying western oil issues captured the spotlight on Canada's stock exchanges this week while other major groups seemed to lack direction.

Brokers were baffled by the late-week surge in oils and were unable to give any specific reasons for their success.

The Toronto exchange's western oil index, which measures the price movements of key oil stocks, jumped 5.45 to 145.27.

Sharpest gains involved companies exploring the Rainbow and Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

Dome Pete climbed 4⅞ to 56 after touching a high of 56¼, Canadian Superior 2⅛ to 33⅛, Banff 1½ to 14⅞ and Provo 1.05 to 5.95.

U.S. MAY NEED MORE

There have been reports Canada may become an increasingly important supplier of oil to the United States because U.S. reserves are not keeping pace with demand.

Brokers said this could only account for part of the move.

Industrials continued to fluctuate within a narrow range despite a strong New York market.

Volume also remained listless and totalled only 9,064,000 shares in the four-day week compared with the five-day total last week of 11,510,000.

GIVE SAME REASONS

Analysts continued to give the same reasons for the slumping volumes as they did in early February, including a weak mining and oil market, an increasing number of Canadians investing in U.S. securities and a lack of U.S. investor participation here.

The TSE's industrial index only managed a .27 gain to 162.76.

Moore Corp. advanced 2¼ to 99¼, Abestos Corp. 1⅝ to 25¼ and Distillers 1 to 39.

On the loss side, Great West Life fell 4 to 51½, International Minerals 3⅝ to 40⅝, Famous Players and Beaver Lumber 1½ each to 37 and 34'.

Banks fared better following Parliament's approval of changes in the Bank Act. Royal moved up 1¾ to 80¾ and Toronto-Dominion and Nova Scotia ½ each to 67½ and 76. Imperial-Commerce was down ¾ to 70.

Uranium stocks appeared headed for a breakout early in the week but profit takers trimmed their gains.

Denison added 1½ at 59 and Rio Algom ⅛ at 27⅝ after touching a high of 28⅛.

There has been considerable speculation that the U.S. may import Canadian uranium sooner than expected.

Among other base metals, Falconbridge and Inco each rose 1 to 88 and 94¾ while Pine Point eased ⅛ to 51⅛ despite a sharp increase in the company's 1966 earnings to $34,194,000 compared with $22,132,000 in 1965.

Home Building Boom Predicted

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Nicholson has predicted a record housing construction boom this spring.

He told a press conference the country is going to have housing problems, for an indefinite period but that the crisis stage appears to be over.

Mr. Nicholson, responsible for the federal government's housing program, also said that big city dwellers of the future are going to have to settle for apartments rather than single family dwellings.

Basis of his housing boom forecast was a set of figures on loan applications for direct government loans and government-insured loans.

Mr. Nicholson said that by mid-March, applications for insured loans were 80 per cent higher than 1966. They probably would be up 100 per cent by the end of April.

So far this year, direct government loans were 210 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year. In addition, non-government lending activity was substantially ahead of last year.

"We have no doubt whatever . . . that we will reach a level of 170,000 housing starts in the next five or six months," he said. "All our figures are, if anything, conservative."

Steelworkers Accept Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 650 steelworkers at an east-end Montreal plant, who had threatened to go on strike against Noranda Copper Mills Ltd., Friday voted by a narrow margin to accept a final offer from the company.

The employees, who now make a basic wage of $1.98 an hour, will get raises spread over four years to bring their salaries to a basic $2.55 by June, 1969.

Each man will also get a lump sum of $300.

Toronto-Dominion Boosts Dividend

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank announced Thursday it has increased its quarterly dividend to 60 cents a share from 55 cents, payable May 1 to shareholders of record March 31.

In 1966, the bank paid regular dividends of $2.20, plus a 20-cent extra dividend.

Banks Prepare To Re-Enter NHA Mortgage Field

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto-Dominion Bank said Thursday all its branches will be ready to accept applications for conventional mortgages April 1, subject to the new banking legislation now before the Senate becoming law.

The legislation, which would allow chartered banks to enter the conventional mortgage field, has been approved by the Commons.

Banks previously could accept mortgages under the National Housing Act, but bank officials say that since 1958 interest rates made it uneconomical for them to do so.

The new legislation would permit an increase in the interest ceiling banks could charge, giving them leeway to re-enter the NHA mortgage field.

The Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal also announced it will offer conventional and NHA mortgages to the public as soon as the new act becomes law.

Sulphate Mill Set

EDMONTON (CP) — Inland Chemicals Canada Ltd. has announced an aluminum sulphate mill will be built at Prince George. The plant, which initially will produce liquid alum for pulp mills, is scheduled for completion in November this year.

3-Month Lag in U.S. Business

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. business lagged in the first quarter of 1967 but the head of the federal reserve board predicts improvement later in the year.

Automobile sales in mid-March declined, steel demand slipped and the rise in personal income slowed in February.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the federal reserve board, said "a resurgence in economic activity is the most likely prospect as 1967 progresses."

He told the Senate finance committee this week that reinstatement of business investment tax incentives now would help avoid hesitation in the economy in coming months.

Martin said abatement of inflationary pressures has permitted the federal reserve to resume vigorous expansion of bank reserves and that the economy can take a faster pace of investment without spurring new pressures on prices.

Martin also supported President Johnson's proposal for a six-per-cent surcharge on income taxes later this year.

Later the Senate finance committee voted to restore the seven-per-cent business investment but tax credit but on far less liberal terms than approved by the House of Representatives.

Sales of U.S.-made cars in mid-March fell 19.6 per cent to 191,661 from 238,349 a year earlier. General Motors reported a decline of 20.5 per cent in its sales. Ford 23.3 per cent, Chrysler 10.8 per cent, and American Motors 5.1 per cent.

Steel mills reported demand is continuing to weaken as they move into a period when purchases normally climb seasonally.

Future Looks Bleak for Gold Mines

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's troubled gold-mining industry probably will have to struggle along for another few years without a substantial increase in federal assistance.

The industry's problem—rising production costs while the gold price remains fixed and a shortage of skilled labor—will get a thorough airing here next week at the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

But informants say there is little chance of increased federal aid in the near future.

The Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, passed in 1948, runs out at the end of this year. It provides subsidies of about $15,000,000 a year and is certain to be renewed at the next session of Parliament. But changes in its application are unlikely.

PRICE $35 U.S. AN OUNCE

The price of gold has been fixed at $35 U.S. an ounce since 1934. Production costs have risen steadily since then.

The federal government now pays a subsidy of up to $12.33 an ounce for gold from mines where production costs exceed $26.50 an ounce. Even with this subsidy, mines have difficulty staying in business.

The present subsidy is based on only two-thirds of a mine's gold production, and a delegation from Canadian mining communities last fall asked the act be amended to include all production.

The Mining Association of Canada asked last month for a 50-per-cent increase in federal subsidies, warning that half of Canada's 47 operating mines will be forced to close unless extra aid is granted.

A dramatic rise in the price of gold, say to the $70-an-ounce level advocated by President de Gaulle of France, could change the picture. But experts say any price increase of this magnitude is a long way off.

There is some speculation Energy Minister Pepin is considering a long-term solution to the problems of gold communities along the lines of the government's decision on the Cape Breton coal field.

In Cape Breton, the government is taking over the uneconomic coal mines and plans to close them down gradually, using money saved from subsidies along with other capital to help establish alternative industry.

The largest gold centres in Ontario already are shifting to new industrial bases, although these too are dependent on minerals.

Despite pockets of unemployment near some mining areas, gold mines are facing an increasing labor shortage, due in part to low wages forced by the uneconomic position of many mines.

The industry has advocated a lowering of education standards for immigrants to help fill these jobs, but sources say the government is not sure this would solve the problem.

"Immigrants might work in the mines for a few months but they'd want to head south to other industries once they become aware of differences in pay scales," says a mines branch official.

"If we forced them to stay in the mines we'd be accused of bringing in slave labor for the mine owners."

They have decided that their hard-earned savings would better serve them to maintain a higher standard of living in their declining years, rather than to be left in their estate.

If this too, is your feeling, perhaps you will find the following information interesting:

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month.

$10,000 at monthly payments of $70 including 7½% interest, would take 20 years to spend; $73 month, 25 years; $80 month, 20 years; $92 month, 15 years; $100 month, 13 years; $118 month, 10 years; $138 month, 8 years; $153 month, 7 years; $200 month, 5 years.

Victoria Mortgage Corporation will mail a monthly cheque, applying on any investment of $10,000 or over, for ANY AMOUNT YOU SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

Terms of all 7½% Victoria Mortgage Debentures provide that the unused portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or before maturity in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture. No acquisition cost.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Optimism Voiced For Bank Shares

By AB KENT
Business Editor

KENT

Optimism for improved performance of Canadian chartered bank stocks is being voiced by some investment dealers.

They anticipate not only increased returns in the banking business, based on liberalization of the Bank Act, but on market activity in view of an impending share split for at least two of the five majors.

By comparison with many other common shares in the last six years, bank stocks have not shown much price variation. Up to January of this year they have tended to stay within about $5 of their high-low range since 1960, whereas some industrial stocks of equivalent esteem have doubled, sometimes tripled in the same period.

In the near future—probably by May 1 at the latest—the revised Bank Act will go into effect, allowing banks to increase interest rates up to 7¼ per cent for the rest of this year and to split their shares up to 10-1.

Ultimately the interest ceiling will disappear.

These and wider mortgage lending powers together with reduced cash and secondary reserve stipulations are significant indicators that banks will be making more money, increasing dividends to shareholders.

Banks planning stock spilts can anticipate more trading interest as more buyers will be in a position to hold the blue chip equities.

Share values have crept up steadily in past weeks, giving current shareholders of stock likely to split a two-fold prospect of capital gain.

If they bought during recent lows they could have a capital gain before they split. By holding on after the split—as more buyers get into the market—they could conceivably gain some more.

Canadian Mutual Funds Association president W. Allan Manford this week welcomed the start of the federal-provincial study of mutuals and investment contract companies.

It is suggested that an economic study of the mutual fund industry could be a useful contribution by the association to the federal-provincial study. CMFA governors will decide whether to hire counsel for the job.

Public Money Supply Shows Healthy Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — The public money supply increased $182,000,000 to $21,035,000,000 in the week prior to March 15, the Bank of Canada announced Thursday.

This total of the currency outside the banks and of the general public's bank deposits in the chartered banks increased $11,000,000 during the week to $979,000,000 March 15. This brought the total money supply to $22,014,000,000.

The central bank also reported that the average yield on seven long-term government bonds stood at 5.45 per cent Wednesday, down from 5.47 per cent a week earlier.

The current yields are the lowest since January, 1966. In Wednesday's auction of three-month government treasury bills the average yield was 4.1 per cent, lowest since Sept. 22, 1965.

The money market pressures prevailing in 1965 produced a steady climb in interest rates and the peak on three-month bills was 5.20 per cent last Nov. 16. Conditions have been easing ever since.

Hydro Pays $2 Million For System at Kitimat

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority announced Thursday it has purchased the electrical distribution system in Kitimat from Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. for $2,000,000.

In announcing the purchase, Hydro co-chairman Dr. H. J. Keenleyside said the transaction would be effective April 1 and transfers all electrical distribution and customer service facilities in Kitimat to the provincially-owned utility.

Dr. Keenleyside said several of the existing offices and operating personnel will transfer to B.C. Hydro while others will remain with Alcan.

The existing office and warehouse in Kitimat will continue to be used for the distribution system.

Dr. Keenleyside also announced the appointment of G. G. Weir as manager of the Kitimat district for Hydro. Mr. Weir, formerly B.C. Hydro district manager at Vanderhoof, will take over his new duties April 1.

Commenting on the sale, E. W. McKernan, manager of Alcan's power operations in B.C., said the primary function of the company's power generating facilities at Kitimat has been to supply power for the Alcan aluminum smelter.

"At Kitimat, Alcan, of necessity became involved in operating a power distribution system in the community at a time when there was no other agency available to perform such a service.

"Community distribution of power is normally the function of a public utility and we have always felt that our system in Kitimat would eventually come under such ownership."

Mr. McKernan said the demand for electrical power in Kitimat is increasing annually and development of the B.C. Hydro system made it logical for Hydro to handle the future electrical requirements of the area.

Dr. Keenleyside said the purchase will mean slight rate increases for some of the Kitimat area's 2,500 electrical users while others will experience decreases as rates are brought into line with those charge other B.C. Hydro customers.

He said the Kitimat power system would eventually be tied in with the integrated province-wide power grid.

The transaction does not involve the Kemano generating facilites of Alcan which provide power for the smelter. These will continue to be operated by Alcan.

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of Toronto Star Ltd. voted at a special meeting Thursday to amalgamate the company with Charth Investment and Publishing Co. Ltd.

Charth is a private company which now owns controlling interest in Toronto Star Ltd.

The amalgamation agreement provides for division of existing shares into voting and non-voting shares.

Under the agreement, there would be four classes of shares. Of the two classes of voting srares, the common would carry cosh dividends and Class D stock dividends. In non-voting classes, B shares would have a cash dividend and C a stock dividend.

There also would be provision to create Class A redeemable preference shares, to be used to pay stock dividends.

Woodwards Propose Share Split

VANCOUVER (CP) — The board of directors of Woodward Stores Ltd., a department store chain with outlets in British Columbia and Alberta, has recommended to shareholders that voting shares of the company be split two for one.

Shores now are trading at about $28.

W. G. Skinner, vice-president and secretary, said Friday the move should make the shares more marketable and more actively traded.

Directors also will propose at the annual meeting May 2 that the shares be changed to shares of no par value. They now have a par value of $5.

This change was explained as a technical one only. Instead of recalling all share certificates an issuing new ones, shareholders will receive additional certificates to the number now held.

There are 2,345,365 Class A and 898,350 Class B shares outstanding, each with one vote per share, with most of the B shares held by members of the Woodward family.

Directors, at a meeting Thursday, also declared a half-year dividend of 40 cents a share and an extra dividend of five cents a share, payable April 29 to shareholders of record April 2.

The new dividends make a total of 80 cents per share from earnings in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31. Dividend for the previous year was 75 cents.

Battle on West Coast Dominates Convention

OTTAWA (CP) — The 66-year-old International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers completed its first Canadian conference Friday by voting for a one-year study of the "problems of Canadian identity" within the union.

West Coast delegates sought the measure as a weapon in their battle with breakaway members in the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, who claim the international union is American-dominated.

The three-day conference heard repeated calls for unity from speakers, including Joseph Tonelli of Fort Edward, N.Y., the international president, and Claude Jodoin, Canadian Labor Congress president.

TALK MERGER

The 181,000-member PSW plans top-level merger talks in Albany, N.Y., next week with the 112,000-member United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union.

The PSW has about 40,000 Canadian members and will negotiate in about 85 pulp and paper mills across Canada next year.

The union, which in the 1920s numbered Joey Smallwood, now Newfoundland premier, among its organizers, is among the few internationals in which Canadian members claim better contracts than their American counterparts.

During the conference, parity with U.S. workers was discarded as an issue and the union advised locals to seek instead a guaranteed salary next year to replace the hourly time clock with the weekly pay cheque.

A guideline for 1968 negotiations lays stress on contract uniformity in a number of areas, among them:

—Pension plans that would be uniform and fully portable, with early retirement clauses linked to automation problems.

—A new automation clause with guards against loss of status or earnings; provision for on-the-job retraining, and "mobility allowances" that would provide against losses suffered through sale of a house.

—Industrial uniformity in group insurance plans, a measure also aimed at offsetting automation with high mobility.

—New seniority provisions to deal with jobs lost through "total or partial elimination of certain occupations and creation of new ones."

TROUBLES IN WEST

The 1968 negotiating guidelines were overshadowed by the troubles of the West Coast group.

An initial motion by Joe Kane of Powell River, sought "greater Canadian autonomy" through regional election of vice-presidents.

It was withdrawn in favor of a motion by Eric Pemberton of Port Alberni, to establish a five-man committee to look into the union's Canadian problems.

It won the unanimous support of the 218 delegates, including all 42 from B.C.

The rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, made up mainly of breakaways, uses the new Maple Leaf flag as a symbol and has been cutting into PSW membership with its changes of American domination.

On Thursday, Joe Morris, executive vice-president of the CLC said:

"There's a gang of cannibals out in B.C. who are doing the finest job of making a dirty rag of the Canadian flag."

He said "a knock in the head" might do more to settle the B.C. problems than talk.

He told B.C. delegates they will have to "get down and fight in the dirt" to overwhelm the rival.

"They want power in the interests of a political idea totally alien to trade unionsim."

INVESTIGATE BUGGING

Last fall the B.C. government established a royal commission to look into the electronic bugging of a Vancouver conventon of the Pulp and Paper Workers.

Pat O'Neal, the International's western organizer, admitted to the commission that he hired the private detective who did the bugging.

His involvement never became an issue on the floor of the conference, though a splinter group in the B.C. delegation did some behind-the-scenes grumbling about it.

The splinter group said privately that resentment against Mr. O'Neal arises from the part allegedly played by the RCMP in spying on the rival union.

However, other B.C. delegates said some members are trying to use the incident to settle old political grudges against Mr. O'Neal.

'Location Supports IWA Idea'

All workers at the Tahsis Company should be represented by one union, the International Woodworkers of America said Wednesday.

In a statement often critical of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, the union said:

"The IWA is not raiding the established local unions of the pulp-sulphite union.

"At Gold River (on the west coast of Vancouver Island) the IWA is only requesting variance of the terms of certification as bargaining agent for all employees of Tahsis Company Limited to comply with the original intent of the certification.

"Georgraphical location as well as the integration of the company's operation makes it desirable that all employees should be represented by one union to ensure efficient service and maximum bargaining strength."

The Gold River mill is expected to start operations this summer. At present there is no union at the pulp mill.

Both the IWA application and one from the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada will be considered by the Labour Relations Board in Vancouver next month.

The pulp-sulphite union does not have an application for this mill before the board.

The IWA statement, issued by second vice-president Del Pratt, criticized statements last week by pulp-sulphite which in turn were critical of the IWA's one-union concept for the whole forest products industry.

Mr. Pratt said the IWA "will not deviate from its traditional policy of serving the interests of the workers in all sections of the forest products industry, especially when faced with the necessity of organizing the unorganized."

The pulp-sulphite union had no membership organization in the Tahsis Company and its ability to service adequately workers in the area "is seriously impaired" by the 22,000-member breakaway in the U.S. Pacific Northwest and a similar development in B.C., he said.

Airport Open Next Month

DUNCAN—The new 1,650-foot airstrip in the unorganized area of Glenora will be open to limited air traffic next month.

Terry Kinch, vice-president of the recently formed Duncan Flying Club said Friday they have been assured of the support of Victoria Flying Club.

He said: "Victoria has offered us the use of one or two planes on an hourly basis, and these planes will be checked by one of their instructors."

'Knock on the Head' Statement Blasted

NANAIMO (CP)—Gordon Wickham, president of the Nanaimo local of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, said Friday a Canadian Labor Congress officer is advocating goon squad tactics in a membership battle in the pulp industry.

Mr. Wickham was commenting on a statement by Joe Morris, CLC executive vice-president, who advised British Columbia delegates to the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers' convention at Ottawa Thursday to fight.

There is no substitute for a "knock on the head," Mr. Morris said.

Mr. Wickham said the Canadian union does not fight—"we base our appeal on Canadian automony and the right of the rank and file to conduct their own affairs."

He said the Morris statement "shows how desperate the International has become."

Mr. Wickham made his comments in an interview.

The Canadian union is not a member of the CLC. It has been fighting a membership battle with the International at Harmac and at other operations in B.C.

Price-Falt Team Wins Outboard Race

DUNCAN—A new sporting event on the local Easter calendar Friday was outboard motor boat racing.

Double event winner was the team of Rick Price and Bernie Falt of Cowichan Bay.

Together they won the "A" event (for boats with 15 to 22 horsepower), and the "B" event, for boats with 8 to 15 h.p.

In both races the winners had comfortable winning margins over the nine-mile course from the Government Wharf at Cowichan Bay to the White Bridge on the Cowichan River and back.

Jim Quayle and David Lewars, also of Cowichan Bay, were the victims of the race.

Their boat hit an air boil in the river's turbulent water and the motor jumped off. Quayle managed to grab hold of the engine in the water but the incident put them out of the race.

There were 12 entries, nine of them in the big engine class.

BABY ROCKS GO TO WORK

Victoria Junior Shamrocks, with new coach Fred Wooster at the helm, will open their lacrosse training sessions with an 11 a.m. workout at Hampton Park on Sunday.

The team will work out again Monday at Lansdowne Junior High, starting at 6:45.

Anyone interested in trying out is invited to attend.

Knott, McMynn Awarded Berths On Junior Squad

B.C. Badminton Association officials rate their junior squad "one of the strongest in years," but only two Victoria players earned spots on the 12-member team scheduled to compete in the Canadian championships at Winnipeg next week.

Victorians named were Bob McMynn and Pat Knott. Others on the team, all from the mainland, are Richard Bourne, Kelvin Ludbrook, Barbara Nash, Jack Bourne, Randy Bourne, Jane Dubord, Chris Blaney, Linda Westhind, Kerry Holloway and Sue McClarty.

Play in the nationals starts Monday.

Mary Leads Legion Into National Final

VANCOUVER — Two Vancouver clubs were meeting today for the Canadian senior women's basketball championship but it could be a Victoria player who emerges as the individual star of the double-loss elimination tournament.

Mary Coutts, picked up from Victoria by Mount Pleasant Legion for the tourney, contined her great play Friday, scoring 19 points as Mount Pleasant advanced to the final with a 54-43 win over Hamilton Kittens.

Vancouver Mols stayed in the running with a 51-45 triumph over Winnipeg St. Vital.

On Thursday, Mrs. Coutts contributed 13 points as the Legion crew upset Mols 51-45.

Thursday's defeat means the Mols must down the Legion twice today in order to retain the national title they won last year.

TROUBLE AT START

Mount Pleasant had a tough time getting started Friday as Hamilton rolled up a 15-13 lead by the end of the first quarter. Pat MacDonald led the Hamilton onslaught in the first period and ended up scoring 22 points, high for the game.

By the half, however, Mount Pleasant had taken a five-point lead and extended the margin to eight points going into the final quarter.

Mary Macdonald a former Hamilton star, paced the Mols' victory over Winnipeg, scoring 18 points.

Mount Pleasant converted 23 of 30 foul shots to earn the Thursday win over the Mols, who scored only 13 of 27 free tosses.

O.C. SOCCER RACE . . . . . . REMAINS WIDE OPEN

Giants in Scoreless Tie

LONDON (CP)—A crowd of 54,000 saw Liverpool and Manchester United fight a goalless draw in English League soccer's battle of the giants today, leaving the First Division championship race still wide open.

Third-place Nottingham Forest crept up a point on the two leaders with a surprise 2-0 away win against Sheffield Wednesday.

The draw at Liverpool kept Manchester United two points ahead in the standings, with 46 points against 44 for Liverpool, 43 for Forest and 41 for Tottenham Hotspur, winner by the only goal at Leicester.

All have played 33 matches. The program ends next month after 42 matches and the league champion goes into the money-spinning European Cup.

United missed its centre forward David Herd, out for the rest of the season with a broken leg, and its other top players could seldom find a way past Liverpool's giant centre half Ron Yeats.

David Sadler, brought in as Herd's replacement, missed a great chance in the opening minutes. But Yeats and wing half Tom Smith kept Manchester's George Best and Denis Law under control.

Nottingham Forest fired in two first-half goals against Sheffield Wednesday, then relied on world - class goalkeeping by Peter Grummit to keep its lead intact.

Forest looked much the smoother side and scored first through winger Ian Moore in the 20th minute. Inside forward Trevor Wignall made it 2-0 second before the interval.

Tottenham's Jimmy Greaves was the match-winner at Leicester, beating the defence in the 43rd minute with an angled lob which gave winger Jimmy Robertson an easy goal.

Chelsea, beaten at home Friday by bottom - of - the - table Blackpool, brought out 16-year-old Ian Hamilton for his second game of the season and he helped the Londoners to a 2-1 win over Newcastle.

All the goals came in the first half — Tony Hately and Bobby Tambling for Chelsea and Peter Noble for Newcastle.

Defeat pushed Newcastle nearer the drop to Division II. Blackpool is bottom of the table with 18 points from 34 games, West Bromwich next with 22 from 32 and Newcastle just ahead with 24 points from 34.

West Bromwich took a point from Manchester City in a match which brought a storybook debut for city's 20-year-old Paul Hince. Six months ago he was a cub reporter. In his first match he scored twice in the 29th minute to give City a 2-0 half-time lead. West Brom pulled it back with goals by John Kaye and Doug Fraser.

CRASH KILLS PRO SKIER

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Peter Becvar, 25, a Toronto professional skier, was killed at Mount St. Louis resort Friday when he went over a small jump and hit a tree.

Tesing snow conditions, Becvar and eight other instructors were taking turns using a snow ridge as a low jump. Becvar went over the ridge too fast and crashed into a tree while in the air.

Native of Bad Gastein, Austria, Becvar worked as an instructor at the resort.

DECIDED ON FIRST BALLOT

ONLY INTERNATIONAL POLITICS CAN SPOIL IT

Finally . . . Canada Gets World Tournament . . . In 1970!

VIENNA (CP) — Canada, a power in the world hockey championships since they began in 1930, will be host to the world tournament in 1970, for the first time ever — unless international politics wrecks a program approved here Friday.

Canadian amateur hockey officials won in the committee room Friday the right to stage the 1970 competition. Canada received five votes more than the minimum required — 34 compared with 15 for Sweden and seven for Denmark in the secret ballot.

The Canadian site will not be selected for some weeks.

The Canadian representatives had conducted a strong lobbying campaign after a series of rebuffs from the International Ice Hockey Federation. Strong Canadian bids had been turned down on three occasions in the last eight years.

The Canadians promised to entertain the East German team in 1970, although Atlantic pact policy is against any action that tends to recognize East Germany as a separate political entity. The German problem had scuttled past Canadian attempts to play host to the championships.

Gordon Juckes, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he hoped the improving climate in East-West relations would produce a solution to the East German problem before 1970. In the event of failure to find some compromise, Canada would inform the IIHF a year in advance that it would relinquish the 1970 tournament.

As expected, the IIHF voted unanimously to hold the 1969 championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Canada had asked formally for the 1969 championships but didn't press its case in view of Czechoslovakia's desire to be host in celebration of the 60th anniversary of organized hockey in that country.

Yugoslavia, which staged the 1966 championships, was given the go-ahead to take the second- and third-division games off Czechoslovakia's hands in 1969.

Next year, the world tournament gives way to the 1968 Winter Olympics, at Grenoble, France, in which many of the same teams will participate.

The 25-country IIHF considered bids from Canada, Sweden and Denmark to hold the championships in 1970.

Canada was assured of eight North American votes, two from Japan, most of the 16 votes of West Europe excluding the 10-vote Scandinavian bloc, four votes held by J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the European Ice Hockey Federation, and South Korea's single vote.

In amassing 34 votes on the secret ballot, Canada must have picked up some support either from the East European bloc of 16 votes or some rebel Scandinavian ballots. It is probable Canada got either the three Finnish votes or the three of Czechoslovakia, which had expressed sympathy with Canada's bid.

Canada plans to hold the tournaments of the two lower divisions, B and C, which have eight teams each, as well as the championship Group A with its six teams. However, the IIHF is prepared to consider sending the B and C groups to some other country if an application is received.

"At the moment," said Juckes, "all the teams want to come to Canada in 1970."

"I don't think there is much chance that B and C groups will play elsewhere."

New IIHF regulations require the lower-division tournaments to be completed by Feb. 26 each year while the championship contest can begin not earlier than March 12.

The Canadians have not decided precisely how, where and when the tournaments would be staged in 1970, although the lower divisions are virtually certain to play in late February and A teams March 12 to 24.

Vancouver and Winnipeg have already bid for the double round-robin championship event, but Juckes and the CAHA president, Fred Page of Vancouver, said the choice of location remains open to all communities which can meet the requirements in arenas, accommodation and feeding for the visitors. The CAHA will decide at its annual meeting in May at Saskatoon on standards for receiving applications.

About 500 players and officials of 22 teams and 300 newspaper and broadcasting men as well as fans would need facilities in the $500,000 project.

The affirmative vote for Canada in 1970 eased Canadian displeasure at the repeated rebuffs it had suffered.

Page had indicated in a conversation some time ago with Swedish hockey officials that the Canadian public would be upset if Canada were turned down again. Canadian sources, however, denied published reports that Page had gone so far as to say Canada might pull out of the world championships if not given the 1970 tournament.

Clay Discovers U.S. Government Tough Opponent

(Times News Services)

The U.S. government filed a motion Friday opposing heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's appeal to the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here to stop his pending induction into the army.

Clay, who prefers to be known by his Black Muslim name of Muhammed Ali, filed two motions here Tuesday.

One asked for leave to appeal from the district court decision which denied him a temporary injunction to prevent his induction. The other asked the appeals court to grant a temporary restraining order to prevent the induction.

The court here has not acted on the case and court officials said Friday's action was a routine matter. The appeals court has not set date for the hearing.

The motion said the contentions raised by Clay "should be raised after, rather than before, his induction."

Clay is scheduled for induction April 11.

The government's move may have been responsible for postponment of planning Clay's next fight.

The New York World Journal Tribune said today that Clay has called off plans for title defences with Oscar Bonavena in Tokyo May 27 and Thad Spencer in San Francisco in July.

However, Herbert Muhammad, the champion's manager, denied that the bouts definitely have been cancelled.

"Instead of antagonizing the U.S. government by signing for title bouts to take place after April 11, Clay will make no commitments until the die is cast — induction into the army that day or sentence to jail or whatever legal alternative he has," the paper said.

Bob Galer, a truck driver from Burnaby, captured the men's crown in his first try, compiling a score of 2,340 in eight games. Shirley Miller of Calgary, who bowls in three leagues and has a 259 average, collared women's laurels with a score of 2,273.

Galer, who has two 400 games to his credit this season, beat Richard Grubb of Vancouver by five points. He had to knock down all the pins in the final frame to do it.

Oxford won by 3¼ lengths in 18 minutes, 52 seconds over the 4-mile course. Cambridge holds the record for the event—17:50.00 set in 1948.

Oxford won the toss, chose the south side of the river and led from start to finish.

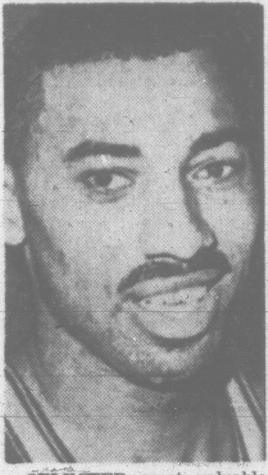
BRIEFLY: Two teams from the Vancouver Island zone have taken the lead in provincial hockey playoffs . . . Powell River Regals edged Prince George 3-1 Friday in the first game of a best-of-three intermediate finale for the Coy Cup . . . At Comox, the hometown Totems downed Dawson Creek 6-2 in the first game of the B.C. junior "B" final . . . At New Westminster, the Royals took a stranglehold on the provincial junior championship by defeating Penticton 5-4 . . . Royals lead the best-of-seven series 3-0.

A Continental Football League committee is studying two rules-change proposals that would add Canadian flavor to the game.

The proposals, put before the league by Montreal Beavers, would introduce the rouge—a one-point play not used in U.S. football—and give the receiver of a punt a clear zone of five yards in all directions up to the moment he touches the ball.

Charles McCullough, supervisor of officials, and coaches Mary Bass of Montreal, Wayne Hardin of Philadelphia and Bob Snyder of Wheeling, W. Va., are studying the ideas and will make recommendations at an owner's meeting here April 28 and 29.

The Canadian-type rules are not likely to be adopted without a battle, it was learned. But there is a possibility they could be tried out in some pre-season games.



SELECTED most valuable player in National Basketball Association for second successive year is Wilt Chamberlain, towering star of Phildelphia 76ers. Wilt (above) was followed in voting by Nate Thurmond and Bill Russell, a five-time MVP.

VIENNA — Given a king-sized scare by their American cousins, Canada's national hockey team today started marching down the home stretch in the world hockey championships. And for the big games ahead, the Canadians have been stocked with psychology, advise and non-partisan support.

Coach Jack McLeod thought the Canadians' tough, 2-1 victory over an inspired U.S. team on Thursday might have given the Nats a psychological lift for their remaining games.

Non-partisan support came from American coach Murray Williamson, who picked Canada to win the world tournament this year.

Advice came, somewhat unexpectedly, from Gustav Bubnik, an exiled Czech who coaches the Finnish national team. It was the Finns who upset the Czechoslovakian squad 3-1 Thursday and Bubnik feels Canada can do the same "if they hit the Czechs."

RUSSIA MONDAY

Canada went against the Czechs in one of today's late games. The Nationals, hoping to bring Canada its first world championship since 1961, play defending champion Russia on Monday and then meet Sweden on Wednesday.

Canada and Russia stood as the only unbeaten teams heading into today's round.

The U.S. team, injury-hit and obviously experiencing a letdown after their tough game against Canada, opened today's action by playing to a scoreless draw with East Germany. A crowd of 6,000 could hardly recognize the Americans as the same team that forced Canada to the limit on Thursday.

In another game today, the West Germans held the Finns to a surprising 2-2 draw.

If Canada gets past Czechoslovakia and Russia beats Sweden today the championship will be decided in Monday's Canada-Russia contest. The Russians also are idle Sunday.

Carl Wetzel, goalie for the U.S. team and former player with several Canadian teams, voiced on prevalent theory on the Canada-Russia contest: "I wouldn't bet on the game. It's a toss-up."

The Canadians, with victories over Finland, and East and West Germany, almost let the keyed-up U.S. team steal what ought to have been another easy victory on the way to the big encounter against the Soviet powerhouse.

The forechecking Americans took a 1-0 lead in the second period and threatened goalkeeper Seth Martin throughout.

SCORED TWICE

Winger Morris Mott discovered chinks in the defence of Wetzel twice in the final period and put the Canadians back on the championship route.

In cold figures, the victory doesn't stack up well against Russia's 7-2 conquest and Czechoslovakia's 8-3 drubbing of the Americans. But the U.S. squad Thursday skated fast and forechecked well, and it got top goaltending from Wetzel.

While the Canadians were having their difficulties with the Yanks, Russia pounded West Germany 16-1 in another Thursday game. Sweden topped East Germany 8-2.

O'Keefe Targets Are Up!

Before the Pacific Coast Soccer League season ends Victoria O'Keefes want to do one thing better than Vancouver Columbus, and one thing just as well.

First and foremost the Victoria booters hope to be the best. They want to win more games than Columbus and thus nail down Victoria's first PCSL championship since 1952.

Next on the O'Keefe hope list is a desire to match the crowds Columbus attracts at Vancouver. The Italians usually play before about 1,500 fans in home matches while O'Keefes' Victoria gate figure has yet to hit 1,000.

Sunday could be the day both objectives are attained. This is the one that could be "celebration day" for the Victorians.

They'll be going against University of B.C. Thunderbirds at Macdonald Park and a victory would clinch the top spot and a berth as Canada's representatives in the international tournament at Vancouver, May 6-7.

Nobody expects victory will be handed out on a silver platter. Thunderbirds are the only club to defeat Victoria this season. And the Birds last week were unfortunate to lose a 2-1 verdict to second-place Columbus.

Victoria coach may have a problem or two when game time (2 p.m.) rolls around. Centre forward Joe Alexis is nursing a charley-horse suffered last week, and half Tom Westwater may be away in Los Angeles.

On the brighter side is the condition of Ike MacKay, who has been putting in extra time at workouts this week and has impressed Grealy.

GOLDEN WEST PLACES OFFICES IN SAN JOSE

The Golden West Division of the Continental Football League has chosen Danny Hill as executive director and named San Jose as the site of league headquarters.

A former newspaperman, Hill has been in public relations and advertising in San Jose for the past four years.

San Jose is one of eight cities in the new league. The others are Victoria (Steelers), Seattle, Portland, Eugene, Anaheim, Phoenix and Sacramento.

Teams will play a 14-game, home-and-home schedule starting in mid-August.

FOR WORLD HONORS

Nancy Fighting Holding Battle

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (CP) — Nancy Greene of Canada, making a last-ditch play for the women's World Cup of skiing, fights a holding battle today as the second giant slalom event of the Wild West classic takes place.

Miss Greene, trailing Marielle Goitschel and Annie Famose of France in the World Cup race, won the first giant slalom Friday but picked up no points in the World Cup race.

The 23-year-old Rossland, B.C., skier already had 75 giant slalom points—the maximum allowed for one event in World Cup competition.

Thus, she can pick up no points today either. Her main hope lies in defeating the French girls and limiting the number of points they can win in the event. Only the best three finishers in the events earn points.

Miss Goitschel leads the World Cup competition with 169 points. Miss Famose is second with 158, Miss Greene third with 151.

However, by winning the slalom event here Sunday Miss Greene can earn 25 points. Miss Goitschel and Miss Famose both have 70 slalom points and could earn a maximum of five points.

NO DOWNHILL

There will be no downhill event here because of spring snow conditions. Coaches said they did not want to risk injury to top skiers with the Winter Olympics coming up next year.

The men's giant slalom Friday was won by Jean-Claude Killy of France, who has clinched the World Cup for men. He is also favored to repeat in today's giant slalom. He clipped down the 1¾-mile course Friday in one minute 46.69 seconds.

Miss Greene scored an upset victory of sorts when Miss Goitschel took a spill near the top of the 42-gate, 1⅜-mile women's course. Miss Greene's winning time was one minute 24 seconds.

She said the snow was as difficult as any she has seen this year.

Second behind Miss Greene was Erik Schinegger of Austria in 1:25.24. Traudl Hecher of Austria in 1:25.24. Traudl Hecher of Austria was third in 1:26.34. Miss Famose was fourth in 1:26.34. Miss Goitschel wound up seventh in 1:28.09 despite her fall.

Werner Gleiner of Austria placed second in the men's race in 1:47.91. Jim Huega was third in 1:48.14.

Amateur Threatens Golf Pros

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—It's been 11 years since the golf pros have been whipped by an amateur in one of their tour events, but they are looking a bit uncomfortably in the direction of thick-necked Ron Cerrudo, 22, of San Rafael, Calif.

Gay Brewer Jr., a 10-year veteran and defending champion, was out in front after 36 holes, 14 under par at 130, but only two strokes back is the brash Cerrudo, member of the U.S. Walker Cup and World Cup teams.

Cerrudo has put together a pair of hot 66s and is tied for second place with Homero Blancas at 132 going into the third round over the Pensacola Country Club course.

Brewer, who won here last year when leader Doug Sanders did not sign his scorecard, nailed 10 birdies, six in a row, for a second-round 64 Friday.

The last time an amateur won a tour event was in 1956 when Doug Sanders, then an amateur, captured the Canadian Open.

Beating par became the style here this week-end, with 80 bettering the 72 par the first day and 92 Friday. It took a score of 141, three under par, to qualify for the last 36 holes.

Tied at 133 were former PGA champion Bobby Nichols, Phil Rodgers and Ken Still, followed by rookie pro Jim Weichers and Wayne Yates, tied at 134; Rex Baxter and Gardner Dickinson at 135; Mike Souchak and Dan Sikes at 136.

Vikings Still Hoping To Overhaul Scottish

University of Victoria Vikings are still very much in the running for the Victoria District Soccer League's first-division championship.

The Wally Milligan-coached Vikings kept alive their hopes of finishing first by defeating Hourigan Kickers 3-1 Friday.

Victory, coming on the strength of two goals by Oscar Valdal and one by Greg Pearson, moved Vikings to within three points of the Scots. Vikings have two games remaining, including a Sunday match against sixth-place Tolly-Ho, while Scots have one to play.

Bill Cameron scored the only goal for Kickers.

In the only other District League activity Friday, Island Tug bolstered its hold on fourth place in the second division by sinking Victoria West 2-1 on goals by Eric Benn and Wes McKay. John Yankowski scored for the Wests.

Gorge Duo In Groove

Bill Wakeham and Al MacLeod, two of the top contenders for medallist honors in the qualifying round of the annual Times Vancouver Island Open golf championship next week-end, were swinging in the groove Friday.

The Gorge Vale partners grabbed low-gross laurels in the 1967 edition of the Good Friday best-ball tournament at Uplands as they combined for a best-ball tally of 68, two under par.

One stroke behind were the pairs of Laurie Kerr and Roger Ross of Colwood and Bob Hunt and Eric Hibberson of Uplands. Kerr and Ross took second place on the strength of a better score in the last nine holes.

Cowichan veterans Norm Boden and Gordie Whan were fourth at 70.

In the handicap chase, scores on the back were required to break a first-place deadlock. Bob Spaven and George Robertson of Uplands took the top spot after their net tally of 66 2-3 was equalled by Gorge partners Wesley Green and Watson Finley.

Third place went to the Gorge duo of George Murphy and Wayne MacDonald, who were one stroke back.

Although he didn't break into the prize list, the day was a memorable one for Dick Kennedy. He whacked a seven-iron shot into the cup for a hole-in-one on the 135-yard 16th hole.

Time is fast running out for golfers who plan to join in the chase for Island Open and handicap titles. The qualifying round is April 2 at the Victoria Golf Club.

Entries, which must be made on the entry form printed at the left, and mailed to Leo Derman must be received at Gorge Vale by noon Monday.

Should the entries exceed the limit of 160 starters, preference will be given to golfers with the lower handicaps.

A Farmer's Patience Pays Off As Scottish Win World Curling

PERTH, Scotland (CP)—Chuck Hay, a Perthshire farmer, Thursday proved that patience is as much a part of the makeup of a Scot as canniness when he won the world championship on his fourth try.

Hay, who early in the competition said he didn't care where his rink placed in the qualifying round-robin competition as long as it made the playoffs, came through in fine style to defeat Sweden 8-5 in the final after defeating Alf Phillips Jr., and his Toronto Parkway rink 8-5 in the semi-final.

Sweden, skipped by Bob Woods, formerly of Carman, Man.; defeated Bruce Robert's Seattle, Wash., rink 7-6 in the semi-final after the Americans had swept the qualifying event with seven straight victories.

Hay lost the title in the final match last year in Vancouver to Ron Northcott of Calgary after earlier playing in the 1963 and 1965 championships.

It is only the second time in nine years the Scotch Cup, presented by the Scotch Whisky Association, has gone to a rink not from Canada. In 1965 Bud Somerville of the U.S. won it from Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg.

COMPETED LAST YEAR

Hay, with second Alan Glen, third John Bryden and lead Davie Howie, had the only rink with prior championship experience. They were all together last year in Vancouver.

Phillips, who had Ron Manning at second, John Ross third and Keith Reilly lead, said there was no question the Hay rink was the best in the championship.

"Chuck should have won the round-robin as well," Phillips said.

"He should have beaten Roberts and our rink. He's a great curler."

Roberts and Phillips beat Hay 8-7 and 7-6 in the round-robin.

Title to Esquimalt

Esquimalt's peewee pup reps defeated Victoria 4-1 at the Sports Centre Thursday to win the Lower Island championship. Esquimalt won the two-game hockey series, 7-3.

Downhill for Seals As Blades Collapse

Los Angeles Blades lost their edge and San Diego Gulls got tough. Together they have left Oakland Seals with a downhill run to the Western Hockey League playoffs.

Seals, who were battling Victoria Maple Leafs and the Blades for the league's last playoff berth, today are solidly settled in the coveted fourth position and it will take a major eruption to blast them out of the four-team playoffs.

Seals just about ended the race for the fourth berth Friday night when they bombed the Blades 7-1 at Oakland after the trailing Gulls had stopped the desperate Maple Leafs 3-1 Thursday night at Oakland.

Seals now have a six-point edge over the Leafs with only five games remaining for each club. Blades, spanked 10-2 Thursday in Seattle, are seven points back with four games to play.

BID FOR SURVIVAL

The Leafs start a last-ditch bid for survival tonight at San Diego and wind up a four-day California road trip Sunday night against the Seals at Oakland.

In another game Friday Vancouver Canucks continued their bid to wrest second place away from Seattle Totems and delayed Portland's clinching of the league title by downing the Buckaroos 4-3 at Vancouver.

Dave Duke was the hero for the Canucks, banging in a goal midway through the third period to break a 3-3 tie and give Vancouver the win.

Marc Dufour, Gord Vejprava and Brian Hextall scored the other Vancouver goals. Alain Caron, Larry Leach and Ed Van Impe replied for Portland.

FIELDER TIES JONES

Wayne Maxner, with two goals, and Forbes Kennedy, with three assists paced the Seals.

In Thursday's tussle at Seattle, Guyle Fielder and Larry Lund each fired three goals for Seattle. Fielder and Art Jones of Portland are now tied for the individual scoring lead, each with 86 points.

San Diego coach Max McNab played musical goalies against the Leafs Thursday, changing Bob Champoux and Les Binkley every five minutes until midway in the final period, when Champoux came up with several superb saves to thwart the Leafs.

With his club two men short through penalites midway in the last session, Champoux made six brilliant stops just after Al Nicholson's 22nd goal had given the Gulls a 3-1 lead.

Ed Panagabko and Len Haley also scored for the Gulls while rookie Gary Veneruzzo counted for Victoria five minutes before Nicholson's big tally.

TORONTO SECOND

Hot New Line Sparks Leafs

(Times News Services)

Toronto hockey writers are starting to scratch around in an attempt to dub a peppy new line that has played an important part in the Maple Leafs' climb into second place in the National Hockey League.

The line of Bob Pulford, Pete Stemkowski and Jim Pappin dished out more heroics Thursday night, accounting for four goals as the Maple Leafs scored a 5-3 comeback victory over Boston Bruins.

Toronto's rally, combined with Detroit Red Wings' 4-1 decision over New York Rangers, pushed Maple Leafs into second.

THREE FOR PETE

Stemkowski scored three times, twice in the third period, when Leafs struck for four goals within eight minutes to crush the last place Bruins.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach put together the line near the end of the Leafs' recent 10-game losing streak. So far, the three have picked up 56 points, including 27 goals.

It was the second time in less than a week that the line has staged a third-period scoring burst to give Leafs a win. Five days ago in Detroit the line scored four times in the third period to snatch victory from defeat.

Stemkowski also got an assist Thursday for a four-point evening. Other Leaf scorers were Pappin and Larry Jeffrey. John McKenzie scored twice for Boston while Ron Stewart got the other Bruin goal.

In Thursday's other game, defenceman Gary Bergman scored twice and Gordie Howe, who will be 39 next week, got his 25th of the season to lead Detroit.

Sloan Puts Uvic In Driver's Seat

When it came to scoring during the regular Esquimalt Hockey League campaign, at least six of his teammates stood in line ahead of Bill Sloan.

But the goal Sloan scored Friday proved one of the most important of the year for University of Victoria Vikings. It was the goal that provided Vikings with a 6-5 victory over Esquimalt Tudor Monarchs and a 2-1 series lead in the best-of-five league final.

The fourth game will be played at the Sports Centre Tuesday, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Sloan scored the winner with only 33 seconds remaining in a 10-minute overtime. Vikings trailed 5-2 with less than 10 minutes left in regulation time but forced the overtime on successive goals by Mike McAvoy, Gyn Harper and Ted Sarkissan.

Orv Coulter and Jerry Ciochetti each scored twice for Monarchs, who received a standout netminding performance from Ed Hastings.

ATLANTIC SHOPTALK

'Enjoy It? You'd Have To Be Sick'

By JOHN MANNING

Former Victoria Times reporter John Manning and his wife Pat are currently on a 12,000-mile "Centennial Cruise" aboard their tiny sailing ship Powindah. The pair started in England and hope to end their cruise in the Inner Harbor. This is the 19th in a series on their adventures.

A quickening, pepper-sharp sense of adventure mantled itself over the 20-odd boats come to do battle with the Atlantic Ocean.

Many of these craft had fought their way south through autumnal gales in the Bay of Biscay; others had come down out of the Mediterranean; and some had come in from the coast of Africa, their last ports having names like Tangiers, Agadir, and Casablanca. Their crews had one thing in common: a nonsensical, empowering urge to sail the Atlantic.

These boats were the realization of a thousand hours of dreams begun some long age ago in an office, a millyard, or a subway station. The mere fact that they had gave them licence for an attempt to reach the New World under sail. Others had not been so fortunate. A handful had been wrecked on the way south; one boat had its bow smashed in near Land's End by a cargo ship. Five or six had turned back after experiencing their first gale and others simply grew disenchanted with the idea of crossing three thousand miles of ocean.

FIFTH CROSSING

Anchored nearby to Powindah were all manner of craft; ketches, yawls, schooners and cutter-rigged ocean racers. Of these perhaps the best example of a proper ocean-going sailboat was Dr. Franklin Evans' Kochab 2, a 50-foot yawl built of teak, with stainless steel framing. His mate was a young Australian engineer out to see the world. Dr. Evans himself had been sailing almost non-stop since the end of the Second World War and this was to be his fifth Atlantic crossing.

"I've been up along the west coast of Canada," he told us. 'I kept my boat one winter at Fisherman's Wharf in Victoria and made some good friends among the commercial salmon trollers there. I remember how horrified a local yachtsman was when I told him where my boat was.

" 'Those guys'll throw cod heads all over your vessel' he told me. So I went back and repeated this to the fisherman. They thought it hilarious."

Anchored near Kochab was a sister-ship to Powindah, another Tahiti Ketch called Santana. From Los Angeles she had gone around the world. The Atlantic was the last step left to her before completing the circumnavigation.

"In the last seven years we've sailed 36,000 miles in Santana," said her skipper, Homer Parish. "I can't think of a better designed craft for a man and his wife to go cruising in. They're the toughest seaboats, foot per foot, you'll find. We were in a typhoon off Indonesia and although I thought the end of the world had come we survived it."

"How strong was the wind?"

"Who knows. But if I'd looked at it my eyeballs would've come adrift!"

100 MILES DAILY

I told Homer that we expected our voyage to the West Indies would take us 35 or 40 days. He laughed. "Your boat's almost exactly the same as mine. You'll make it in 26 or 27 days. Wait and see. We average at just a little better than a hundred miles a day, although in calms we do turn the engine on."

We spent one evening with Bill and Gerta Graeber aboard New World, a 30-foot boat that Bill built in Vancouver. "It's made with entirely Canadian products," he said proudly. "I built her myself. I couldn't afford to do anything else, for I was out of work at the time in Vancouver. I'm a plumber by trade. In fact I left Canada to look for work in another country and have been working and sailing ever since. Been going six years now."

"Do you like crossing oceans?" asked Pat.

"No, not really. I think anyone that enjoys it must be sick in the head. We do it just to get from one side to the other. When you come right down to it we've seen few better places than the west coast of British Columbia for sailing and cruising in. It's a great deal more pleasant there than bobbing up and down in the middle of some ocean, especially when all you've got is 30 feet of boat under you."

I learned that the elderly couple on one boat, a large American-registered ketch, had been run down the year before by a freighter soon after they had set out to cross the Atlantic. They have another boat this year and are determined to try the crossing again.

NEAR MUTINY

It was also reported that the captain of a large British yawl had a near mutiny on his hands. "He's always in a pickle about something," a friend told us. "But he comes up with a new crew every time. The last one left him in Gibraltar. He took on new blokes there, just fellows drifting around the docks and one of them left him in Casablanca. I heard tell, too, that he knocked the daylights out of one of his men. Bare fists. They went at it hammer and tong. 'The skipper won, the other chap's still in some Spanish hospital."

WORST GOSSIPS

We took all this with a grain of salt, for yachtsmen are the worst gossips in the world, but later we learned that it actually did happen. Before we sailed 'Captain Bligh' was already looking for two more crew-members. He found them in the person of English girls out for adventure on the high seas. We looked forward to hearing their story in the West Indies.

The Harbor Master told us that he expects more than 40 boats will cross the Atlantic this season. "From fifteen footers up to a hundred feet long!"

On Nov. 23, five days after our arrival in Las Palmas in the Canary Islands, we weighed anchor and set sail. There was no great farewell. It was a proper sailing ship's departure: a good luck wave from friends and we were gone. The island slipped astern, and the Atlantic took us, for good or evil, into its own.

Jumping Porpoises! Bahamas Add More Lures for Tourist Hordes

NASSAU, Bahamas—The coming season is going to go down in travel history as the greatest summer of them all in the Bahama Islands.

Big-game fishing, a masquerade ball and the greatest richest ocean power boat race in the world will join the traditional lures of sun, sand, sea and island tranquility to lure upwards of 400,000 spring and summer vacationers between April and October.

This is so because the summer family vacation in the islands has replaced the once-fashionable seaside resort trips in the east, holidays in the now-teeming mountain resorts for mid-westerners, and shopping and night-life vacations in the sweltering cities for small-town vacationers.

LOW RATES

The Bahamas, once the summer haunt of the solitary beachcomber and the shunpike traveller, still has the restful qualities and low summer rates which family vacationers are looking for in a resort. But the word is spreading and the summer vacation in the sub-tropics is picking up thousands of new fans annually.

And look what's new in the Bahamas this summer.

Jumping porpoises, giant sea turtles and many of the prettiest varieties of fish in the sea at Nassau's new Seafloor Aquarium! A gushing new waterfall and tropical garden beside the Queen's Staircase.

NEW GOLF COURSE

Dancing, lighted fountains decorate the entrance to the plus Nassau Beach Hotel. The first 800-room hotel on any island (King's Inn and Golf Club at Freeport) an all-new championship golf course at Treasure Cay, Abaco, and 1,200 new hotel rooms and cottages throughout the islands.

Apart from the new things, the key to the Bahamas' charm as a summer resort is embodied in the name by which these islands were known to early cartographers—the Isles of June. For they enjoy a fresh, late spring glow which appeals not only to those fleeing the hoary grasp of Old Man Winter, but also to vacationers bent on evading the dog-day heat of inland summer and the bustling organized euphoria of other summer vacation resorts.

BRITAIN TOPS FOR INS, OUTS

LONDON—In the world of the ins and outs, Britain will be as in as you can get this Spring. It's the place where happenings happen and what happens is news.

Samuel Johnson said a couple of hundred years ago that "when a man is tired of London he is tired of life," but even he would get dizzy at the pace these days in some parts of the old city. Yet, Britain is a country big enough so that those who love the old Britain of an easy pace, leisurely living and stately pageantry can also visit contentedly.

687,000 VISITORS

Already London's new post office tower and restaurant has taken its place as the local equivalent of the Eiffel Tower and the Empire State Building. Not a year old, it has had 687,000 visitors who zipped up the 650 foot high elevator. Many of them had lunch in the revolving restaurant.

The Scotch of St. James, partly owned by George Harrison of the Beatles, is currently the place to go if you own a pair of ear plugs or dig enthusiastic music which never stops.

London is getting two more new hotels this year. One is the 130 room Londonderry House in the luxury class along Hyde Park. It is owned by a Lebanese group. The other is the 400 room Royal Lancaster, also along Hyde Park but on the north.

Suddenly the Stranger Becomes Your Best Friend

By MARC T. McNIEL

No matter how enthusiastic a tourist you may be or how much you may relish the scenes and customs of a country new to you, when you are far from your native heath reminders of home are welcome tonic.

So you are in Mexico from Canada and you meet another Canadian — from Edmonton or Calgary, from Toronto or Montreal— and you've never seen him before in your life; he becomes your best friend for five minutes. Whichever one is the more recent arrival can tell the other some treasured bit of Canadian news—a sports score or political development, too far away and foreign for inclusion in Mexican news media.

●

And yet the News, Mexico City's tabloid English-language newspaper (with the Mexican and Canadian flags, the Union Jack and Old Glory at its hotel room door every morning, masthead), tucked under your hotel room door every morning, one day devoted nearly 75 per cent of its travel page to two Canadian stories, both under four-column headlines. One was on the "Picturesque Gaspe Peninsula" as a major Quebec tourist attraction, and the other was "Laurentians Biggest Ski Resort Area in the Americas."

●

It spoke of the great hills north of Montreal, citing many of the most noted centres, and also the ski trains operated by Canadian Pacific and Canadian National.

And it went on to describe the Gatineau Valley "near Hull, Quebec, and Ottawa, Ontario, Canada's capital city." Where "another extremely popular ski centre is located at Camp Fortune. There is a double chair-lift, two T-bars and nine rope tows." The report also referred to the Ottawa Ski Club's 10,000 members.

●

Another day this paper reported that CPR was "up" and on still another a pronouncement on foreign affairs by Paul Martin. And then there was an item that 80 locomotives had begun to arrive for Mexico's National Railways from Montreal. These things catch the Canadian eye.

One morning in a small restaurant at breakfast, surrounded by the English language as purveyed by dozens of American tourists, my wife's keen ear picked up a different cadence and inflection. She pointed out a group of young men and said they were Canadians.

●

I listened and heard them speak of Sydney, Australia, and Amsterdam. Sure enough, they were a Canadian Pacific Air Lines crew in from Vancouver. And we were able to give them a football playoff score they were interested in.

On another morning in that same cafe, in an arcade under the Del Prado Hotel we looked out the window and, passing almost beside us along the arcade, was a friend from Ottawa. We had heard he had preceded us to Mexico City, but the odds against seeing him by chance in a city of 6½ million people were tall, indeed. (It was Len Hill, Chief of the Personnel Branch, House of Commons, and one of the best banjo players extant). He was equally startled and pleased to see us.

As we were checking out of the Pierre Marques Hotel in Acapulco, a bus drew up to the entrance, a Canadian flag taped to its front end. It was a 17-day tour party from Montreal and Quebec City.

Aeronaves de Mexico employs roof billboards to advertise its flights to Montreal and Toronto. Then the Canadian Pacific Air Lines office in a spanking new building on the magnificent Paseo de la Reforma was a regular port of call; it had attractive paper mobiles in its display windows.

●

Everywhere in Mexico City, there are signs on large and fine shops reading "Calzado Canada." It is one of the biggest shoe firms in Mexico, and has nothing whatsoever to do with Canada. Neither has the Ontario Laundry or Montreal Furs. They're just names with no connotation at all.

But if you are from Canada, they leap out at you.

Kamloops-Portland And Back by Boat?

VERNON (CP) — Okanagan communities are working on a proposal to build a series of canals that would result in a 200-mile inland boating route through the warm lakes of the British Columbia interior.

Some civic officials want the plan eventually to encompass a 600-mile route from Kamloops to Portland, Ore.

The ideas stem from a provincial government study that proposed a series of canals to connect Shuswap and Okanagan lakes to increase water for irrigation in the Okanagan.

$13 MILLION

This would cost about $13,000,000 and provide sufficient water to support four times the present population of the Okanagan Valley of about 84,000.

The mayors of Okanagan communities have held a series of meetings and expanded on this proposal so that it would include dams and canals of sufficient size to provide a boating route.

"The boating-canal idea offers a potential route right to Portland, and I don't think we can ignore making a study of this," says Mayor Lionel Mercier of Vernon. "I know the Americans are interested, especially in the Wenatchee area."

IN 10 YEARS

Gordon Chester, manager of the chamber of commerce in Wenatchee, Wash., says the idea is sound and the project might be possible within 10 years.

He says the U.S. Army Engineers Corps already has done a feasibility study on extending the navigable portion of the Columbia River from Pasco, Wash., to Wenatchee, and it may be possible to extend this farther north to connect with the Okanagan River, which drains Okanagan Lake.

Mayor Dick Parkinson of Kelowna says he is enthusiastic about the idea and Mayor Maurice Finnerty of Penticton agrees.

Bennett Blocks House Debate On Gas Price

Two Social Credit MLAs refused to join the government in preventing a debate on gasoline prices by over-riding Speaker William Murray.

It was the first time that Mr. Murray had been over-ruled by the House and it was done on a challenge by Premier Bennett himself.

Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) and Ernie LeCours (SC—Richmond) broke party ranks to vote with the NDP and Liberals in a futile bid to uphold the speaker's decision that the debate was in order.

STRANGE VOTE

In a strange vote, Premier Bennett led his party to cast its votes as "all those who oppose the Speaker's ruling" to win 28 to 21 and effectively kill the debate.

It came in the dying hours of the session as Mr. Shelford moved a previously-posted resolution asking the government to give consideration to placing sale and distribution of propane gas under Public Utilities Commission regulation.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) promptly added an amendment to include "petroleum products" which he said would enable the House "to decide whether there should also be regulation of gasoline prices."

This manoeuvre countered the government's gimmick of preventing debate on a special committee's report on gasoline prices when it had been tabled a few hours earlier.

NO ACTION

The report had recommended virtually no action.

By refusing unanimous consent to a motion by Mr. Shelford that it be adopted, the government effectively used House rules to prevent the NDP from debating the report or bringing in a minority report urging legislation to set up a crown corporation refinery.

Mr. Macdonald, while amending Mr. Shelford's propane gas motion, argued that the oil companies charged identical prices for their gasoline in all parts of the province.

MONOPOLY

"They say it's a co-incidence but we say it's a monopoly," he said. "It is not just like any other business. It is a utility and it is overcharging the motoring public so it should be regulated by the PUC."

Attorney-general Robert Bonner said both Mr. Shelford's motion and the NDP amendment would fetter the government's right to make policy decisions and he asked Mr. Murray to rule them out of order.

"My view is that the motion is in order," said Mr. Murray, ruling debate could proceed.

"I challenge the speaker's ruling," said Premier Bennett, invoking the formal procedure for upsetting a ruling of the chair by a majority vote.

RULING LOST

"Will all those who supported the Speaker's ruling please stand," said Mr. Murray. The entire opposition and the two Socred mavericks rose.

"Will all those who oppose the Speaker's ruling please stand," said Mr. Murray and the rest of the government MLAs followed Premier Bennett to their feet.

"I declare the Speaker's ruling lost," Mr. Murray said for the first time in his five years in the post.

Earlier, Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) had declared he would repudiate the majority report which he claimed did not represent the committee's concensus but he was absent from the House when the amendment was introduced.

Mr. Shelford also, earlier, had criticized the majority report on the grounds that it should have recommended specific legislation to ensure oil companies would not exert direct control over retail service stations.

Choirs Join For Service

Choirs of St. John's Anglican and First United Church joined forces at a combined Easter service in First United Good Friday evening.

They presented a program of Easter music including the Passion choruses from Handel's Messiah.

Canon Grahame Baker of St. John's and Rev. Robert Morris of First United shared in the conduct of the service.

In charge of the music were Choir Master Donald Woodworth and W. H. Gregory.

Cribbens At the Movies

HOTEL

Rod Taylor
Odeon Theatre

A maze of plots and subplots are skilfully interwoven in this grandiose tale of a large, old-world hotel in New Orleans.

The cast is fairly stuffed with characters, ranging from the irascible but gracious-living proprietor (Melvyn Douglas) to a hotel bum (Karl Malden) whose life is a dreary succession of almost empty wallets ("It's those damn credit cards!" he complains.)

In between are the Duke and Duchess of "Croydon" (Michael Rennie and Merle Oberon); an unscrupulous house detective (Richard Conte), a hotel tycoon (Kevin McCarthy) and his French mistress (Catherine Spaak.,

Based on a 1965 best-seller by Arthur Hailey, with a lively script by Wendell Mayse, Hotel is reputed to have cost Warner Brothers more than $4,000,000.

Fastidious moviegoers may find it flamboyant and overly dramatic; the majority, I think, will respond to its warmth, action and pointed dialogue — and a young Victoria man who has been in the hotel business little more than a year found it "stimulating."

Rod Taylor is very much the romantic ideal of a hotel manager (he started as a bellboy, of course) and his dramatic rescue of four passengers trapped in an elevator between the 14th and 15th floors is very much in the old movie tradition.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM

Royal Theatre

Our old friend Buster Keaton (now unhappily deceased) has a stand-out part in this screen adaptation of a Broadway comedy set in ancient Rome. He is a dead-pan parent with a unique problem:

"My daughter is a eunuch!"

Friday night's audience at the Royal responded merrily to the inanities of Poppa Keaton; Jack Gilford as a collector of erotic pottery; Phil Silvers as a peddler of Roman beauties and Zero Mostel as a slave who belongs to hen-pecked patrician Michael Hordern and his wife, Patricia Jessel.

Later, as a prospective purchaser, Mostel examines a shapely pair of twin slaves and inquires: "I don't suppose you'd break up a set?"

One farcical scene after another chases across the wide color screen. One is a devastating chariot race; another is a Bacchanalean orgy in which the principals wind up in sleep, bedlam and confusion.

STRONGEST STEEL CREATED IN SOVIET

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Soviet physicists said today they have made microscopic bits of metal with the maximum strength that is theoretically possible—the ability to sustain 230 metric tons a square centimetre.

The Soviet news agency Tass noted that conventional metal structures, such as railway bridges, have a strength of only about four tons a square centimetre.

Tass said a group headed by Prof. Ruvin Garber, 58, at Kharkov in the Soviet Ukraine made more than two dozen thread-shaped crystals of tungsten with diameters of about 0.000002 centimetres. They were more than 0.15 centimetres long.

Theory has long held that thread-shaped crystals would have great strength but making them has proven difficult, Tass said. It did not suggest how the laboratory development might lead to practical applications.

Admiral Makes Transfer at Sea To Welcome Ships to Esquimalt

Pacific Maritime Commander, Rear-Admiral John A. Charles made a jackstay transfer at sea this week to formally welcome three east coast warships to his command.

Under brilliant skies, 90 miles west of Los Angeles, he rode the chair across from HMCS Saskatchewan to HMCS Columbia.

The Columbia, along with sister destroyer-escorts Crescent and Algonquin, will be reporting to Esquimalt for duty next Tuesday.

The admiral met Commander Richard Okros, commanding officer of the Columbia, who briefed him on the passage from Halifax.

All three ships were battered by heavy sea in the Atlantic and Crescent and Algonquin were forced to make an emergency stop at Norfolk, Virginia, for minor repairs.

On their trip through the Pacific, they have been exercising with the Esquimalt based destroyer-escorts Saskatchewan and Mackenzie and the ocean-escort Beacon Hill.

The destroyer-escorts today began a four-day visit to San Francisco.

The Mackenzie and Saskatchewan will also return to Esquimalt Tuesday at 11 a.m. after three months training in the Caribbean.

SWORN in Thursday as minister of travel and industry was Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan. This is his fifth cabinet post since he was elected to the legislature in 1952. He will retain the recreation and conservation portfolio.

Quebec Probes Charge Of Expo Lodging Fraud

MONTREAL (CP) — An inquiry is said to be well under way concerning the operations of Expo 67's lodging service, but officials at Expo and in the Quebec government are reported to feel that any fraudulent activity there would be on a smaller scale than that indicated by one published account.

Director J. Adrien Robert and other officials of the Quebec Provincial Police declined Friday to say whether fraud has been practised in connection with lodging reservations made by prospective visitors to Expo.

Mr. Robert has said an investigation to determine this still is going on.

"We'll have to wait for the investigators to file reports on their findings," he added.

A Montreal newspaper, La Presse, had said the QPP was investigating alleged fraudulent activities which the paper reported may affect reservations for accommodations made by possibly as many as 500,000 prospective visitors to the world's fair here.

Andrew Kniewasser, Expo's general manager, already has spoken up reassuringly about the requests for accommodation already processed by the Expo housing service, Logexpo.

These requests had "been referred to reputable establishments," said Mr. Kniewasser.

MAKE USE OF HALLWAYS by constructing shelves to hold books, magazines and ornaments. Pictures are neatly inset against wall for varied design.

FEET GAINED BY INCHES

By PAULINE GRAVES

Adding a scant eight inches to the depth of your wall can make a whale of a lot of difference in its appearance and add to its practicality as well. Some walls have the advantage of facing a stair well, therefore has extra space opposite it. For this very reason, however, it has decorative importance being the first thing one sees as one comes up the steps.

Instead of installing shelves floor to ceiling, or omitting them entirely and filling the wall with pictures, the wall space was broken up very carefully with both books and pictures in mind. A large 40-inch square above centre shows a picture to good advantage, with the ledge underneath planned for a couple of lamps and art objects.

Books fill the bottom shelf completely, and above, a slanted rack, 15 inches high, keeps magazines right at hand. A finishing touch, and a good one, is the top shelf which displays a fine copper lustre collection where the pieces cannot be easily touched or subject to accidents.

To give the unit weight a deep four inch molding travels along the bottom and the top, so that is has a look of permanence and solidarity.

Also decorating the hall is the antique and handsome apothecary chest which fills a recess as neatly as though it had been made to order. A large picture above is in good scale.

WEEK'S WORK

Perennial flower seeds can be sown in a well prepared coldframe bed, or in soil outdoors if sheltered and well drained.

And if soil is suitable and weather is mild, the hardiest annuals can be sown outdoors—clarkia, godetia, sweet alyssum, mignonette and larkspur.

To get early gladioli, set corms to sprout and root in peatmoss-soil mixture indoors. Plant outdoors carefully without disturbance by end of April.

Rose pruning can be completed in all areas. Cut out the weak growths and old growths, and crowding branches. Then shorten the remainder to outward facing buds. Spread some old manure and compost over the root area.

At the end of month sow seed indoors of zinnias. They will be about right size to transplant outdoors by mid May if weather is warm enough then.

Try a flat full of peat pots sown to an early sweet corn such as Marcross of Golden Miniature. Transplant intact by end of May to garden.

Sow seed of cantaloupes or muskmelon indoors. Prick out to four-inch pots and grow on indoors for later putting out under hot-kaps or cloches. Also zucchini summer squash.

Sweet peppers and eggplant can be treated the same or grown in a deep frame during summer, with the glass covers on for cool nights or occasional cool day.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDEN

The Heaths Ready for Annual Victuals

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

Ericaceae (eri-kay'-see-ee) is the botanical name of the Heath Family, an important group of shrubs and small trees widely distributed throughout the world, but preferring regions where the soil is of an acid nature.

The family is composed of 37 genera ranging from food plants, such as the blueberry, to highly ornamental foliage and flowering plants.

About 24 genera are grown in this area, of which 14 are quite common and 10 less often seen because gardeners have not made their acquaintance.

●

The most familiar genera are rhododendron which includes azalea, and the heath and heather group comprising erica, calluna and daboecia. Most gardeners realize these are acid-soil plants.

The others commonly grown in gardens here are andromeda, the Bog-rosemary; arbutus, the Madrona; arctostaphylos, the Bear-berry or Manzanita; cassiope, low evergreens with scale-like leaves for the rock garden; enkianthus, flowering in spring and giving beautiful color effects in fall.

Gaultheria which includes the native Salal; kalmia, the Calico-bush; ledum, the Labrador-tea and wild Rosemary; leucothoe, a beautiful shrub of which L. catesbaei var. 'Rainbow' has variegated foliage of great interest; pernettya, with white, red, or purple berries; pieris, Lily-of-the-Valley bush; vaccinium.

Our main interest this weekend is in giving the ericaceous plants their annual feeding. This is a job to be done around the end of March to beginning of April.

First, we'll consider small ericaceous plants which have been in the garden for not more than three years, or those which have just been planted.

●

Particularly in the case of rhododendron, azalea, pieris, and the larger shrubs, we endeavor during the first three years to build up a strong root system.

To do this we give the plants three feedings every spring, the first in late March, the second 30 days later in April and the third in another 30 days in May.

Since the name, ericaceous, indicates a preference for acid soil, we use the special acid fertilizers, sold as acid-mix or rhodo and azalea food.

The average application is one or two tablespoonsful to a shrub from three to four feet in height.

This amount is spread evenly over the root area around the shrub, then lightly moistened with water. The next day, when the crystals have had time to dissolve, a thorough watering will carry the food down to the roots.

●

Plants which have been in the garden more than three years, established plants as we call them, receive just one feeding each spring during late March or early April.

The same acid-type fertilizer is used, applying one to one-and-a-half handsful for each one foot of growth. A five foot shrub would receive from five to seven handsful spread evenly over the root area from close to the stems to a distance of about one foot beyond the spread of the foliage.

The application is watered in the same as suggested for the smaller shrubs.

No fertilizer should be given after the end of May to any of these plants because a cool cloudy summer would induce soft growth that would be severely damaged in a cold spell the following winter.

There is one other plant included in this feeding schedule, the camellia. It is not an ericaceous plant for it belongs in the Tea Family, Theaceae (tee-a'-see-ee).

●

Since it is not ericaceous it does not require such a strongly acid soil, in fact, it grows quite well in the soil range that suits most of our garden plants.

It is, however, lime shy. It will not grow in a limey soil, nor will it thrive close to concrete foundations or sidewalks from which lime finds its way into the soil.

It is a plant that likes about 75 per cent sunshine, but will not tolerate heat reflected from a wall or other object.

When planted in too acid a soil it is unable to extract iron, the iron having been made unavailable by the strong acidity. It is then that the leaves turn yellowish-green, and the plant is said to be suffering iron chlorosis.

The same acid-type fertilizer is used for the spring feeding of camellias, in the same quantities, and at the same time or times, according to size.

●

When the feeding of all these plants has been completed for the season, the entire root area should be covered with a two-inch layer of well wetted peatmoss to keep the fine surface roots from being burned by summer sun. Watering is essential from May to August, rhododendrons needing about 30 inches during that period.

Large Mormon Choir Will Sing Oratorio From Handel Messiah

Easter, with selections from Handel's greatest and most popular work, will feature the Bell Telephone Hour on Sunday, at 6:30, on Channel 5.

Singing the celebrated oratorio will be the 325-voice Mormon Tabernacle Choir, under the direction of Richard P. Condie, and three soloists: Metropolitan Opera soprano Phyllis Curtin, Canadian contralto Maureen Forrester and British tenor Richard Lewis. Donald Voorhees conducts the orchestra.

Composed in 1741, "Messiah" has been called "one of those mysterious marvels of great art that appears but once in a century." The drama and majesty of the music are heightened by the magnificence of the open-air setting — Denver's spectacular Red Rocks Ampitheatre, a huge, natural arena with acoustics that rival those of the world's great concert halls. Ten cameras will show the Colorado mountains and desert, and the enraptured audience of 10,000.

China Feature

There are 700 million Chinese today, a quarter of the human race regarded by many as the world's greatest threat to peace and life. In China: The Roots of Madness — film history of a century of torment that bred madness from 1850 to 1950 — most people in the West will for the first time be able to see the roots of hatred that Chinese leaders have for the West and the U.S. in particular. China: The Roots of Madness will be the second half of a double bill filling CTV's prime evening time schedule on Easter Sunday at 9:30 on Channel 8.

Sports Highlights

The world ski-flying championships from Oberstdorf, Germany, the Duke Kahanamoku surfing championships from Hawaii and a special soccer feature will be presented in color on "CBS Sports Spectacular" on Channel 7 at 2:30, Sunday.

Jack Whitaker is host of the series. Art Devlin, former Olympic ski jumper, provides commentary for the ski flying, and Bruce Brown, internationally known surfer, is the surfing commentator.

Wild Kingdom

Marlin Perkins battles a 10-foot octopus and Jim Fowler tangles with a pack of sharks, in "Expedition Geronimo" on Wild Kingdom" colorcast on Sunday, at 5 p.m. on Channel 5.

Perkins and Fowler join the crew of Marineland of the Pacific's capture ship, Geronomo, to sail the seas in search of strange underwater creatures. A visit is made to Seal Island, off California, home of the mammoth elephant seals. The 16-foot monsters with trunk-like noses are skillful swimmers, but are helpless on land where they can hardly move their three-ton bodies. Because of their oil-rich blubber, they were almost exterminated by commercial sealers. Now they are protected.

During a catch of rare fish, Fowler, the fish and a pack of sharks all get tangled up in one net. In further excitement, Perkins scored a bare-handed capture of a giant octopus at the bottom of the Pacific Ocean.

The Robe

The Robe, which will be televised in color on the CTV network Easter Sunday evening, presents magnificent pageantry and spectacle yet carefully develops the intimate dramatic story which Lloyd C. Douglas told so well in his famous novel on which the film is based. Acclaimed as one of the best motion pictures of all time, it is being shown for the first time on television at 7 p.m. on Channels 4, 8.

Thirty-one monumental sets, of which only 10 are interiors, had to be built for the production. Each is a technically faithful to the facts divulged by long research as accuracy could make them. Whole sections of Rome and the Holy Land were reproduced in color.

The Robe is author Douglas' answer to the question of what happened to the garment which Christ wore to His crucifixion and which was gambled for by Roman soldiers at the foot of the cross.

The film, by Twentieth Century-Fox, unfolds the story in unforgettable scenes of the Roman slave market where Marcellus, the tribune, acquires Demetrius; the glittering palace of the Emperor at Rome and his cliffside villa at Capri; the hill of Calvary where the Crucifixion takes place, the city of Jerusalem as it appeared that first Palm Sunday, and the Roman galley ship that symbolizes the movement of the story from Rome to the far-flung and restless province of its empire.

Richard Burton portrays the star character Marcellus who supervised the Crucifixion and won the Robe in a game of lots at the foot of the cross.

STREETS ARE DANCING when guest star Sammy Davis, Jr., left, and Danny Thomas match steps during hour-long special Sunday at 9 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6.

One-Act Opera

Cavalleria Rusticana, an opera with its setting in a Sicilian village on Easter Sunday, will be seen on Channel 2 Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

The Montreal production, originally telecast on the French network last October, marks the final program in the Music for a Sunday afternoon series.

The one-act opera by Pietro Mascagni stars Mary Curtis-Verna, Metropolitan Opera soprano, as Santuzza; Michele Molese, New York City Opera tenor, as Turiddu; and Canadian opera singers Robert Savoie, baritone, as Alfio, and Huguette Tourangeau, mezzo-soprano, as Lola.

L'orchestre de Radio-Canada is conducted by Dr. Wilfrid Pelletier, who also directs the chorus. The operatic production is by Jean-Yves Landry.

POLLY BERGEN
. . . challenged by life

Attractive Star Changes Her Attitude

HOLLYWOOD—Anyone else might say that Polly Bergen has had some rough times. But Polly doesn't see it that way.

"Yeah, I guess I have had some problems, even extreme ones," said Polly. "But looking back now I don't really think I've had a difficult life at all."

Polly has been challenged strongly by life. As a child, she suffered from extreme shyness. A teen-age marriage ended in divorce. She underwent a throat operation due to incorrect use of her singing voice requiring six months of therapy to learn how to speak and sing again. She remarried but was unable to bear children, losing twins with one pregnancy and almost losing her own life in 1959.

Still Polly can say: "My life's been pretty marvellous. Marvellously enough we remember only that which we wish to remember—the happiness and joy. The past pain is almost non-existent."

There's a lot of happiness and joy in her life presently—her marriage, three children (two adopted youngsters and a step-daughter, her successful cosmetic company, Oil of the Turtle, Ltd., and her activities in the field of entertainment.

Coming up is an outing on "The Dean Martin Show," over the NBC television network on April 13.

"Something Dean said has helped me overcome a tendency to become over-pressured," said Polly. "He has a way of putting a matter back in perspective by saying, 'It probably won't end up in the time capsule.' "

BECAME VULNERABLE

For a long time Polly had the wrong perspective.

"As a child I was raised with the idea that everything must be perfect," said Polly. "I had to be best, strong, first, perfect. With this attitude, it becomes impossible to place yourself in a position where you're ever vulnerable. You can never really love people—only things, because things don't make demands. When you love people and depend on them, you become vulnerable and when you're vulnerable you're not strong or perfect."

This produced some unattractive and unhappy results.

"There was a time when I functioned in a loud, aggressive manner," said Polly. "I've always hated this part of me that's most unattractive and hard to live with. Only in the last couple of years have I been able to change. There's nothing wrong with being strong. It's all a question of how you handle it."

World Hockey Sunday

Canada vs Czechs Will Be Opener Of 4-Game Series

World hockey championship play at Vienna will come to the TV screens, starting Sunday night, when the game between Canada and the Czechs will be seen on Channel 8, at 11:40.

Tuesday night the Canadians will be pitted against Russia and the game will be seen on Channels 8 and 6 at 11:40. At the same time Thursd ay night on the same channels Canada will go against Sweden. On Friday night it will be Russia against the Czechs at 11:40 on Channels 6 and 8.

With Canada rated to have a good chance to regain the championship the games will hold special interest for viewers.

Indoor Rodeo

The 1967 Pacific Championship Indoor Rodeo at Long Beach, Calif., starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans and featuring the New Christy Minstrels, will be broadcast on "Coliseum" Thursday at 7:30 on Channel 7.

As hosts, Rogers and Miss Evans will be joined by the Minstrels in a five-minute medley of "Deep River," "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Cowboy Camp Meeting," "Every Time I feel the Spirit," "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel," "Old Time Religion," and "When the Saints Go Marching In."

The New Christy Minstrels will present two numbers—"Run, Run, Run" and "Ida Red."

A total of $40,000 in prize money will be awarded in the six rodeo events—bronc riding, saddle-bronc riding, Brahma bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and women's barrel racing.

The rodeo schedule also will include a pair of variety acts—Gene McLaughlin, a trick roper on ice, and Beeswax and the Moore Family, a trick mule act. Lex Connolly is the rodeo announcer.

News Special

"If You're Appalled by My Texas, I'm Bewildered by Your England," the personal impressions of CBS News Correspondents Dan Rather (a Texan) and David Dimbley (an Englishman), will be broadcast Tuesday at 10:00 on Channel 7.

The hour-long CBS news special will acquaint Americans with the reactions of an English reporter to the Texas way of life, which Europeans consider a caricature of the "American way of life." It will also reveal how different are English and American attitudes, aspirations and problems—and how the two peoples are drifting apart after an alliance of half a century.

"If You're Appalled by My Texas, I'm Bewildered by Your England," produced by William McClure, will use color for editorial purposes; to convey moods, ideas and impressions. Color will be an editorial tool in contrasting, for example, the bleak British industrial landscape with the bright London indoors of op art and mini-skirt fashions, and the dreary English exterior with the blue skies, newness and brightness of Texas.

"This is personal reporting," McClure says, "two people observing, witnessing and hearing things and putting their impressions on the screen."

Dimbleby, a reporter,producer for the British Broadcasting Corp. and publisher of a chain of British newspapers, is on a one-year assignment with CBS News. Rather, CBS News White House correspondent, was London correspondent for one year (1966). On the broadcast they report from the LBJ ranch to Carnaby Street, from the Houston Astrodome to Oxford.

Caesar Hour

Among the finest programs of television's early years were Your Show of Shows and Caesar's Hour in which Sid Caesar and a trio of brilliant fellow actors—Carl Reiner, Imogene Coca and Howie Morris—at their best, set a standard of comic brilliance which has seldom been equalled by later TV performers.

Recently, the four stars, all of whom are pursuing independent careers, met in Hollywood, and decided it was time for a little nostalgia. So they put together an hour-long color special for CBS, attempting to recapture the flavor of the old series. The result, The Sid Caesar Speical, will be seen on CBC television's Show of the Week at 9 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6.

The main sketch of the evening is a raucous take-off of Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, with Caesar as the frustrated professor and Imogene Coca (in tight pants, striped blouse and grey streaked wig) as his shrewish wife.

Noted Star On

Internationally famous composer, singer and poet Gilles Vigneault is special guest on CBC-TV's popular daytime public affairs show Take 30, on Monday, at 3 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6.

ACTION in the world hockey championships at Vienna will be televised on Channels 6 and 8, starting Sunday and continuing through Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, at 11:40. Picture shows Canadian team in action against the Russians during the latter's recent Canadian tour. Canada and Russia rank as favorites for the title.

Vigneault was born in 1929 in a small village on the Quebec north shore. His father was a fisherman. Despite his humble origin, Vigneault managed to gain entrace to Laval University where he studied French literature and wrote poems and plays. In 1958 his production of Anouilh's Antigone won the top prize at the Eastern Canada Theatre Festival.

The following year, while teaching French literature in Quebec City, Vigneault met the well known French-Canadian folk singer Jacques Labrecque and wrote his first song for Labrecque to sing — Jos Monferrand.

At that time, the social revolution in Quebec was rapidly developing and Vigneault became the idol of the new generation of French Canada. His beautiful, sometimes serious and melancholy songs and poems were greeted hungrily by young people eager for their own identity and maturity.

In 1956, Gilles Vigneault received international acclaim when his most widely-sung composition, Mon Pays, won first prize at the International Song Festival in Sopot, Poland. At the same time, he won the Governor-General's leterary award for his book of verse, Quand les bateaux s'en vont.

On Take 30, he talks with Paul Soles at la Comedie Canadienne Theatre in Montreal about his wishes for the future for his fellow French-Canadians and himself; discusses his poetry and sings some of his own songs.

'Ironside'

The world premiere of the suspense thriller "Ironside," starring Raymond Burr as detective Robert T. Ironside, replaces "If a Man Answers" on Tuesday Night at the Movies" at 9 p.m. on Channel 5.

Also starring in the picture are Geraldine Brooks, Don Galloway, Barbara Anderson and Don Mitchell.

"Ironside" will run not only as a world premiere but also as an "earlybird" series premiere. A weekly, full-hour program with the same name and same title star has been scheduled to start on the network next fall.

In both the movie and the series, Detective Ironside, the victim of a gunshot injury, operates permanently out of a wheel chair.

Dean Martin Show

Gene Barry, Eddie Fisher, Abbe Lane, Herman's Hermits, and Corbett Monica join Dean Martin on NBC Television network's "The Dean Martin Show" colorcast Thursday at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

Martin's songs are "Baby Face," "Paper Doll," and "Look for the Silver Lining."

Solos by Dean's guests are "I Love Paris" (a production number) and "Milord" by Miss Lane, "Sherry" by barry, "Dandy" and "Kind Hush All Over the World" by Herman's Hermits, and "People Like You" and "I Will Wait for You" by Fisher.

Monica discusses Italian singers freeways, and weddings in a comedy monolog.

Martin teams with Herman's Hermits for "Mairzy Doats" and sings "C'est Magnifique" and "C'est Si Bon" with Miss Lane.

In the finale Martin, Abbe, Barry and Fisher don baseball gear for a humorous rendition of music honoring the national pastime.

Director of Lassie Tells Secrets

"There's one thing you can be certain of when you direct a television program in which the only actors are birds and animals," says William Beaudine Jr., production manager of "Lassie."

"No one in the cast is likely to talk back to you — unless, of course, you are working with a parrot — which I'm not."

Beaudine last season directed an all-animal episode of "Lassie" on the CBS Television Network. In that one the heavy was a wolf (that figures), and the ingenue was a skunk (that doesn't).

"You'll seldom, if ever, find temperament on the 'Lassie' series," Beadine notes. "Lassie, herself, is as calm a performer as you could ever find. And there's not a more understanding and even-tempered star to work with than Bob Bray, who plays Forest Service District Ranger Corey Stuart."

Perhaps, Beaudine believes, it's because of Lassie's influence that temperament has also been non-existent in his two all-animal episodes. There's no bickering on the sets, he says; no actor complains that someone else is getting more close-ups. It has been just a big happy family. However, he adds, it's wise not to let some of them get too close to each other — for instance, the chicken hawk and the baby owls.

MLAs Fight War of Words On Vietnam

Members of the legislature started shooting emotions from the hip Thursday when they became verbally embroiled in the Vietnam war.

The debate started after Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) introduced a resolution calling on the legislature to urge the federal government to use its position on the International Control Commission to promote a cessation of bombing on North Vietnam.

This, he said, would lead to the start of negotiations between all parties concerned.

Mr. Calder referred to the war as "bloody and barbarous."

BLOOD BATH

"It is a blood bath that has no equal," he said. "Canada cannot remain silent in the face of bombing not only military targets but civilians in North Vietnam."

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said no other member of the United Nations had done more than Canada in an attempt to find a peaceful settlement.

When a settlement does come about in Vietnam it will largely be because of the Canadian effort," Mr. Perrault said.

"You'd think there's only one criminal involved here," Mr. Perrault said. He proposed an amendment which would make the resolution read that "Canada continue its efforts towards . . ."

Attorney-General Bonner said:

"If we are willing to condemn the excesses on one side we should condemn the excesses on the other."

Many peace feelers had been initiated by the U.S., he said.

Mr. Bonner said he believed himself as informed as any other member of the House and couldn't pretend to know all that is involved in the war.

ANTI-CANADIAN

The attorney-general said the resolution was "anti-American and "anti-Canadian as well."

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) asked "How many children have been napalmed since you made that statement?"

"You and your party weren't too keen on putting a stop to the Second World War," Mr. Bonner snapped. "Don't wear your political heart on your sleeve."

"While we're sitting here at this very moment, children, mothers and fathers are being maimed and killed," said Eileen Dailley (NDP—Burnaby North).

Mr. Macdonald urged members "to stand up and be counted in this great moral issue of this age."

Canadians could not continue to wash their hands of the matter.

"You're washing them in pink water," shouted Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre).

"There are times when elected representatives have to distinguish between right and wrong, Mr. Macdonald continued.

RIGHT, WRONG

"Communist line," shouted Social Credit members.

Dr. Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver Point Grey) said Mr. Macdonald had asked members to distinguish between right and wrong.

"This is pretty simple to do—the Communists are wrong," Dr. McGeer said.

Education Minister Peterson said, "If we're going to condemn a war—and I'm not suggesting we should — we should not just condemn half a war.

The Liberal amendment was defeated by a voice vote and the NDP resolution went down 14-34, with the Liberals supporting the Social Credit members.

Skiers Found Dead

OSLO (Reuters)—Five Norwegian skiers were found dead in the Jotunheim Mountains, 250 miles from here, Wednesday, bringing to nine the total killed in two days. Four of Wednesday's dead had tried to dig a cave to shelter from a storm.

$250,000 Face Lift On Crystal Approved

Victoria council agreed Thursday to spend $250,000 on a major face-lifting job for the Crystal Garden in 1968.

There was one hold-out opposing Mayor Hugh Stephen's suggestion that during 1967 a minimum amount be spent to keep the Crystal functioning, leaving the way clear for major expenditures and complete renovation next year.

Ald. Percy Frampton said he would like to see the Crystal brought up to date in gradual fashion while the $250,000 was earmarked for a new swimming pool in another location in the city.

But in the end he was persuaded that if the Crystal was ever to play a major role in city activities it should be modernized in a hurry.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow was also reluctant to commit his vote early in the discussion held following Thursday's regular council meeting.

He said he approved the idea of the $250,000 on the Crystal, but was perturbed that such a heavy expenditure from McPherson Estate funds, which become available to the city in December, might destroy for a long time the city's hopes of building a convention centre.

"I like the idea," he said. "But I wouldn't want to see the McPherson funds depleted to such an extent that we have to ditch the convention centre idea."

He was assured that with $1.25 million available to the city in December there would be enough money for both jobs—if an agreement could be reached on the location and size of the convention centre.

Other aldermen were solid in their support for the mayor's suggestion.

PROPER STANDARDS

Said Ald. Hugh Ramsay: "If we spend this money on the Crystal we shall finish up with a $1 million facility. I would object to taking any money to build a new pool before we have brought the pool we now have up to the proper level."

Ald. Ian Stewart agreed.

"If we are going to do anything with the Crystal, we can't just do a nominal job," he said. "Let's do it properly."

The Crystal, a legacy to the city from the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been a costly repair item in the city budget since the take-over.

With the way cleared for a major overhaul, architects will be called in to re-design the entire complex.

Dr. VAN TILBURG
. . . takes over June 1

Medical Director Named to Top Post

The appointment of Dr. Embert G. Q. Van Tilburg as executive director of St. Joseph's Hospital was announced Friday.

Dr. Van Tilburg takes over the administration June 1 from Sister Mary Lucita who has been administrator since July 1965.

A hospital news release stated:

"This change is in keeping with the spirit of Vatical Council II which recommended a re-evaluation of their apostolate by the religious orders" of the Roman Catholic Church.

OPERATE HOSPITAL

The Superior-administrator of a hospital has other obligations within the order which are time-consuming; her term of office is limited to six years at the most "which mitigates against continuity in long-range planning," the statement added.

The Sisters of St. Ann, who own and operate the hospital under B.C. Hospital Insurance financing, considered administration should now be placed in the hands of "a lay person with medical and administrative background," said the statement.

Dr. Van Tilburg was a University of Amsterdam graduate in 1953, joined St. Joseph's staff in 1955 where he became head of the department of general practice in 1964. He left Victoria that year to obtain a master's degree in hospital administration at University of Toronto.

He has been medical director at St. Joseph's since last July.

Sister Mary Lucita will remain as sister superior and as a trustee. P. B. Blewett, assistant administrator now becomes assistant director.

NO INCREASE IN UVIC FEE

President Malcolm Taylor told a student leader this week that tuition fees will be unchanged next year at the University of Victoria.

David McLean, president of Students' Council, said the president told him, following of a meeting of the board of governors Monday, "that there would be no change in the fee structure next year."

Tuition costs students $425 a year.

BROADCASTER Barrie Clark (L—North Vancouver-Seymour) lost a bid to allow television and radio broadcasting and film reporting of debates and proceedings in the legislature. Social Credit members lined up against the Liberals and NDP to defeat the bill when it came up for second reading Thursday.

Death Sentence

EDMONTON (CP) — Charles Hill, 29, was sentenced to death Thursday night for the Nov. 22 shooting last year of RCMP Constable Gordon Pearson, 23, at nearby Winterburn.

CITY TO STUDY AMBULANCE OFFER

City manager Dennis Young has been instructed to study an offer by Garden City Ambulance to operate a round-the-clock ambulance service for the city at a cost of $24,000 a year.

Ald. Percy Frampton called for the study Thursday after informing council that the privately operated service could save the city thousands of dollars.

Earlier this week a council committee had agreed to boost the city's fire department by eight men to enable a round-the-clock ambulance service to be provided by the fire department.

At that time city treasurer James Bramley warned that the total cost to the city in a full year's operation would be around $80,000 annually.

The private company has offered to take over the newest ambulance vehicle and provide identical service for $2,000 a month.

Ald. Frampton, whose proposal was supported by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, said he was not calling for an immediate decision.

"But I do think we should study this offer," he said.

Council agreed to ask Mr. Young to consider all aspects of the proposal and bring in a recommendation for the city's finance committee.

An important message for people who drive

Section 203 of the Motor-vehicle Act is now operative in the Victoria area. Police officers have received special instruction in implementing this law, including the correct use of a voluntary breath test when requested by the driver to determine the driver's alcoholic level. The new law is designed for one purpose: to prevent the possible loss of life and property by preventing the operation of a vehicle by a driver under the influence of alcohol.

What happens if an officer signals you to pull over and stop?

You will be asked to stop if your driving gives the police officer reason to believe your venous blood has an alcohol level of 0.08%. If the officer believes you have consumed liquor to that extent he will suspend your driver's license and will instruct you to park your car. From there you will need to take a bus or taxi home, or be driven home by a passenger who is capable of driving your vehicle. In any event, the officer will require you to surrender your license.

When will you receive your driver's license back?

Your driver's license will be returned without question 24 hours after it has been surrendered. You may pick it up at your local police station. However, the police officer is obliged to return it to you immediately if you request an on-the-spot breath test and the test indicates that your venous blood contains less than eight parts of alcohol to ten thousand parts of blood. The test is quick, easy and accurate. If it indicates that you have consumed less than the specified amount – or none whatsoever – your license will be returned to you.

What if you do not take the breath test?

The test is voluntary and will be given only at your request. It is used only as a means of determining whether your alcoholic level is lower or greater than the specified amount. The amount of liquor consumed is best known to yourself. Whatever reading the test shows will not be used against you in any way. If you exercise your right not to take the test, the officer will retain your license for 24 hours.

Will your license be endorsed?

This law creates no offence. It is designed to prevent accidents by persons whose ability to drive is impaired by alcohol. A person needs to be aware that if he drives after his license has been surrendered to a police officer he is liable to prosecution for driving while under suspension.

SOME FACTS TO REMEMBER ABOUT DRINKING AND DRIVING

After 2 drinks your chances of an accident are doubled when compared with drivers who have had nothing to drink.

After 4 drinks your chances are 7 times as great.

After 6 drinks your chances of an accident are 25 times as great.

For a 150-lb. man 1 ounce of liquor is equivalent to a blood alcohol level of .02%; 1 bottle of beer is equivalent to a blood alcohol level of .03%.

The complete absorption of one ounce of alcohol takes 30 to 90 minutes, and the maximum level is attained 15-60 minutes after drinking ends.

The blood alcohol level means the measure of the concentration of alcohol in the blood. All it takes to weaken powers of judgement, control, and reaction behind the wheel of a car is one ounce of liquor – or .02% level.

A drink is rated at one ounce of whisky, 2½ ounces of wine, or 8 ounces of beer. Hard liquor contains 33% alcohol by weight, wine 12%, beer and some ales 4%, and some ales 5-6%.

'Hold the Line' Cry Forgotten In Budget Fight

By JIM HUME

The bad news trickled in slowly this week.

It never varied. Victoria city council is having a tough time with the 1967 budget.

Hume

Department head after deparment head prefaced his defence of his estimates with "I know this is one of those years."

And one of those years it obviously is.

Even the usual cry of "we must try to hold the line," isn't being heard. Instead the men responsible for controlling city spending are saying "we must keep costs down as much as we can."

They have already accepted the fact that this year the mill rate and taxes will increase.

To the already beleaguered taxpayer the news is sad—but inevitable.

Victoria has grown up fast. Her citizens now have to face the fact that this year, and every year in the future, it is going to cost a lot of money just to protect present investments.

If you like things a little blunter than that, it's going to cost a lot of money this year and each succeeding year just to stand still.

Few residents will agree with a stand-still policy. They want progress.

All they have to do now is condition themselves to the fact that progress is also a costly business.

So, during the next two or three weeks, let's have a little sympathy for the members of city council—taxpayers all. It is their job to keep the city up to scratch and also to authorize expenditures to move it ahead a little.

That will cost them, and you, money.

Not an easy thing to accept, but a fact of life we have to live with.

* * *

One of the brighter moments during this week's budget discussions came when Jolly Jack Morgan, the guiding force behind the Arena, the Crystal, Royal Athletic and the McPherson, presented his Arena budget.

Listed alongside "activities and events—travelling" was $100 for estimated travelling costs in 1966. In the next column under "actual expenditure" was the item $5.

Which naturally gives rise to the question, where can you go for a $5 round-trip fare? Checking ice-time schedules at the Saseenos Ice Palace maybe?

Wherever it was, Mr. Morgan has decided he doesn't want to go again. Under "requested for 1967" there's a blank space.

* * *

This being rather breezy weather a little kite-flying may be in order.

Royal Athletic Park was purchased by Victoria in 1925. The price, paid to the estate of Grace Purchelle, was $30,543.99. (Please don't ask why they didn't round it out to a nice even figure.)

The park had been in operation for more than 20 years at that time and was used mainly for track and field events.

But I'm getting away from the kite.

There's a suggestion from certain quarters in city hall that, come May 30, and the opening of the sparkling new stadium, the name be changed to McPherson Park.

Before the British Empire Loyalists start screaming, let's look at the facts.

The "Royal" tag was placed on Athletic Park years ago without royal consent. It is just one of those things that became traditional by usage. Even Herb Warren doesn't know who first placed the "Royal" in the name and, he adds, "I suspect no one else does, either."

The suggestion is that it is time the city honored the man who by his generosity has made so many fine things possible.

True we have the McPherson Theatre and the McPherson Library at Uvic. But the McPherson money has done far more than make those buildings possible.

If a list were compiled of the projects made possible by McPherson funds it would be an extremely long one.

Anyway, there's the suggestion and in this column's opinion it makes sense.

A tip for the weekend.

If you have Easter visitors and want to impress them, take a stroll around Beacon Hill Park. It is rapidly coming into its spectacular best — and it's free.

Free, that is, if you can forget the $140,000 a year Victoria taxpayers toss into the pot each year to keep the grass green and short and the flower beds blooming.

That's what we were saying at the start, isn't it? You get what you pay for.

ALD. WILSON
. . . ensure standards met

Alderman Asks Nursing Check On Hospitals

A routine check of private hospitals by a Metropolitan Health Board nurse was called for Thursday by Ald. Lily Wilson.

Having formally presented her motion calling for the provincial government to take immediate steps to rectify the problem of lack of beds for chronic care patients in Greater Victoria, Ald. Wilson said a strong system of personal checks was required to ensure minimum standards were met.

"The health board checks the hospitals now for certain things," she said. "But I would like to see regular visits by a health board nurse to make sure the people are getting the right amount of kindness and good food."

Ald Wilson warned that the operators of private hospitals handling chronic cases had stated that other accommodations must be found for welfare cases.

SPENT $5,992

She cited a case of an elderly man and wife who having entered a private hospital little more than a year ago had spent $5,992 on hospital care.

"The husband is now dead," she said. "The lady is on welfare and she, with the other welfare cases, now has to be removed."

Ald. Ian Stewart said the operators of private hospitals should be enlisted to help solve the problem on a temporary basis.

"Now is the time that the private section can demonstrate their public duty," he said.

Before the appeal to the government was approved by a unanimous council Ald. Cecil Parrott said he thought the government increase of $15 a month for welfare cases requiring chronic care was "measly."

"There is no reason at all why they couldn't find the extra $25 and bring the amount up to the minimum rate," he said.

City Gives Green Light to Hospital Study

Greater Victoria municipalities have decided to go ahead with a hospital needs study even if the provincial government declines to share in the cost.

At a special meeting following Thursday's regular council meeting Mayor Hugh Stepen said an immediate decision was urgent.

The study will be designed to outline Greater Victoria's hospital needs over the next 5, 10 and 15 years.

Mayor Stephen said that following a conference with provincial government officials this week he was confident that the province would share the cost.

"But even if they don't, I think we should go ahead," he said.

Council was unanimous in agreeing.

Mayor Stephen said he had approached all municipal leaders in the area and they had agreed that the study should be made, with or without provincial help.

"We can expect the first preliminary report within six months of the study being undertaken," Mayor Stephen told council members. "It would be a decision on the site of the new acute care hospital."

The firm selected to conduct the $40,000 survey is Agnew, Peckham of Toronto.

Mayor Stephen added that he was preparing a recommendation for council to set aside an unspecified per capita amount from city revenues to establish a hospital construction fund.

"During present budget discussions I intend to recommend that a fund be established, possibly on a per capita basis, which will give us the necessary funds for future construction," he said.

The study, which is expected to take many months to complete, will outline in detail all hospital requirements for the area — including recommendations on what should be done to care for the elderly, chronically ill.

START WITH A SIMPLE CHANGE
. . . INSTALL A MODERN SHOWER

The next-door neighbor was complaining the other day because he couldn't take a shower at home.

He said he always enjoyed a good tub but there were times when a good shower was the only answer to a bright start to the day or the quick before-supper scrub.

When he was asked why he didn't get a shower installed he seemed quite surprised, though goodness knows why.

The shower, complete with curtains or the more modern sliding doors, is one of the easiest changes you can make in a bathroom.

It isn't as costly as you might think, neither is it a difficult job for the skilled Journeyman Mechanic.

So, if like the next-door neighbor you long for a quick morning or evening splash, why not call one of the mechanical contractors listed below.

Not only can they do the job economically and with speed but they can also advise you on the best type of fittings for your bathroom.

KASHANS. This is a very important weaving centre. Medallion and prayer designs predominate and are woven both in wool and silk.
KERMAN: The yarn of this weaving centre is soft. The designs are mostly medallion, and trees and flowers. The colours are beautifully blended and are particularly suitable for European furnishings.
FERAHAN is woven with the Sehan knot and has enjoyed great popularity in Europe and America.
KHORASSAN. The stitch of these carpets are finer than those of Ferahan, but the wool is softer and not as durable as the latter.
HERAT. The most common design of these carpets is the recurring leaf and small rosettes. The ground shade is usually dark blue and the finer specimens generally have a soft green border. Knot Ghiordes or Sehna.
SORUK. The style here is very close to that of the Kerhan carpets. The construction is strong with a very deep pile. Knot: Sehna.
SEHNA. This is the district after which the famous Iranian knot gets its name. The carpets are finely woven in small Herat and cone designs. The pile is very short and the rugs are finely woven.
OUOMS, SILK VARAMINS. The famous four seasons of the year included in this exhibition.

Acadian & Chevy II
–two great economy cars from General Motors–

They're here today–and here to stay!

It has been recently reported in the press that General Motors will shift production of its popular compact lines, Acadian and Chevy II, to the United States at the end of the 1967 model year.

Some erroneous impressions have apparently been created by these statements and we'd like to correct them here and now.

The moving of Acadian and Chevy II production is part of the re-alignment of North American production made necessary by Canada's automotive trade agreement with the U.S. Production of other GM models will be stepped up in Canada at the same time as this exchange takes place.

The smart, thrifty Acadian and the trim, value-packed Chevy II will continue to be available throughout Canada.

1967 is proving to be a successful year for both Acadian and Chevy II. We expect 1968 to be an even better year for these great cars!

Drop in and see for yourself why we wouldn't consider discontinuing cars as attractive and economical as Acadian and Chevy II. You'll find Acadian at your Pontiac dealers and Chevy II at your Chevrolet dealers.

Arthur Mayse

In the towns where my father preached, it was expected that the minister's son should know his Bible; and more from duty than natural zeal, I plowed my way from Genesis through to Revelations.

It was grand reading, and still is; but through repetition, I developed a primitive critical facility.

There was, for instance, a puzzling line of division between the Old Testament, with its emphasis on violence, slaughter and revenge, and the New Testament Christ to whom all three were plainly abhorrent.

Rather nervously, and half-expecting a thunderbolt, I decided that where Jehovah might frown upon a kid who sneaked in a discreet hour of woods-roving on a Sabbath afternoon, his Son mightn't mind.

My father—the earthy one—was partial to the Gospels himself, and more sparing with the fire-and-brimstone ladle than his sterner congregation members approved. He did not go so far as to agree outright with my sore-thumb theology, but if I happened to turn up for evening service with wet feet and a breakfast trout handkerchief-wrapped in my pocket, he delivered no censures.

★

Like many another small-church minister, he did not confine his attentions to his own church.

While we were living, and he preaching, in a Fraser Valley town, he would drive each Sunday afternoon to a log mission a mere angel's flutter from the rushing Alouette.

There he would hold a service for a handful of Japanese Christians—berry growers ruddy and weathered, who came from miles away with their families.

I used to go along with my father for company on these T-model junkets, on the tacit understanding that no one would miss me if I happened to drift off quietly into the streamside woods.

We made the trip in summer, fall, and also winter when the roads permitted. But the times I best remember were in spring.

To take a rod along would have been too blatant a flight into paganry. I had line, leader and hook, though; plus a jack-knife to cut a sapling, and a rotted log is more often than not a storehouse of acceptable bait.

I never wandered far—that was part of our covenant—and often if the rain happened to change from drizzle to downpour, returned to slip into a back pew.

Even there, the feel of the woods was not lost. It never is in a structure so fundamentally related to wild nature as a log cabin.

★

The last Easter Sunday of the two on which we drove out to the Japanese mission, the rain came down in a wild spring flurry. I pocketed my gear, speared my pole into a thicket, and eased into the rearmost pew as my father was warming up to his sermon.

It was the same I had heard that morning, and would hear again in the evening. However, perhaps because the listeners were a different people than our rock-bound congregation, my father delivered it very gently, and with an air of happiness.

I suppose there was a certain amount of exhortation; but I remember only the tapping of spring rain on cedar shakes, and the smell of spring through an open window, and a familiar story.

The fishing disciples, obedient to the voice from an early morning beach, spread their net on the right side of the boat and make their wondrous haul.

The Master whom they had followed and loved in His mortal life is waiting for them, with a fire of coals, 'and fish laid thereon, and bread'.

That was long ago, and I have not concerned myself much with theology in the years between. But the memory of man, sermon and springtime setting comes back sometimes at Easter, even now.

Ever See a Shotgun Bug Or a Mouse That Thinks?

By PETE LOUDON

Adults may soon be obsolete.

You get this feeling at the Sixth Annual Greater Victoria Regional Science Fair.

You see the parents walking around with a slightly frightened look.

How would you feel if your teen-age son or daughter suddenly built a binary computer, a salt water powered radio or a model of an atomic power station?

Yesterday he couldn't tie his shoes. Today he's demonstrating the uses of solar energy or a cathode ray oscilloscope.

●

Here's the adult society worrying about "bugging" and junior's built a shotgun sound snooper, a device you aim at someone you can hardly see and you can hear him burp.

You see all these things at the science fair which opened today at the Education Arts Building, University of Victoria. These marvels are the work of youngsters ranging from 11-year-olds in grade 6 to grade 12.

Chris Taylor, is 15 and attends Mount View Senior Secondary School. He's in grade 10. His project demonstrates the effect of selected gases on insects. It's the sort of interest that one day my save our forests from ruin.

●

His work won the grand trophy and an expense paid trip to the Canada Science Fair at Quebec. He knocked off two other awards just for good measure.

Colin Griffiths is 14. He's a winner in the junior division. He built an apparatus and trained rats to climb a ladder to a first stage, pull a chain to raise the ladder, then climb to a second stage. The training took him only six hours.

You get the idea that in 60 hours he could have the rats bringing him breakfast in bed.

●

George Davidson, grade 9, Shawnigan Lake, built a mechanical mouse that follows a maze. When it makes a mistake and takes a wrong path, it remembers. It makes the next trip flawlessly.

What a boon if George's device was built into cars for women drivers, one father commented thoughtfully.

Dr. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education, opened the fair which continues Sunday.

Here is the full list of award winners:

●

Grand Prize, GVTA trophy and trip to Quebec, Chris Taylor, Mount View; Grand Prize runner-up, trip to Quebec, Dave Buchan, Grade 7, Glenlyon; senior division first prize, trophy, $50 bursary and $25, Chris Taylor; senior division runner-up, Fred Hughes, Grade 10, Esquimalt JSS, $40; junior division first prize, GVTA trophy and $50, George Davidson, Shawnigan Lake; junior division runner-up, Colin Griffiths, Lansdowne, $30; elementary division first prize, GVTA trophy and microscope, David Buchan; elementary division runner-up, electronics kit, Doug Taylor, Glanford.

Category winners, book prize and $15: Bob Rowe, Gordon Head; Chris Hvid, Margaret Jenkins El.; Harley Elias, View Royal Elementary; George Davidson, Shawnigan Lake; Fred Hughes, Esquimalt JSS.

Tory Defends Ailing Grit Against Fulton Statement

GEORGE CHATTERTON
. . . slaps colleague

Conservative leadership candidate E. Davie Fulton was criticized here today by a colleague, Esquimalt-Saanich Tory MP George Chatterton.

Mr. Chatterton, home for the Easter holiday, blamed Mr. Fulton for a "most reprehensible and regrettable statement" concerning Victoria Liberal MP David Groos.

Speaking recently in Halifax, Mr. Fulton suggested that a recent illness by Mr. Groos was a sham.

Mr. Fulton, former minister of justice in the Diefenbaker administration, suggested that Mr. Groos was using the illness as an excuse to resign from the Commons defence committee.

The real reason, Mr. Fulton implied, was that Mr. Groos differed from his party in its pursuit of service unification.

"This was a most regrettable statement," said Mr. Chatterton.

"I have know Mr. Groos has not been well. Mr. Fulton should have checked first of all. I know Mr. Groos was under great pressure from long meetings.

"It was a most reprehensible and regrettable statement and it must have been terrible for Mr. Groos" to hear this charge. (Mr. Groos issued a denial of the Fulton charge.)

Mr. Chatterton arrived home Thursday and returns to Ottawa Wednesday. Except for a 24-hour trip to Victoria it is his first visit here this year. He plans no speaking engagements but will meet with friends and supporters privately.

Mr. Chatterton predicted there will be no postponement by the government of the services unification bill.

FIGHT ON

"I expect the government will bring it up right after the Easter recess. We'll fight it right down the line."

He said the Conservative party offered the government an opportunity to adjourn the current session before Easter and bring the matter back at the next session at the point where it was dropped. This would have permitted a shelving of the question for a cooling-off period. But the offer was refused, said Mr. Chatterton.

Mr. Chatterton was asked to comment on criticisms directed at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation this week. Two MPs charged the CBC with showing an anti-American bias.

Mr. Chatterton said he does not watch enough television to comment on that.

"But in many respects the CBC does not act too responsibly. It is not required to make an accounting to Parliament.

"If they had to go to Parliament for their finances they might be more cautious in their approach.

"Right now they are thumbing their nose at Parliament. And I know there is a tremendous waste of money in the CBC."

Boys' High School Planned on Grounds Of St. Ann Academy

Co-institutional high school facilities for over 500 students will be provided soon on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy on Humbodt Street.

Bishop Remi J. De Roo said today a new boys' high school complex will replace outmoded St. Louis College on Pandora Avenue.

Bishop De Roo said the school will fill a long overdue need in Catholic educational circles.

"The new complex will have a total of 16 to 20 classrooms, a gymnasium-auditorium, laboratories and other facilities required to meet modern educational standards," the bishop said.

The first stage may cost as much as $500,000, but a planning committee will meet shortly to draft detailed procedures and finance.

Historic St. Louis College, first opened with a handful of students on Jan. 17, 1864, will continue to function as an education centre, but in a different role.

"The old college building will be completely renovated and brought up to modern standards and will be renamed St. Andrew's Cathedral Elementary School," the bishop said. "It will continue to serve, for many years, we hope, in this capacity."

With the decision to build the new boys' school now made, Bishop De Roo said work will start immediately on the drawing of plans to be followed by a construction start sometime later this year.

September, 1968, Opening Date

Tentative opening date for the new boys' high school has been set as September, 1968.

Bishop De Roo said an over-all plan for a major co-institutional education centre on St. Ann's site is to be developed, and today's major stride is but the first step. Also planned immediately is a re-located residence for the Christian Brothers of Ireland who will continue to staff the boys' school.

The only school property to be abandoned in the over-all scheme to provide modern, spacious facilities will be the buildings now occupied by students at Holy Angels School at North Park and Quadra.

The new St. Ann-St. Louis complex will be financed entirely by voluntary donations.

A major contribution is expected from the Diocese of Victoria and another from St. Andrew's Cathedral. Parish contributions will make up the balance.

Michael J. Griffin, chairman of the St. Andrew's Cathedral parish board of directors, applauded the bishop's plan.

'Bold, Imaginative Answer'

"The bishop's plan of decisive action is a bold, imaginative answer to a most pressing problem," Mr. Griffin said. "With the enthusiastic support which the project is certain to enjoy, fruition is well within the means of the Catholic community to achive without undue sacrifice by any one individual.

"The proposal also pays a most deserving tribute to the Sisters of St. Ann in their work both in the schools and hospitals of our community dating to the time well before Confederation."

Mr. Griffin said the bishop's announcement also demonstrated complete confidence in the Christian Brothers of Ireland who have served this community for more than 53 years.

"The complete project will take time, naturally," the bishop said. "But I am confident that this is but the start of a program which, with full consultation with the Catholic people, will be implemented in the future."

PROTESTERS CALLED 'RIFF-RAFF'

Canadian university students "protesting one thing and another" have been labelled bums and riff-raff by the president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to the Jaycee membership written Thursday and released today in the Jaycee "official bulletin," president Grant Johnstone said:

"I personally feel (such students) are nothing but a bunch of lazy bums, as the student who is genuinely interested in learning expresses himself in the type of work he turns out.

★

"Students pay fees to the university, but you and I as taxpayers also help to pay their way and I think it is time that we, as young men, stood up and spoke out strongly against some of the riff-raff who presently attend the universities of Canada.

"The groups are in the minority but they are the ones who receive the news media coverage and it makes me wonder whether it is worth their while to go to our universities.

"Many of you have children and you will probably say 'my children will never be like that'.

"I know I feel that way, but somebody's children are growing up like this, are revolting against our society, and the only thing I can see wrong with our society is the tendency to give our children too much."

Burn Victim's Condition Poor

A hydro lineman severely burned in an accident Thursday morning is described in poor condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today.

HISTORY PROJECT GETS $7,500

Canada Council Grant Helps Launch Study of Aussie Ports

The Canada Council has granted $7,500 for a departmental project at the University of Victoria and $6,500 to a professor doing a study of ports.

The university's Social Sciences Research and Information Centre will use its grant for the compilation and printing of the first bibliography of British Columbia history.

The first volume, to deal with the period from 1849 to 1899, will be published this summer.

Research is headed by Mrs. Barbara Lowther, the centre's bibliographer. Chairman of the faculty's research committee is Dr. R. H. Roy.

Dr. Charles N. Forward of the university's department of geography will begin a year's field work in Australia this fall studying waterfront land usage and port functions.

He will do detailed work in Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Hobart, Adelaide, and Fremantle, and general surveys in the bulk cargo ports of Newcastle, Port Kembla, Geelong and Whyalla.

Findings are to be compared with studies of Canadian ports.

Also announced today was a $5,000 grant to the university's library to build up its research collections.

Loves Every Minute of It

BUSIEST HOSTESS IN TOWN

By PAT DUFOUR

One of the busiest hostesses in town today is Mrs. Jessie Salmon. Her home at 861 Esquimalt Road has been full of callers since she got out of bed this morning.

The reason for all the excitement is her 94th birthday although Mrs. Salmon is probably the last person to consider her age much of a feat.

Says this spry little woman who's proud of her figure (she should be, a woman half her age might well covet it), "I can't say I really feel 94, but then, I don't really concern myself with age.

"I just live the way I did when I was younger and living a normal life is about the best recipe I know for enjoying things and keeping well."

Live a normal life she does, keeping her four room house as neat as the proverbial pin, cooking her own meals and sewing her own clothes.

Although she's been in Canada since 1914, her speech is still liberally laced with traces of the cockney accent of her native London.

Her sewing today is almost as neat and perfect as when she worked as a court dressmaker in the British capital. As proud of her figure as any young girl, Mrs. Salmon attributes it to an awareness which began when she worked in a shop on London's Kingsway.

"All the great actresses of that time used to come in to our store to have their clothes made. Rather than fuss with the business of trying them on, they'd get me to act as their model. So you see, I've always known the value of keeping your figure in shape."

She's equally concerned that her snowy white hair is neat and tidy, shampooing and setting it herself.

Mrs. Salmon still takes a lively interest in the Order of the Eastern Star, having been a member of Chapter No. 17 since October, 1949. Prior to that she chalked up 16 years as a member of the Forest City Chapter in London, Ont. Chapter members are proud of the fact that Mrs. Salmon is the oldest O.E.S. member in existence.

She not only attends her own chapter meetings. Mrs. Salmon also makes a point of "taking in" as many meeting as possible of other chapters in the area.

She makes one concession to her 94 years of living. She dons glasses to see her way when crossing the street.

"But," she adds with a proud smile, "I don't need them to sew, cook, read, write or work in the house."

Unable to find a single speck of dust in her immaculate home, I'm willing to concede her belief that "if you live naturally, your faculties will do their best to do what is to be done."

In the case of this determined little woman, that's a lot.

AFTERNOON CEREMONY

Wendy Brown Married In Brentwood Chapel

An exquisite sheath gown of Sonesta, encaged with sheer norganza, was worn by Wendy Hallam Stevenson Brown this afternoon, when she became the bride of Simon Francis Nankivell.

Delicate daisy appliques of Guipure lace circled the gently floating skirt and were echoed on the sheer cathedral train which swept back from the shoulders. Similar accents outlined the jewel neckline and enhanced the long angel sleeves. A small cap of matching daisies held her softly misted veil of silk illusion net. She carried white marguerites in her bouquet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland de M. Brown, 728 Sea Drive, Brentwood Bay, and the groom is the grandson of Mrs. John H. Nankivell, 1733 Fairfield Road, and the late Cmdr. Nankivell, RN.

Arrangements of Easter lilies, spring flowers and greenery decorated Brentwood College Memorial Chapel for the service conducted by Archdeacon E. H. Maddocks.

Mr. Brown gave his daughter in marriage and Glenn Oliphant was organist.

Pink sparkle organza trimmed with daisy appliques enclosed the sheath gowns of peau de soie worn by the bride's three attendants. Their headpieces were of tulle and organza and they carried white daisies in their bouquets.

Miss Penelope Brown was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were the Misses Nancy Tidman and the bride's cousin, Meredith MacKay.

Best man was Gordon Burleson. Ushering the guests to their pews were Donald Bell, John White and Gerald Moore.

T. G. Denny proposed the toast to his goddaughter at the reception which followed in Brenta Lodge, Brentwood Bay. Arrangements of white stocks and greenery flanked the tiered wedding cake which centred the head table.

An original Courreges skimmer suit in alabaster and cream tones was the choice of the new Mrs. Nankivell for travelling on honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs. As complements, she wore a silk Tyrolese hat and accessories in the same color theme.

Travelling from out-of-town for the wedding were the bride's uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hockham of Fort William, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacKay, Saskatoon, and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kimmins of Vancouver.

Party Pair

A duo of showers heralds the marriage this evening of Miss Diane Britt to Mr. Laurie Cook. Mrs. F. Provencal entertained in her Amphion Street home for the bride-elect. Those attending included Mrs. R. Leach, Mrs. Q. Haddow, Mrs. F. Humphreys, Mrs. A. Geoghan, Mrs. L. Dumesnil, Mrs C. Langthorne, Mrs. W. Langthorne, Mrs. A. Stockley, Mrs. E. Cook, Mrs. R. Cook, Mrs. G. Munro, Mrs S. A. Britt and Miss Val Euerby. The Roseberry Avenue home of Mrs. G. Christianson was the setting for another shower. The party was attended by Mrs. R. Cook, Mrs. D. Cook, Mrs. R. Dirom, Mrs. S. A. Britt, Mrs. G. Aiken, Mrs. W. Battie and Miss Val Euerby.

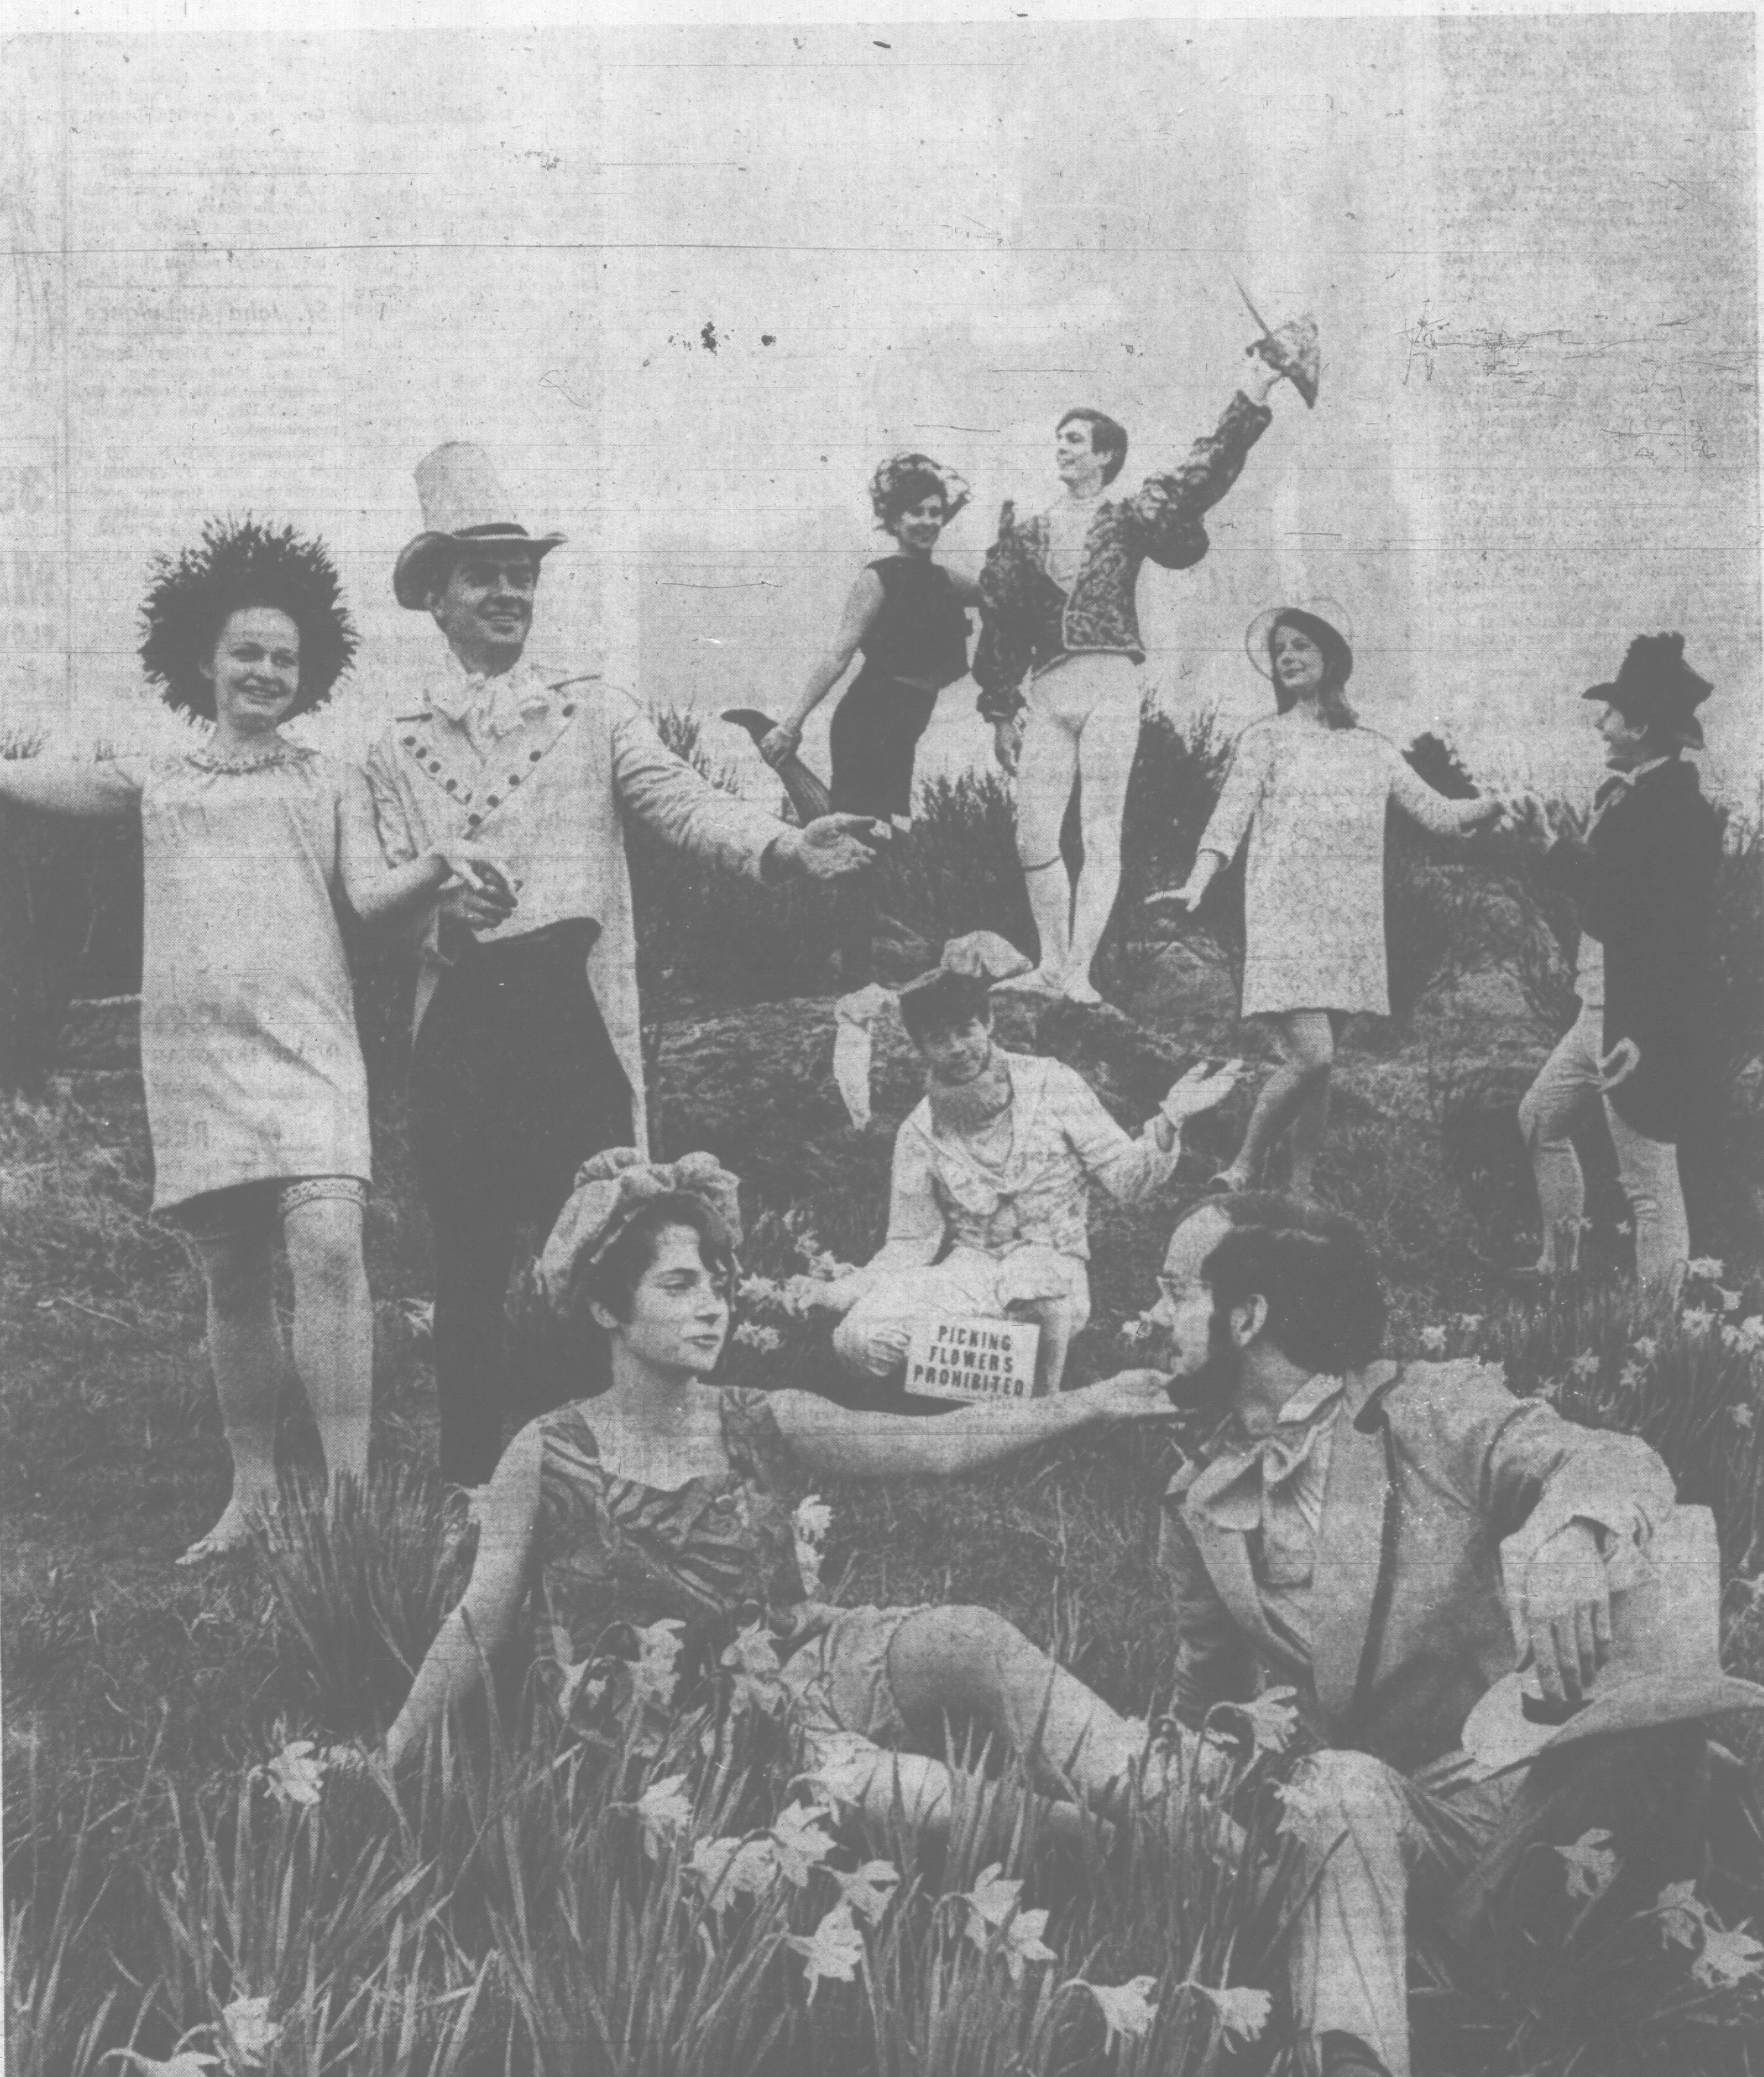
It's Enough to Curl the Ears of the Easter Bunny!



The Easter Bunny has a problem. He poked his nose out of his egg-stacked rabbit warren a little earlier than usual this year in order to pick some daffodils. Instead, he found himself fascinated with a group of young people in Beacon Hill Park wearing the zaniest styles to ever appear in any Easter parade. Having kept up with the fashion news, he was quite prepared to cope with mini skirts. But, when you couple mini skirts with short, short pants and the floppiest of spring chapeaux—then you have a combination guaranteed to turn any Easter Bunny's head. It didn't help his giant-sized headache to find that the charmers' escorts wore outfits almost as colorful . . . even Carnaby Street couldn't do better. He asked The Times to take this picture in order to prove to himself it really happened. We went further, we even found the names of the culprits. In the foreground are Judy Pool and Eugene Gallant and at his left are Wendy Packard and Larry Eastick. Atop the rock are Sally Ball and Paul Blakey, while, at his right Paul Smitz admires Barbara Dunn's chic lace dress which, like all the other feminine fripperies, was made by Ursula Redwood, the local couturier. Miss Redwood, when not assisting in bunny-baiting, creates fashions that have earned her a trans-Canada reputation as one of the tops in her field. The chapeaux that add the final touch to her outfits were the contribution of Miss Frith Millinery and Fashions Limited. Before the Easter Bunny heads for the nearest psychiatrist who owns a rabbit-contoured couch, we think it's only fair to tell him that the people he saw in the park are all from the Bastion Studio. In off-Easter periods, the Easter Bunny assumes the identity of Glenn MacDonald and works at the same studio. If he hadn't been thrown completely off balance by the "No Picking" sign which stopped him from gathering a few of his favorite flowers, he might have recalled his "alter ego." But, after all, you can't expect an Easter Bunny to remember everything . . . especially when he has to make his annual rounds the next morning! (Page arranged by Pat Dufour, Women's Editor, and picture taken by Bill Halkett.)

From head to toe at Miss Friht's . . .

People are continually waylaying us and asking where can they find this or that . . . and surprisingly often our right-off-the-bat answer is "Miss Frith's . . . You know, of course, that the name Miss Frith is synonymous with beautiful hats . . . famous for a wide selection of suits, coats, dresses and co-ordinates . . . but there are all sorts of other things too . . . We did some department-hopping this week . . . stopped to see the new shipment of swimsuits . . . which we think you'd be smart to cast an eye on too . . . the selection is terrific now, and the size range large . . . Gorgeous swim caps which will knock your eye out! . . . Nylon and Kidtex gloves in all the vibrant colors like yellow, lime, orange, etc. . . . to add exclamation marks to your colorful new clothes . . . A big selection of handbags, both large and small . . . Patents, straws, printed linens . . . genuine leathers and plastics . . . and just let's add a word here about these plastics . . . they're marvellously "real" looking and beautifully made . . . Any woman could carry one with pride! . . . Several good brands of nylon hosiery . . . the new "Fascination" by Kayser . . . which have stretchier, narrower tops so good with the shorter skirts . . . Supp-hose and Tempo support stockings . . . Chatelaine Cantrece . . . Claire nude-heel nylons (for your sling pumps), and Miss Frith's own Lady Pamelas, which are on special at just 48c a pair . . . great for every-day wear . . . Miss Frith's Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas Street, 383-7181.

For the woman who has everything: a set of 14 karat gold buttons to sew on her blazer.

Double value for your money . . .

We ran into our city's leading fashion expert in Wilson's last Monday . . . and found she shared our own enthusiasm for the newly-arrived dress and jacket ensembles which . . . worn together . . . have the chic, trim, ever-appropriate appearance of suits . . . while minus jacket, the dress takes on a new life of its own . . . leaves you looking all-of-a-piece, instead of with the incomplete look of blouse and skirt . . . One we especially like is a double-faced weave . . . cool green on the outside, coral inside, giving an almost iridescent effect . . . Jacket is fully lined, fastening up to the neck with green and coral buttons . . . dress has check front in both colors . . . flattering A-line skirt . . . There's a very light-weight Scotch tweed in bold blue checks . . . single construction tailored jacket, to fit smoothly under a topcoat . . . skimmer dress with cap sleeves . . . A youthful jacket and dress ensemble is a striking blue and green combination . . . the dress has two inverted pleats in front, a blue silk trim and tie give the illusion of a collar . . . Two other models in size 16 have short-sleeved dresses . . . one is a grey and white check . . . the other a soft apricot shade in plain and check combination . . . We think any one of these is an excellent wardrobe buy . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

London's favorite: stockings in the palest, sheerest pink—a shade like face powder.

Handsome room-brighteners at home . . .

Skillful and imaginative use of mirrors literally brings a room to life . . . and, as any interior decorator can tell you . . . creates illusions of space where none exists . . . reflects light and color . . . adds warmth and charm . . . In the Gallery of Home Furniture this week we saw part of a new shipment of traditional mirrors, any one of which would do your living room or hall proud . . . give a new dimension to your home decor . . . They come in many sizes and a variety of shapes . . . chastely plain or opulantly ornate . . . Oval . . . oblong . . . full-length . . . Gilt frames, some with rich red or black inlays . . . others all gilt with carving-like decoration . . . They're all fine plate glass . . . and look frightfully expensive . . . when in point of fact they're just the opposite . . . ranging from $27.50 to about $95 . . . Also a new shipment of beautiful lamps of all descriptions are on view in The Gallery . . . and we don't need to tell you how much handsome lamps can add to the beauty of your home . . . We were fascinated by the "chain-de-liers" . . . chandeliers and hanging lamps in a Mediterranean mood, with long chains through which the cords run . . . so you can just plug them in anywhere and hang where you please . . . change them around to suit your mood! . . . Home Furniture Company, 825 Fort St., 382-5138.

The short chemise is the perfect setting for today's short dresses and skirts.

Victoria dancers cop top honors . . .

Remember we predicted last month that pupils of the Arthur Murray Dance Studio here who were competing in a big international dancing contest in Seattle would come home with a trophy? . . . Well, we understimated: they came back with TWO! . . . One lady copped top prize in the international Silver Standard Tango . . . another came in second in the International Bronze Standard Cha-Cha . . . We're telling you this to indicate the high calibre of dancing instruction dispensed by the Arthur Murray School in Victoria . . . Pupils were competing with those from other Murray studios from all over the West Coast . . . some 200 contestants in all . . . and we think their brilliant success speaks for itself! Now, maybe you don't aspire to win trophies for your terpsichorean skill . . . but you can easily become a mighty good dancer . . . the kind of dancer who'll be sought after at social gatherings . . . if you enroll at Arthur Murray's for a course of lessons . . . You'll learn all the new and popular dances . . . how to dance easily and gracefully and effortlessly . . . how to achieve more joie de vivre . . . stay young, no matter what the calendar says! . . . Make this year your year for becoming an accomplished dancer . . . Call . . . Arthur Murray School of Dancing, 715 Yates St., 385-1476.

Nothing bolsters a woman's confidence more than the knowledge that she is impeccably groomed.

Saba fabrics vibrant with life and color . . .

A new word recently coined is "psychedelia" . . . applied to all sorts of things whose shapes and patterns and colors embody a heightened vibrancy and "awareness" . . . We thought of this when viewing some of the new spring and summer fabrics on display at Saba's . . . particularly a group of printed linen-like materials whose "wild" colors blend into a curiously harmonious whole . . . One with deep turquoise background combines green, gold, magenta, shocking pink . . . Another is geometrically designed in hot pinks, blues and shades of mauve . . . They're stunning for summer slims and suits, cost $3 a yard . . . Dan River cottons, about the weight of sailcloth . . . $2 a yard . . . come in a multitude of plain colors, stripes and checks . . . Seersuckers and novelty striped material, at $2.69 . . . There are lovely Swiss and French linens, very crease resistant . . . in all the high fashion colors like lime, mint, yellow, shocking pink . . . as well as white, brown and beige . . . A particularly luscious apricot shade combines beautifully with a Liberty lawn print in toning colors . . . These linens range in price from $4 to $5 . . . Next Tuesday . . . start of the Saba Day sale . . . there'll be a lot of wonderful bargains in the fabric department . . . so make a point of getting down early . . . Saba Bros. DEAR ABBY . . .

Love, Kisses And Shoe Polish

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married a year and we get along very well. The only argument we have is whether I should polish his shoes or not. We both read your column every day and would like you to settle this for us.

HATES TO POLISH SHOES

DEAR HATES: Polishing a man's shoes is like showering him with kisses. Unless it's done with love, he may as well stop off downtown and hire it done.

DEAR ABBY: There is a woman in our office (she's no youngster) whose husband sends her flowers, candy, birthday gifts, anniversary presents, valentines, etc. — delivered at the office! Why, I wonder, doesn't he send them to her at home?

I am not jealous for I have been happily married for as many years as she, but don't you think she has him send everything to the office so she can "show off" a little bit in front of the other girls?

ONE OF THE GIRLS

DEAR ONE: Possibly. But look at it this way. Perhaps you're lucky. At least she doesn't bore you to death the next day TELLING you about it.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend said he wanted to buy me an engagement ring so I immediately thought of a diamond. Yesterday he took me into a little shop that sold trinkets and he asked me how I liked a set of rings that cost $25. Abby, they were awful! They looked like tin and cut glass. I didn't tell him what I thought of the set, I just said, "Let's look around."

Now Abby, if he couldn't afford something better I wouldn't say anything. Should I accept the set he picked out or not? I hate to hurt his feelings, but even at $25 I think he's getting stung. How can I let him know how I feel without appearing greedy or hurting him?

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Tell him frankly that you don't think the set he selected is worth the money, and you'd like to look further. Then steer him into a reputable jewelry store and let the salesman educate him. (No one learns about diamonds faster than a young man who's in the market for one.)

And if you intend to marry him, you had better start learning to communicate with him. A wife who is too timid to discuss money with her husband is off to a poor start.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HOPELESSLY IN LOVE AND CAN'T END IT": If you can't end the affair, get her out of your office. "A wise tailor never cuts his cloth in the same room where he dances." That is a rule most professional people would do well to heed.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Award Won by Wife of Minister

Nona

"Being a woman is the most wonderful thing on earth," says Mrs. L. R. Peterson, who last week received a framed certificate from the Millinery Institute of America. The accompanying letter congratulated Mrs. Peterson for being the "Best Hatted" woman in this community.

The award could well have been a "best dressed" one as her flair for fashion is most apparent throughout her entire wardrobe. Asked what she would consider the greatest compliment a woman could receive, this busy wife and mother replied, "To be feminine."

With long dark hair piled high on her head the popularity of roomy deep-crowned millinery is a joy to our winner. Being able to have long hair and wear hats comfortably is a most important part of being feminine.

Mrs. Peterson's high coiffed hair is the epitome of elegance for the evening hours but a smart hat is her answer to daytime elegance.

A woman who favors the simple understated silhouette for her basic wardrobe, she allows the luxury of feeling feminine to be expressed by her chapeaux.

Having taken several millinery courses, she cleverly makes about half of her hats. Mrs. Peterson keeps her collection of hats at about 30 styles. Black or white or a combination of both heads the color card.

Pinks that shade to mauves rather than reds highlight Mrs. Peterson's spring hats and yellow is a favorite for the sunny days of summer.

Berets and tams are the most often chosen shapes with large-brimmed, deep-crowned "garden party" hats placing next in favor. As wife of B.C.'s minister of education, this most attractive woman leads a busy life.

She hopes to instill the feeling of femininity in her daughter, Karen, and spends time with her daughter's wardrobe . . . often using her knowledge of dressmaking to add just a personal touch. Karen is most observant of the details of her mother's wardrobe, whereas Raymond, her teen-age son, is more impressed with the total image. Mrs. Peterson feels boys are good for mothers, "they so often say the right thing and really build one's morale."

A gracious hostess and devoted mother, she still finds time for a yearly project. Mrs. Peterson has studied millinery making, the Bishop method of dressmaking and is now studying French with Mary Hamilton.

It is difficult for our award winner to understand the fear that many women have of advancing years. Mrs. Peterson feels that charm and beauty are often much more obvious in a woman of more mature years.

Plan Debutante Ball In Nanaimo on May 13

A young Indian woman will be among the 12 debutantes who will be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes when the Nanaimo Branch of the Navy League of Canada holds its annual Debutante Ball in the up-Island city's Shoreline Hotel on Saturday, May 13.

Making her debut will be 20-year-old Miss Maxine Thomas, an employee of the provincial government's motor vehicle branch. Miss Thomas makes her home with her grandfather, Mr. Christopher Paul of West Saanich Road.

Her sponsors will be Chief Douglas White of the Nanaimo Indian band, and Mrs. White, whose own two daughters were presented at the annual affair three years ago.

Mayor Les Hammer and Mrs. Hammer of Port Alberni will be sponsors of another debutante, Miss Colleen Garrard, whose parents are Capt. R. Garrard and Mrs. Garrard of Alberni.

Miss Trudy Mole will be the third out-of-town debutante to be presented. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mole of Duncan.

The remaining nine debutantes are from Nanaimo. They are Miss Cheryl Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hunter of Irwin Street; Miss Jane Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cooper of Holyrood Drive; Miss Christine Command, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Command of St. David Street; Miss Nancy Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bell of Howard Avenue; Miss Lee Ann Howden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon D. Howden of Lynburn Crescent; Miss Ann Mochrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mochrie of MaChleary Street (her sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Matthews); Miss Shirley Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Davidson of Sherwood Drive (her sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. Don Neill); Miss Lynda Hein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hein of Campbell Street, and Miss Debbie Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wilkinson of Bluebell Terrace.

Mr. Wilkinson is president of the sponsoring group and in charge of ball arrangements.

The glittering affair attracts dignitaries from all over the island and is by invitation only.

The evening's program will include a dinner which will see covers being laid for 300 guests. Cornish hen will be starred on the menu.

Denis W. Brown, Victoria, first national vice-president of the Navy League of Canada, will give the toast to the Queen and Frank Ney will toast the debutantes.

Miss Maxine Thomas considers May 13 to be one of the most important dates of her life. That evening, she will be among 12 debutantes to be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes in Nanaimo.

MARRIED TODAY

Bride Has Heirloom Locket For Her 'Something Old'

An heirloom gold locket fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Marjorie Diana Skene, this afternoon, when she became the bride of Bruce Wayne Wilson, Port Renfrew, in St. Aidan's United Church.

The locket, which had belonged to her great-great-aunt, was the only jewelry accent to the bride's dainty gown of embossed velvet. The gown was floor-length and fashioned with lily-point sleeves. Her chapel veil was "something borrowed" from Mrs. Don Bruce and it misted softly to her shoulders from a floral headpiece. A spray of orchids topped the white leather Bible which she carried.

Baskets of yellow and white daffodils, chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church when Rev. A. G. MacLeod heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen James Skene of Port Renfrew, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Wilson, 554 Whiteside Street. Mr. Skene gave his daughter in marriage.

Organist was Mrs. Vera Barclay and as the couple signed the register, she accompanied soloist Mrs. Ralph Smith who sang "I'll Walk Beside You".

An empire-line gown of aqua satin crepe was worn by matron of honor Mrs. G. L. Heyd of Port Renfrew. Her rose headpiece was en tone and edged with tulle, and she carried carnations in her bouquet.

The bridesmaid, Miss Darlene Cyr, Nanaimo, was in a similar gown of tangerine, with matching headpiece and bouquet of tangerine carnations.

Ken Holding was best man and ushering the guests were Mr. Heyd and the bride's brother, A. W. Skene.

Sugar wedding bells topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the Tally-Ho Travelodge. The cake was decorated with peach-toned roses and flanked with arrangements of red roses. Ted Gumbley, Tamworth, Australia, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will be making their home at 1517 Cold Harbor Road following a honeymoon trip touring northwestern Washington.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Wilson donned a double-breasted cotton-knit suit of navy and white, accented with white topstitching at the collar and front closing. Her accessories were white and she completed the ensemble with a corsage of white orchids.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Miss Lenor Hill, Calgary; Miss Linda Martin, Vancouver, and Miss Helen Vipond, Sydney, Australia.

Showers Herald Wedding

Gifts of linen were concealed in a gialy decorated umbrella for bride-elect Miss Maureen Benn when she was entertained at a shower by the Misses June Fyfe and Diane Hackwood in the latter's Greenridge Crescent home. The bride-elect's marriage to Hugh John Bunton takes place this evening.

Pink carnations en corsage were given to the honor guest. Her mother, Mrs. W. Benn and grandmothers Mrs. F. Wittrup and Mrs. P. A. Benn also received corsages. A shower cake, decorated with silver leaves, centred the refreshment table, and games were played.

Guests included Mrs. W. Hocevar, Mrs. G. Rai, Mrs. C. J. Skinner, Mrs. W. Scott, Mrs. C. Butterick, Mrs. B. Perkins, Mrs. R. Burow, Mrs. C. Anderson, Mrs. O. Ericksen, Mrs. A. Dash, Mrs. Don Hackwood, Mrs. N. Hanford, Mrs. W. R. Wilkie, the Misses Roxanne Turnham, Susan Waller, Grace Plumridge, Katheleen Perkins, Eileen Robertson, Kate Ericksen, Wanda and Nadine Simpson.

The Oak Park Place home of Mrs. N. Hill was decorated in an Irish theme when she and Mrs. W. Holmes entertained at a shower. Gifts were contained in a decorated wishing well. The honor guest, her mother and the groom-elect's aunt, Mrs. J. Bunton, were all presented with corsages.

Games were played and refreshments served to guests Mrs. W. Holmes, Mrs. N. Hill, Mrs. P. A. Benn, Mrs. F. Wittrup, Mrs. N. Thomson, Mrs. Rai, Mrs. Hocevar, Mrs. B. Sproule, Mrs. J. Churchill, Mrs. T. Grover, Mrs. R. Turcotte, Mrs. R. Descoteau, Mrs. P. F. Benn, Mrs. W. Scott, Mrs. C. J. Skinner, Mrs. D. Doneley, Mrs. Wilton, the Misses Sharon and Carol Kitto, Geri Skinner, Diane Hill, Diane and Lorraine Benn, Debbie Holmes, Shelley Scott, Eleanor, Marilyn and Nancy Benn.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Shop Specializes In Unique Decoration

By Penny Saver

The most interesting homes are those with unique highlights. You don't have to go "way out" with op art furniture covers, or have no furniture at all with the exception of floor cushions to add the individual touch to your home decor. You can start your personal touches right outside your front door. One of my friends has a fascinating lantern hanging by the outside light. This creation is made of chunks of colored glass. In the yard near the house they have hanging baskets of all types of unusual bird houses in the trees.

If you're on the lookout for conversation pieces, I found the shop for you. One item in this store is a bell, made of clay. They're shaded in greens, yellow and blues and they hang from long leather cords. Inside, there's a feather extending outside the bell. These would be perfect novelties to hang in your porch, outside, or even inside the house. Wherever you decide to place your bell, your visitors are bound to rave about it. They sell for $8.50

If you're thinking of increasing your accessory wardrobe with jewelry that is different, this shop has creations that you can't pass up. Bracelets and neck pieces made by a local artist are just the thing for accenting tweeds. This artist has designed this jewelry to show the "rugged beauty and sophistication of British Columbia". One bracelet is made of "sticks" of stoneware, strung together on elasticized bands. Price of this unique piece is $2.50.

There are pendants of every description in this store. Large pendants are made something like Chinese letters. (That's my interpretation, anyway.) Others are smaller slices, with designs that stand out from the actual pendant. Have your choice of pendants for $2.

While you're browsing in this shop, remember to bring in your china or pottery that need repairs. Mending jobs are another of the specialties in this shop.

Interested? give me a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where I shopped for these.

Model Clothes Made in Night Classes

AMATEURS STAGE MAMMOTH SHOW

About 130 women and one man showed off their sewing ability to a packed audience in the auditorium of the Oak Bay Junior Secondary School, Wednesday evening.

The man was Peter Lesmeister, the only male to take part in the sewing classes of the adult education division of the Greater Victoria School Board this year. It didn't seem to faze him a bit that he was the only one of his kind among 300 who attended one of the 18 sewing classes offered in the curriculum. He modelled the red flannel sports shirt he'd made with the aplomb of a professional model.

He intends to enroll in another class next year. This time his ambition is to make a dress for his wife, Sylvia.

Wednesday's fashion show was organized by the sewing teachers and their pupils turned out in force to view or model the fashions and raise $375, to be used to provide more equipment in the classrooms.

Some of the models, most of whom were "on stage" for the first time in their lives, showed signs of nervousness but all were obviously proud of their accomplishments as they fingered a collar or sleeve as commentator, Helen Beirnes, pointed out the intricacies of the work involved.

There were more photographers snapping pictures than would be seen at most Easter parades or fashion presentations. These were mostly proud hubbies, anxious to get a memento for the family album.

Even the children had been enrolled in the gigantic undertaking, modelling outfits made for them during the past night school season.

One of the most blase of the pint-sized models was an authentic looking Batman, his costume complete in every detail. Completely at ease, he paused effectively to scratch one leg during his amble across the stage which was punctuated by the organ music of Steve Barclay.

If the show is any portent, this year will see more social gatherings than ever before. The amateur seamstresses had outfits for each and every occasion. Cocktail and formal gowns, suits for spring and less balmy seasons, pant suits, hostess gowns and blouses. You name it, whatever the garment, there was a host of creations to suit every occasion.

One young bride-to-be showed a peacock blue cocktail gown which she'd made for part of her trousseau. Her next project will be an ankle-length version of the same pattern, this time in white and destined to be worn on the Big Day.

One little charmer wore a smocked frock of material which her mother had received from England 35 years ago.

One of the most outstanding outfits was a striking cape and suit of gorgeously toned tweed which was teamed with a hat brimmed in the same material. Showing their versatility, many of the models had made chapeaux to add the final touch of polish.

Mrs. Jim Panton opened the show after being introduced by R. P. Mylrea, co-ordinator for the adult education division.

Showing the imagination which had obviously prompted their students' choice of color and material, the instructors were on stage during intermission. Their ovation sounded like a clap of thunder as they stood, as if ready to stage a top-flight presentation in outfits that Christian Dior would be glad to recognize as his own. In the faculty line-up were Mrs. Gwen Kraeling, Mrs. Lillian Cottam, Mrs. Ruth Evans, Mrs. Margaret Gifford, Mrs. Monika Alde and Mrs. Ursula Redwood.

Adding to the setting, arrangements of Easter lilies, the work of Shirley McAree, gave an effective touch of spring to the stage.

Even before the guests entered the auditorium they were treated to other evidences of skills learned during the evening sessions. In the lobby were dressmaking and tailoring displays, tables of crocheting, tatting, embroidery and rugs, made by Mrs. Elizabeth Middleton's students, and floral arrangements by teacher Mrs. Theo Wiggan.

At the close of the lengthy show, guests were able to talk over the fine points when they gathered in the cafeteria for refreshments. Here, again, flowers in artistic arrangements, added to the picture. The table settings were the work of Miss Mary Rainsford, Mrs. W. G. Holms and Mrs. W. A. Kempster.

A veritable army of volunteers worked behind the scenes to ensure success of the undertaking.

These included Mrs. Oliver Summers, Miss Roberta Whittaker, Mrs. Mylrea, Mrs. Middleton, Miss Marjorie Beattie, Miss Pat Newman, Miss Maureen Sangster, Mrs. J. S. White, Mrs. William Mollard, Mr. Kevan Cottam, Mr. Len Longden, Mrs. Jack Dalgleish, Mrs. Joan Ainscough, Mrs. Ivan Varkonja, Mrs. E. D. A. Dyer, Miss Margaret Beacon, Mrs. E. A. Bosward, Mrs. G. W. Allison, Mrs. G. Fenton, Mrs. D. Escuda, Mrs. David Cook and Miss Andrea Mollard.

EASTER MESSAGE — KEY TO CHRISTIANITY

History's Cry of Joy: He Has Risen!

By MOST REV. REMI DE ROO
(Bishop of Victoria)

Christians are Easter-man.

The whole of our Christian faith centres upon the fact of Christ's resurrection from the dead. As St. Paul puts it, if Christ did not rise from the tomb, your faith is vain, for you are still in your sins.

It seemed impossible that there could be victory after such a tragedy as that of Calvary. Even the apostles must have wondered. But triumph followed upon apparent defeat: Easter morning saw an empty tomb and heard the cry: "He has risen, He is not here."

Condemned to death, Christ came forth in all the glory and the splendor of His risen life and generations of Christians have never ceased to proclaim the event: "Christ is truly risen from the dead, Alleluia."

By becoming man the Son of God entered the world of sin and death. Although He could not be touched by the moral guilt of sin, He took upon himself the condition of our sinful existence.

He came in the likeness of sinful flesh: he became subject to suffering and death. Entry into our history meant a self-emptying on the part of the Son incarnate. Christ, as man, renounced the glory that was His due and accepted a solidarity with the sinful human race.

The resurrection transformed the humanity of Christ, brought Him out of this world of sin and death, penetrated Him completely with the Holy Spirit and exalted Him as lord of the whole of creation.

In Christ, mankind passed from death to life, from the existence marked by sin to the order of the resurrection. The redemptive drama enacted by the saving intervention of Christ takes place in and touches man of every age when in baptism he passes with Christ from death to life. It is a new exodus. As in the exodus of old man passes over from the salvery of sin to freedom, freedom as brothers of the risen Christ to live a new life of sons of the Father.

The resurrection of Christ is a singular message of Christian hope. With the risen Christ, we become children of the Father. Again, in Christ we have a pledge of future glory. His resurrection is a pledge of our resurrection. As the apostle tells us, Christ has risen from the dead, the first fruits of those who have fallen aslep. As by a man came death, by a man also comes resurrection from the dead.

Death is swallowed up in victory.

Easter recalls to us our salvation in and with the risen Christ and confirms our hope that just as Christ has arisen from the tomb, we in our turn can await a glorious resurrection.

Three Sunrise Rites Arranged for Sunday

Three Easter sunrise services will be held in Greater Victoria Sunday.

Victoria city's annual sunrise service, sponsored by the Victoria camp Gideons International of Canada, will be held in Centennial Square starting at 7:45 a.m.

The Easter message will be given by Orvis A. Kennedy of Edmonton, described as one of Canada's best known Christian laymen.

Music will be provided by the band of Victoria Salvation Army Citadel Corps, which has participated in the annual sunrise service for 24 years.

The entire service will be broadcast over a public address system in Centennial Square and many Sunday schools will participate.

"It is intended for the whole community," said Frank Beamish, president of the Victoria camp.

Kairos of the United churches of Victoria will conduct a service at the top of Mount Douglas starting at 6 a.m.

In the event of rain, it will be held in Metropolitan United Church.

MOUNT TOLMIE

An Easter morning service for all faiths will be held on Mount Tolmie starting at 7:30 a.m.

It will be conducted by Rev. Harry Pike of the Church by the Lake, Monsignor Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria; and Canon Hilary Butler, canon lecturer to the Anglican diocese of British Columbia.

The scripture lesson will be read by Reeve Hugh Curtis. Music will be provided by the Claremont Senior Secondary School choir, directed by Don Kyle, and the Mount Douglas Senior Secondary School band under bandmaster John Boel.

COFFEE SERVED

Buses will leave Yates and Douglas in front of Rose's Jewellers at 6:45 a.m. via Douglas, Hillside, Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road to the summit of Mount Tolmie.

Parking will be available and coffee will be served by Saanich fire department.

In the event of bad weather, the service will be held in Lansdowne Junior Secondary School auditorium.

DIRECTOR TO PREACH

Guest preacher in the Lutheran Church of the Cross, Cedar Hill Road, Sunday at 11 a.m. will be Rev. Larrence E. Reyelts, executive director for the division of congregational life, Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada.

Resurrection: Fantasy or Fact? Different Attitudes Explored

"There are varying attitudes to the declaration 'He Is Risen'," says Rev. John A. Watson, minister of First Baptist Church.

"Some wonder if it is fantasy or fact. There are others who question whether the church is deceiving itself with sweet-sounding sentiment, pretty pictures and happy endings.

"Still others ponder whether life is not more realistically portrayed in the events of Good Friday."

The morning worship at First Baptist Church will address itself to such thoughts as it centres on the Easter proclamation.

"Christianity," says Mr. Watson, "is essentially a religion of resurrection. Take it away and you destroy the foundation and fabric of the faith, for every congregation is intended to be a community of the resurrection.

"The gospel offers the world the power of the resurrection."

The morning lesson will be from the gospel of Mark 16:6 and Acts 17:32-34.

"At the evening worship," says Mr. Watson, "we shall focus our attention on the fact the resurrection is not just a testimony of the past, but the key both to the present and the future."

The lesson will be read from the Gospel of Matthew 28:6-7.

'From Doubt To Assurance'

My Lord and My God will be the sermon topic at Stevenson Memorial and Emmanuel Baptist Churches on Sunday morning.

Rev. Norman K. Archer will liken the experience of the Apostle, Thomas, passing from doubt to assurance and faith, to our modern spiritual experiences.

During the morning service the ordinance of believers' baptism will be followed by holy communion and the reception of new members.

There will be no evening service, but in its place a 4 p.m. family service will be held in the Fellowship Hall at which time there will be a portrayal of the cross and ressurection by means of slides based on famous paintings on view in Forest Lawn Park, Los Angeles.

Thy Light by Day

Realty is the subject of this week's lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday. Bible references open with a verse from Isaiah: "The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord shall be unto theee an everlasing light, and thy God thy glory."

AND THE CROWD SHOUTED: 'CRUCIFY HIM'

For This I Was Born, Jesus Told Pilate

The following article, last in a series about the case against Jesus, deals with His trial, conviction and sentencing.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A thick, jostling crush of humanity swarmed the cramped streets of Jerusalem, singing, bartering, baking matzos, getting set for celebration. Masked by the hurly-burly, the world's mightiest power judged Jesus.

Its global peace-keeping army, in league with local oligarchs, had subdued Him, and Caesar's haughty envoy looked with disdain on this reputed liberator, His face blotched from cuffings of the soldiers.

"Are You the king of the Jews?" Pontius Pilate demanded.

Jesus said, "Do you say this of your own accord, or did others say it to you about Me?"

Pilate sneered, "Am I a Jew?" He loather them, their religious obstinance, their refusal to worship the emperor, their fractious ways.

"Your own nation and the chief priests have handed You over to me."

Outside the governor's praetorium, the Temple officials and their hirelings collected a supporting crowd, but it could not have been more than a manipulated side ripple of the ocean of people packing the city that day.

Conservative estimates put Jerusalem's population then at a quarter million, jammed within the three-mile circumference of the walls, a number doubled by pilgrims for the Passover, clogging the inner city and tent camps outside it.

CROWD STIRRED

The crowd outside the praetorium could have been only a fractional corner of commotion, and it was a managed one at that. "The chief priests," Mark's gospel notes, "stirred up the crowd."

It probably included visiting strangers, who had never heard of Jesus, but simply joined the official chorus. The affair was rushed, at daybreak, when Temple personnel could be enlisted in it, but before the general citizenry would know.

"It was early," says John's gospel.

Mark writes that the whole trial was over by the third hour, 9 a.m., following Jesus' seizure around midnight—obviously before most of the native Jewish populace which defended Him had even heard of His arrest.

"What accusation do you bring against this man?" Pilate put the formal question for the start of a Roman trial. His Temple subordinates replied, "If this man were not an evildoer, we would not have handed Him over."

Pilate twitted their impotence. "Take Him yourselves, and judge Him by your own laws." They readily conceded, "It is not lawful for us to put any man to death."

QUESTIONS JESUS

But political whitewash, to keep Pilate off the hook, dictated that provincial collaborators push the charges. "What evil has He done?"

"We found the man perverting our nation, and forbidding us to give tribute to Caesar, and saying that He Himself is Christ a king" — three counts of high treason.

"He stirs up the people teaching throughout all Judea, from Galilee even to this place," the Temple chieftains declared.

At this point, Pilate signalled the guards to bring Jesus inside the governor's chambers, and there questioned Him about His purported Jewish kingship. The mauled prisoner said, "My kingship is not from the world."

"So You are a king?" To Pilate, it was laughable.

But the prisoner didn't jest. "You say that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth. Every one who is of the truth hears My voice."

An impractical visionary, Pilate gauged Him, a nothing. "What is truth?"

He left the battered dreamer with the guard, and stepped backoutside on the balcony where he posed leniency, a gambit the emperor once ordered in rebuking Pilate for excessive harshness in a previous case of Jewish defiance.

"I find no crime in this man. But you have a custom that I should release one man for you at the Passover. Whom do you want me to release for you, Bar-Abbas or Jesus who is called Christ?"

Two men named Jesus were under indictment that day — the rabbi from Nazareth and Jesus Bar-Abbas, a Zealot insurrectionist who had started a national uprising in the city, allegedly committing murder in the process.

"Bar-Abbas," the pro-Roman lackies called out.

Whether the entire proceeding was prearranged between Pilate and the subservient Temple retinue, which he conholding Sadducean party was trolled and whose small, landhated by the Jewish masses, cannot be ascertained.

But in military-occupied, foreign-ruled states, held by

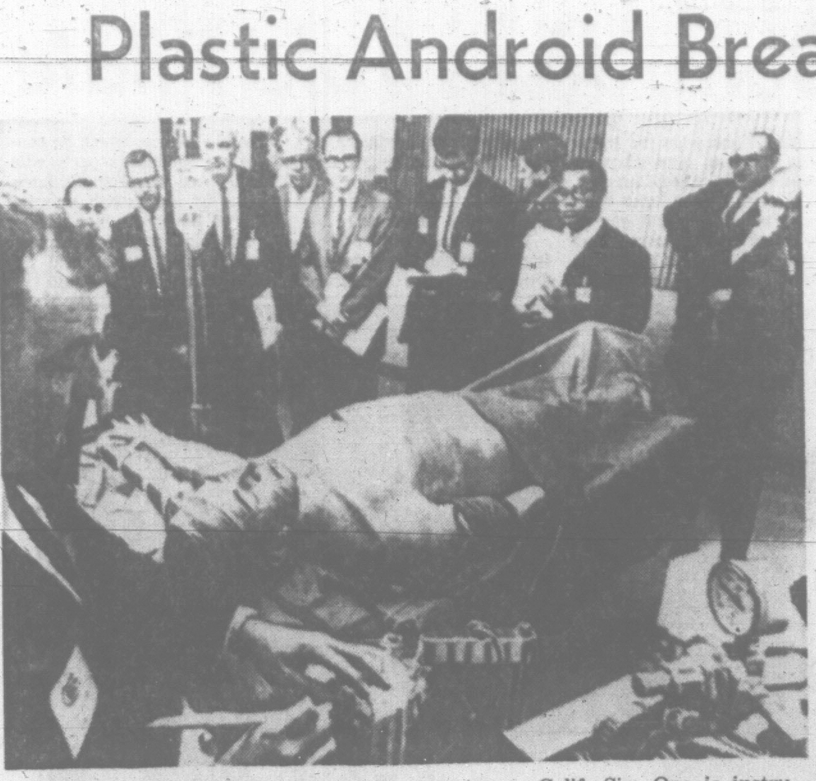
SCIENCE FICTION COME TRUE

Plastic Android Breathes



MARKING ADVANCED STEP in training of doctors and operating room technicians is development of a life-size, life-like dummy called "Sim One." It is shown being demonstrated at Azusa, Calif. Sim One is instrumented only in head and chest. One of its creators predicts a fully functional "whole conscious form" in seven years. (AP Wirephoto)

AZUSA, Calif. (AP)—The age of the android has dawned. Androids are automatons fashioned in human form—long forecast in science fiction.

Man's progress toward duplicating himself took a spectacular step forward last week with a demonstration in an electronics laboratory of a lifelike, life-size android that breathes, has a heartbeat and pulse, blinks its eyes, opens its jaws to disclose teeth, tongue and vocal chords, and even responds to drugs the way a human would.

The six-foot-two, 195-pound android was created in skin-colored, skin-textured plastic to speed up the teaching of anesthesiology and thus help relieve a shortage of physicians threatening to become critical as population expands.

It has been dubbed Sim One, meaning it is the first of a progressively complex series of simulators planned to train doctors and aides in health services ranging from first aid to fractures.

CLOSE TO MAN

Sim One is instrumented only in head and chest, but one of its creators, Dr Stephen Abrahamson of the University of Southern California school of medicine, predicts a fully functioninal "whole unconscious form" in seven years.

"The future is unlimited," Dr. Abrahamson said at a press briefing at th Aerojet-General Corp. laboratory where Sim One was created.

"The second generation of Sims will be able to bleed and sweat and will be shaped to simulate different ages of each sex. The third generation, which we hope to evolve within several years, will be even better than cadavers for training medical students."

Will they be able to walk and talk? "They could—that would be a comparatively simple task," said Don Carter of Sierra Engineering Co., which made Sim One.

TEACH METHOD

Another of Sim One's creators, Dr. J. S. Denson of USC, demonstrated the android's primary use—training anesthesiologists to slip a tube down the throat into the trachea, or windpipe without damaging delicate tissues. This procedure, he said, is used in 90 per cent of major surgery and usually takes three to four months to master.

"By constant practice with Sim One, a young resident could learn the procedure in one or two days."

The three-year project to build Sim One cost $272,130 under a grant from the U.S. office of education. Dr. Abrahamson said eventually a package consisting of a manikin and a small computer would be produced for about $150,000, for use in hospitals and medical schools.

"With fully instrumented Sims," said Dr. Denson, "it should be possible to shorten the post-graduate training of a physician from eight years to six years."

'Outlawing Strikes Invites Greater Unrest by Labor'

DREW
. . . economic dictatorship

The leader of one of southern Vancouver Island's largest labor groups said Thursday to outlaw the right to strike is to invite more labor unrest than ever before.

Speaking to Victoria Rotary Club, president of the 1,880-member Local 118 of the International Woodworkers of America, Murray Drew, said advocates of a ban on strikes are also advocates of "economic dictatorship."

"Whenever governments and employers have attempted to outlaw stikes they have only fomented greater labor unrest and a rash of illegal strikes with increasing chaos in industry.

BASIC FREEDOMS

"Unless we abandon all pretence of adherence to the basic freedoms of democracy, the individual worker must have the right to refuse to accept or continue under unsatisfactory conditions of employment.

"This right cannot be justifiably denied if he acts in concert with his fellow workers to reject unsatisfactory conditions of employment."

"The thinking of some people, and I refer to Mr. Pearlman," said Mr. Drew shows "more heat than light."

(City lawyer E. E. Pearlman last week told the Kiwanis Club the right to strike and lockout should be replaced by binding decisions from labor courts.)

"A strike is the exercise of a civil right."

"Those who advocate that strikes be outlawed should be warned by the lessosns of history.

"Destroy the right to strike and you destroy the right to effective collective bargaining.

"Destroy free and effective bargaining and you invite chaos in industry.

'ILLEGAL ALTERNATIVE'

"Destroy both collective bargaining and the right to strike and you deprive workers of the freedom of choice.

"They are left only the illegal alternative of revolutionary action."

Mr. Drew said it was "inconceivable that we should seek to return to the bloody industrial strife" of times past.

"Collective bargaining may not be the perfect system," he said. "But it is the best yet devised by free men, conscious and jealous of their liberties.

"The legal right to strike has not been annulled although it has been drastically reduced.

"I contend that those who advocate a ban on strikes should first be required to consider the elimination of conditions which cause strikes.

"We must more vigorously support public policies which are directed to eliminate the root causes of labor unrest."

Mr. Drew said strike action "is a weapon of last resort".

"The record will show that the majority of industrial disputes are settled through bargaining, concilliation and mediation."

DEFENSIVE WALL AGAINST ROCKETS?

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The concept of an Arctic anti-missile system, operating as a UN-sponsored international defence against American, Soviet or Chinese long-range rockets, has been proposed by Democratic Senator Albert Gore.

It's one of the facets here in considerable debate about how to handle a costly new phase of the nuclear arms race unless the Soviet Union and the U.S. can agree to call it quits.

"It is being considered," says the Tennessee senator in an interview. But just how much—if any — Canadian territory might be required is conjectural at this stage.

The Canadian Arctic and subarctic were vital to the Distant Early Warning — DEW — and Mid-Canada radar lines thrown up against bombers in the 1950s.

Similarly, Canadian launching pads were deemed vital by the U.S. for the short-range Bomarc anti-bomber missile.

But the long-range attack missiles, and those that now may be set up to destroy them in flight with counter nuclear explosions, could be based elsewhere.

WOULD USE SHIPS

"I'm not sure at the present time that any Canadian land would be required," says Gore. "Some ships could be used perhaps to close the gap between anti-missile bases I suggest for Greenland and Siberia.

"But that's not to say some Canadian land wouldn't be desirable."

Gore hopes the United Nations would operate the defensive missile wall he envisages.

Gore bared his idea to State Secretary Rusk during a recent closed sitting of his Senate subcommittee on disarmament. Rusk welcomed it because "we welcome new ideas — we need new ideas on this matter because the issues are very great."

Privately, state department officials emphasize such an international force as Gore suggests is just one possibility. First, the U.S. is hopeful of getting the Soviet Union to hold off developing further the defensive missile system it says Russia has started. The Soviets, perhaps for better bargaining conditions, have not seemed eager to talk.

Otherwise, domestic political pressure could build up quickly in Congress for the U.S. to press ahead, it is feared.

A map in a recent issue of Time magazine shows graphically Canada's built-in stake in any such system — one it can't do much about. The Time map shows U.S. defence missiles meeting and exploding nuclear warheads against others coming over the North Pole. Canada is right under the explosions.

. . . FOR THIS I WAS BORN

forcibly trampling down native hostility and sporadic revolt, history records that totalitarian regimes, including imperial Rome, often conspired to give false public justifications to their persecutions.

PILATE WAS TYRANT

It is also clear that Pilate dissimulated during the trial, pretending to be innocently unacquainted with the case, although actually it had been such a disturbing topic in his household that his wife had nightmares about it only the night before.

Pilate himself, as described by Philo, the Alexandrian philosopher of that period, was a merciless, vain, corrupt, insolent tyrant, of "ferocious passions" who engaged in wanton cruelties, rapine and killings.

Although the New Testament tends to picture him only as an indecisive, vacillating man, yielding to crowd pressures, the accounts were compiled at a time when overt aspersions on Rome would have further jeopardized Christianity, then an unlicensed, illegal religion, which Rome moved increasingly to stamp out.

Pilate, after eliciting the call for release of Bar-Abbas, went back in his chambers, and ordered the legionnaires to flog Jesus, before proceeding further.

Jesus was tied over a short post, and lashed with the multi-thonged, metal-tipped flagellum. Prisoners often died from the punishment. But Jesus came through it, lacerated, bleeding and weakened, but still on His feet.

JESUS RIDICULED

The legionnaires indulged in some soldierly sport, getting the whole cohort of 600 men together, while they arrayed Jesus in purple cloth, twisted a mock crown of thorns on His head, and poked Him, saying, "Hail, king, of the Jews!"

Pilate had the beaten, ridiculed figure shoved back out on the open pavement, announcing contemptuously, "Behold, the man!"

"Let Him be crucified," the Temple officials shouted.

They apparently had criers planted in the crowd to take up the chant, and draw any bystanders into it. The "chief priests and elders persuaded the people," including the uninformed, casual tourists, Matthew's gospel says.

Altogether, the Temple employed about 20,000 functionaries, Levite musicians, secretaries, vergers, cooks, guards. And it is possible that their superiors, under the Pilate-sanctioned high priest, got some of them—on duty early at the Temple for the festival—to join the hasty demonstration.

"We have a law, and by that law He ought to die, because He has made Himself the Son of God," the Temple leaders called out.

JESUS SUMMONED

That was a puzzling, freakish charge to the ears of Pilate, whose only religion was probably a perfunctory emperor worship. Out of annoyed curiosity, he summoned Jesus back inside.

"Where are You from?" Pilate quizzed Him, cynical about whatever strange answer might be forthcoming. But Jesus, knowing the mockery, stood silent. Infuriated, Pilate blazed at Him:

"You will not speak to me? Do You not know that I have power to release You, and power to crucify You!" He had the prisoner hauled back outside, goading the coached crowd further by again proposing to release the culprit.

"If you release this man, you are not Caesar's friend," the Temple minions declared, playing their submissive role to the hilt. "Everyone who makes himself a king sets himself against Caesar."

The Jewish people, however, so hated Caesar that they turned increasingly to violent revolution, culminating in about 30 years in open warfare, crushed by Roman armaments with massive nationwide slaughter and the firey destruction of Jerusalem.

'CRUCIFY HIM'

Pilate took his seat on the portable bema, and had the badly pummelled prisoner dragged front and centre. "Here is your king!"

"Away with Him," the official claque stuck with it. "Crucify, crucify Him."

The governor kept up the contrived smokescreen to the king?"

"We have no king but Caesar!"

Seated on the judicial throne of the world's dominion, Pilate rendered his verdict and passed sentence on Christ — crucifixion, a cruel form of death.

But it was not just a lone tyrant that killed Jesus. It was all sorts of men, the apostles who fled, denied or betrayed; the ruling establishment that feared Him; the Roman soldiers that arrested and bullied Him; the status-seekers trading principle for prestige.

It also was the human infirmities, of all times, that compromise men, the compulsions and collusion, the vested interests, the pride of office and power, the fearful grasping for comfort and security—the universal egoisms that despoil life.

UNJUSTLY BLAMED

Certainly, even in the isolated historical context, it was not generally the Jews, but rather their oppressors, the foe against whom they battled and died by the hundreds of thousands, the arrogant aggressor whose soldiers arrested, whose court condemned and whose executioners killed the greatest Jew of all. It was His Jewish believers who gave His truth to the world.

"In the world, you have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

The New Testament describes Judaism as "the root" and Christianity as its branches. The great apostle Paul, a Pharisee and son of a Pharisee, warns Gentiles not to be "wise in your conceits."

"Remember it is not you that support the root, but the root that supports you."

"All Israel will be saved," he writes. "God has not rejected His people whom He foreknew . . . They are Israelites, and to them bbelong the sonship, the glory, the covenants, the giving of the law, the worship and the promises; to them belong the patriarchs, and of their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ."

The Roman military detail took Him to the cross.

And Pilate to show his scorn for the people that Jesus represented and whose widespread affection for so long frustrated imperial justice, had a derisive placard slung to the victim's neck: "The King of the Jews."

City Defies State Over Fast Time

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP) — The city of Menominee in upper Michigan has defied the state and refused to set its clocks an hour ahead.

The state took the defiance calmly.

Governor George Romney signed into law Friday a bill establishing Easter Standard Time in the whole state. The bill became law immediately.

Previously, Gogebic and Dickinson and port of Menominee counties, all in the western upper peninsula, had been in the Central time zone, their clocks in time with bordering Wisconsin.

The rest of Michigan, although geographically in the Central zone, has been on EST for more than 20 years.

Deputy Attorney-General Leon Cohan said Menominee, a city of 11,000, said: "We're going to operate under the assumption they will go along with this. But if there are flagrant violations, I think we may have to crack down."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

A letter from Winnipeg reads in part, "Do you ever open with a bid of four no-trump? If you do, what does the bid mean?"

The answer to this question is that we do use the four no-trump opening bid about once every year or so and when we do we are asking for aces. In other words our opening four no-trump is immediate Blackwood.

Today's hand shows this bid at work. South is a trifle shocked to find that he is expected to play a diamond slam without a diamond in his hand but he recovers from the shock in time to collect for the game, slam and rubber.

It is evident that North and South would have no trouble getting to six diamonds on almost any bidding sequence, but the opening four no-trump is really valuable here.

Opening lead—♥ K

Suppose, for example, that North opened with a natural forcing two diamond bid or an artificial forcing two club bid.

East is not vulnerable. He can't be expected to get into the bidding at the five level but any East worth his salt would surely get into action at the two level and stick in a two spade overcall.

South would pass and West would bid either three hearts or three spades. This would not stop North from trying Blackwood at his second turn to bid but it also would not stop East and West taking a save at six spades. Six spades would be down three tricks for 500 points but that is a lot less than paying for a successful slam.

Families Split In NATO Move

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — RCAF personnel now moving to West Germany from France under President de Gaulle's NATO evacuation order may be separated from their families for months because of lack of accommodation at their new base at Lahr, in the Black Forest.

An official involved in the move said today some personnel may be forced to live three and four to a room in Lahr military barracks or in Lahr hotels until the French tactical air force withdraws from the Lahr base.

The inconvenience and lack of comfort may last about four or five months, he estimated. When the French quit Lahr, sufficient family accommodation will become available for all Canadians.

Meanwhile, the move from Metz and Marville, the Canadian bases in France, is being speeded on a round-the-clock basis and officials estimated the operational side of the Canadian NATO commitments will be out of France before the March 31 deadline.

WILL MOVE OUT

"We will be 100 per cent moved out," said air Vice-Marshal R. J. Lane of Victoria, commander of the Canadian air division.

"There is no doubt about it."

The French government, while ordering operational NATO bases out of France by March 31, is allowing non-operational personnel and their families to remain until the school term ends in June or July.

Until the French do make their move from Lahr, they will be in control there. However, the official said French officers and men are extremely co-operative and are trying to make as much room available as possible for the Canadian equipment being shipped into the base.

$100,000 Too Much For NDP

The Social Credit party and its candidates spent the bulk of almost $1 million in campaign funds used during the September provincial election.

Revised figures on spending were provided by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black to correct a statement of election expenses filed earlier in the legislature.

It showed the Socreds, between their central office and individual candidates, spent a total of $647,531.

The Liberals were second with a total of $130,469.

The NDP was third with a total of $115,990 — the earlier figures had a typographical error which suggested the NDP had spent $125,000 from its central office alone instead of the $25,000 it had reported.

Motorized Sleds Head for Pole

MONTREAL (CP)—A 10-man expedition to the North Pole was flown into its base camp at Eureka on Ellesmere Island, N.W.T., about noon today, an RCAF spokesman said.

The Plaisted Polar Expedition, headed by Ralph S. Plaisted of St. Paul, Minn., touched down aboard an RCAF C-130 Hercules aircraft carrying the expedition team from Thule, Greenland where they spent the night.

The seven Americans and three Canadians will try to reach the geographic North Pole by mid-April, travelling their 800-mile plotted route in motorized sleds.

They are to rest at the Eureka base camp until Monday before heading out over the ice and snow fields.

Eureka is about 650 miles south of the geographic North Pole but the trip will be lengthened to 800 miles in the route the party plans to take.

The geographic North Pole—or true north—is located at 90 degrees north latitude and about 900 miles north of "compass" or magnetic north.

It has been visited previously by atomic submarine under the ice and by aircraft. Admiral Robert Peary was officially the first man to reach the geographic north when he battled his way there by dog sled in 1909.

The Plaisted Expedition is the first to attempt to reach the Pole travelling over ice by merchanized means.

Pedestrian Suffers Broken Leg

Ronald Fletcher, 29, of 819 Hillside Avenue, is in satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital after suffering a broken leg when hit by a car Thursday night.

City police said he was injured as he crossed Douglas just north of Hillside. Driver of the car involved was identified as Frederick Godslave, 134 Wildwood. He was southbound on Douglas, officers said.

Two teen-agers were released from Royal Jubilee hospital earlier Thursday evening after a two-car crash at Pembroke and Quadra.

Jerome Tombu, 17, of 2654 Fernwood, and his passenger, Geri Skinner, 14, of 3176 Glasgow, suffered minor injuries when the Tombu car, northbound on Quadra, was in collision with a car driven east on Pembroke by Kenneth Egan, 569 Kelvin.

Police described damage to both cars as heavy.

Canada Worst Spot For Dodgers

WASHINGTON (AP-CP)—An expert said Wednesday that of the ways to beat the draft in the United States, going to Canada is the worst.

Burke Marshall, chairman of President Johnson's draft reform group, said anyone can beat the draft.

He was testifying before a Senate labor subcommittee hearing on an expected extension of the military draft.

Democratic Senator Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the subcommittee, asked about young men escaping the draft by moving to Canada.

Marshall said any youth with the "will, the means and the intelligence can beat the draft."

He outlined some of the ways, including entering college, getting a job that has an occupation deferment and getting married and becoming a father.

"All of these are like means of tax avoidance. They are legitimate but they are bad for our democratic country.

"Going to Canada is worse."

JAPANESE BARQUES COMING HERE

Two four-masted barques will sail out of the past into British Columbia waters as a salute to this province in Canada's Centennial Year, L. J. Wallace, general chairman of the Provincial Centennial Committee, announced today.

They are the merchant marine training ships Nippon Maru and Kaiwo Maru, operated by the Japanese ministry of transportation for officer-cadet training, two of the very few four-masters in the world.

They will arrive in company at Victoria June 14 for a 15-day, three-city visit. Both will be at Victoria from June 14 to 20. The Nippon Maru will proceed to New Westminster, visiting there from June 21 to 26. The Kaiwo Maru will sail to Prince Rupert, arriving June 25, departing June 29.

ALDERMAN 'BETTER OFF IN CHURCH'

Two Victoria aldermen clashed Thursday on the extent of duty when it lay between church and a swimming pool.

Ald. Percy Frampton had castigated council members because only he and Ald. Lily Wilson showed up for a water safety demonstration last Sunday by the Chinatown Lions Club.

Snapped Ald. Robert Baird in reply: "I object strenuously to this notice of censure. What we do on Sunday is our own affair. If the alderman had looked a little more closely he would have found that some of us were in church. And I think I was better off in church than at the Crystal."

Ald. Frampton did not reply.

Three of the acrobats pictured above barely made it to the theatre in time for the performance. Consequently, their attire is somewhat different from the rest. Can you spot the three late comers? While you are at it, see if you can find a pair of twins among their companions.

Answer: Man wearing belt, top row; man wearing sox, middle row; and man without wristbands, bottom row, are latecomers. Twins are second from top left and far right in middle row.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

Since 1935 it has been customary for the engravers of Canadian stamps to include in the design the year date the die was engraved, though it generally takes a strong magnifier to see it.

A reader has pointed out to me that these dates on the new series are so small as to be almost microscopic, as you can verify for yourself if you decide to search for them.

To give a couple of examples: On the 1c you will find it on the snow about half way between the first dog on the left and the bottom frame line. On the 8c it is at the foot of the stamp one-quarter-inch from the lower right corner. Now try your luck with the others—but use the most powerful glass you can get!

The engraver is to be complimented, by the way, for his remarkable skill in being able to engrave on steel on such a microscopic scale.

* * *

During the last few years Britain's stamps have been produced by the multicolored photographic process. This has resulted in a number of errors, such as showing one color of the design missing, etc. Such freaks have been fetching quite fancy prices in London.

In the case of the Battle of Hastings commemoratives, the designs showed, in addition to the various colors, the Queen's portrait embossed in gold.

A few of the issues came to light with this latter feature missing, and collectors were glad to pay £20 apiece for them.

But they now have cause to regret their enthusiasm, for it seems that the gold portion of the design was applied to the stamps by a sort of transfer process, and some misguided experimenters found that certain solvents would cause the portrait to become unstuck.

Presto!—a rare variety, indistinguishable from the original error!

So Gibbons' catalogues will no longer list these rarities, for although perfectly genuine specimens do exist, there is no way of guaranteeing that they are not merely made-to-order changlings.

ANSWER IN THE BAG

They know a particularly good spot for hunting ducks and one day two fathers and two sons got together for a day of shooting. Each shot a duck and no two shot the same duck, yet three ducks were in the total bag.

How come?

Solution: The group consisted of a grandfather, a father and a son, which is two fathers and two sons.

WHAT'S THE WORLD?

The figures 123456789 indicate the letters in a certain word. If 871 make a short drink, 259 a floor covering and 634 a fish, what is the nine-letter word?

Answer: The word is "producing." The sub-words are nip, rug and cod.

Youth Jailed For Stealing Milk Money

Two men currently serving prison terms for false pretences pleaded guilty to additional charges when they appeared in central court Thursday.

John Merrill, 56, of High River, Alta., received a three-month term to be served concurrently with his present sentence. He admitted writing a $20 worthless cheque at Harrison Hot Springs Hotel Jan. 21.

A. E. Anderson, 41, of no fixed address received a similar sentence after he admitted illegally cashing a company cheque for $49.50 at Toppley, B.C., last July.

Walter McKinnon, no fixed address, was remanded in custody for sentence after admitting he obtained lodging by fraud.

He wrote a worthless $65 cheque to pay for a 16-day stay at a downnton hotel.

One of three youths who last week admitting 13 counts of stealing money from milk bottles was jailed for six months.

Barry Tateham, 19, of 521 Simcoe, had also admitted stealing a wallet and a watch from two Douglas Street apartments in the series of thefts March 11.

He was sentenced to six months definite and six months indeterminate at the Haney Young Offenders Unit.

Ian Tateham, 20, of 159 South Turner, was fined $10 for his part in each of the 13 milk bottle thefts.

Magistrate Byers told Bernard Dumesnil, 19, of 825 Burdett, that because the youth had no criminal record, he was giving him a suspended sentence.

Anthony Rose, 24, of 2344 Middowne, was fined $300 when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

He was stopped by police early Thursday after his car was spotted speeding and weaving on Esquimalt Road.

A mother of five who last week pleaded guilty to writing a worthless cheque when buying children's shoes was placed on probation for six months.

Mrs. Lois Ross of 722 Market St. was also sentenced to a nominal one day in jail. She had been held in custody seven days awaiting sentence.

Audrey Revell, 1425 Fernwood, was fined $25 on two counts of shoplifting.

She had been held a week in jail after pleading guilty to the offences last week.

'Take My Girl'

TERESA LYNN THOMPSON
. . . finance firm won't cash her

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville mother who sent her five-year-old daughter to a loan company that garnisheed her paycheque says she 'would do anything" to get the child back.

But the pretty blonde daughter now is a ward of juvenile court, and the mother, Wanda Lee Thompson, 27, has been charged with neglect.

Mrs. Thompson pinned a note on young Teresa Lynn Thompson's coat Thursday and sent the child alone in a taxi to a downtown finance company. The note read in part:

"Here is my baby. Since you took my cheque you can take care of her till I'm able to."

The mother, divorced, said Friday night that she regrets sending Teresa Lynn to the loan company.

WANTS BABY BACK

"I got to thinking about Easter and her needing shoes and clothes and knowing that I would not get a cheque for the next two weeks," she said. "I couldn't pay a babysitter to stay with her while I worked and everything just seemed to mount up. . . .

"If I had it to do over, I wouldn't do what I did again—not after all the agony I've been through. I'm going to do everything in my power to get my baby back," she said.

Meanwhile, Teresa Lynn was removed from the custody of juvenile court so she could spend Easter with a great-aunt.

Martha Marsh, a court probation officer, said the child may be allowed to stay with the aunt, Beatrice Clements, pending final action in the case.

Teresa Lynn was turned over to police by Bill McMaster, manager of the loan company, who said he was tired of being the 'bad guy" in the case.

"I'm no inhuman," he said. "Had the woman called me or done anything and said, 'Look, I can't feed my child' and we would have done something for her — released her cheque or something."

McMaster said the amount of Mrs. Thompson's loan was confidential but added, "she obviously was very far behind or we wouldn't have taken the drastic step to garnishee her cheque."

The mother is employed by a Nashville manufacturing plant.

$8,000 FINE FOR SKIPPER?

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The skipper of a seized Soviet trawler was flown here from Kodiak today for arraignment on a charge of violating U.S. fishing waters.

Senator Ernest Gruening and E. L. Bartlett (D—Alaska) in a telephone call from Washingtoh to the Associated Press in Juneau, said the state department had recommended a fine of $8,000.

Gruening and Bartlett called the recommended fine "a mere tap on the wrist" and said it represented "a weak policy of appeasement."

Waves of Oil Washing Up On U.K. Coast

PENZANCE, England (UPI) — Waves of oil began washing up along miles of picturesque Cornish coast today and the battle of Britain's beaches was underway in earnest. It may be years before it is finished.

Britons by the thousand deserted pubs, movies and their homes to do battle with a tide of oil, 118,000 tons of it, which threatened the English Channel shoreline.

The crude oil has been flowing for seven days from shattered tanks of the American tanker Torrey Canyon, aground on the Channel's notorious Seven Stones reef.

"Great balls of oil on the Lizard!" the coast guard radio flashed at 3:20 a.m. today when the tip of a 260-square-mile blanket of oil touched the white sands near Land's End, the southwest tip of England.

The carpet of oil, earlier thought to be moving out to sea, was pushed inland by gale force winds. It was pushing along 60 miles of coastline.

WORSE TO COME

On some beaches, the oil was reported 18 inches thick as it rolled in from sea. "There is still worse to come," said a navy spokesman. He said the situation was "very bad."

Police in the villages of Cornwall, which is almost completely dependent on vacationers who come to enjoy its beautiful beaches, rushed to round up volunteers to do battle with the black tide.

Greece, Cyprus Arrests Reported

ATHENS (AP) — The hunt for members of an alleged Soviet ring spying on NATO bases spread from Italy to Greece and Cyprus today.

SHAHABIAN
. . . suspect

Three persons were unofficially reported arrested and a Soviet diplomat was expelled from Cyprus.

Reliable sources said one person had been arrested by Greek counter-intelligence agents, but there was no official confirmation The Athens newspaper Agon said that officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had arrived Thursday night to help track down leads on the alleged spy ring.

In Cyprus, the government confirmed that two Greek-Cypriots had been picked up there, and it was believed they were part of the espionage network.

Sources in the Cypriot capital of Nicosia said a Soviet diplomat and an employee of the Soviet airline Aeroflot had been deported for spying on British NATO facilities on the Mediterranean island.

ARREST THREE

The case broke in Turin, Italy, with the March 15 arrest of Giorgio Rinaldi, 39, a parachutist, his wife and their chauffeur, Armando Girard. They were charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

In Lausanne, Swiss police said they had evidence the spy ring was active in Switzerland.

Neither Cyprus nor Switzerland is a member of NATO, but Greece is.

The Cypriots arrested in Nicosia were identified as Vikentian Boutros and David Shahabian.

Boutros was said to work for the Cyprus Telecommunications Authority at a radio station handling diplomatic traffic and all overseas telephone calls. Shahabian was reported employed by the RAF at the Nicosia airport.

The Soviet citizens deported — embassy attache Boris Petrin and Aeroflot employee Nicolai Ranoff — left Friday on a regular Nicosia-to-Moscow flight.

Hey! What About Paying Our Bills?

It was a fantastic finish to the legislature Thursday night.

A slight oversight — of $739.3 million — which could have produced the biggest April fool joke Premier and Finance Minister W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. have ever had, was narrowly averted.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes had prorogued the legislature at 9:40 p.m. and, with the MLAs all standing respectfully, was just about to stride out of the chammer behind his aides when:

"Hey, wait a minute! What about the supply vote?" called Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in sotto voce.

The vice-regal party, Speaker William Murray and cabinet ministers were frozen into a tableau of horrified embarrassment for a moment.

Back went the aides, up onto the chair went Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, down sat the MLAs and

'Super' Nuclear Arms Offered U.S. Arsenal

WASHINGTON (WP) — Several new types of nuclear weapons have been offered to the Pentagon for the Vietnam war and conflicts like it.

One of the highly secret devices would demolish Viet Cong tunnels in South Vietnam for thousands of feet around the blast area. Another would be for such hard targets as steel bridges in North Vietnam.

It is virtually certain President Johnson would not break the test ban treaty to use such fearsome weapons, even though he is anxious to end the Vietnam war quickly.

But the fact that such super-weapons are being discussed at all indicates that the growing frustration with the grinding war is spawning all kinds of proposals for bringing more U.S. power to bear on North Vietnam.

The latest nuclear weapons proposals go beyond the Vietnam war itself and represent part of a larger, behind-the-scenes debate on U.S. nuclear strategy.

The hawks on the one side believe the U.S. should continue diversifying its nuclear arsenal to provide the president with as many options as possible for Vietnam and future emergencies. The doves contend it is time to retrench and seek disarmament agreements.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says no consideration is being given to use of nuclear weapons in the Vietnam war.

The U.S. defence departfent said Friday, "there is no military requirement for nuclear weapons orders in the current situation in Vietnam."

Viet Cong Rockets Threaten Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Well-informed U.S. sources said today Viet Cong troops have ringed Saigon with emplacements of 140-mm rockets, biggest artillery in the Communist arsenal in South Vietnam. They warned that attacks on the capital itself could come at any time.

The disclosure followed a surge of heavy new Communist attacks on allied forces in the northern provinces where it was feared the North Vietnamese were building up for a possible invasion attempt across the demilitarized zone buffer strip.

Near the big marine base at Da Nang, the Communist ambushed U.S. and South Vietnamese convoys three times in two hours with mines and machie guns. At least three U.S. marines were killed and 10 wounded and 82 trucks in one South Vietnamese convoy were destroyed or damaged.

Farther north, American marines killed 146 Communists in at least a dozen bitter battles along the demilitarized zone border strip.

The Communists attacked under heavy mortar barrages and once again tried to knock out the big American artillery that fires across the border.

WHEN LOVE TALK FAILS VIET HOMES SET ABLAZE

GIONGH DINH (AP) — The Vietnamese woman ignored the crying baby in her arms. She stared in hatred as the American infantrymen with shotguns blasted away at chickens and ducks. Others shot a water buffalo and the family dog.

While her husband, father and young son were led away, the torch was put to the hut that still contained the family belongings. The flames consumed everything — including the shrine to the family ancestors.

The American troops were acting under orders: destroy everything of any use to the Viet Cong along the main Communist infiltration route from the delta and Cambodia into War Zones C and D. Leave the Viet Cong nothing to eat, no shelter. Remove all civilians who could give the enemy a helping hand.

The area had been so thoroughly dominated by the Viet Cong for so long that pacification, "winning the hearts and minds of the people," was considered out of the question by higher headquarters.

The job was done in an area involving more than 100 square miles.

"God, my wife would faint if she could see what I'm doing now," an infantryman said.

"Killing ole Charlie (Viet Cong) is one thing, but killing puppies and baby ducks and stuff like that — it's something else, man."

EASTER SERVICES

Christians Pray For World Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From the serene St. Peter's Basilica in Rome to the battle-scarred rice paddies of Vietnam, Christians the world over observed Holy Saturday today in preparation for the Easter celebration of Christ's resurrection. They prayed for peace in Vietnam and social justice.

Holy Saturday recalls the period of Christ's entombment and leads to the rejoicing of His resurrection. The Holy Saturday rites included the "blessing of the new fire," which starts a three-hour evening vigil ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica led by Pope Paul.

The vigil service will be climaxed with a papal mass of joy shortly before midnight tonight commemorating the resurrection of Christ. At the same time, the bells of Rome's 400 churches will ring.

The Pope will celebrate two masses Easter Sunday. At noon he will deliver his Easter message in which he will announce that he has prepared an encyclical on social justice.

In Good Friday services, many Christians took note of contemporary social issues and the war in Vietnam.

PROTEST SLUMS

Four Methodist churches in Chicago sponsored a fast to protest slum housing.

"Christ was crucified in this neighborhood this year," cried more than 200 Christians in Washington who followed such symbolic stations of the cross as racial strife, poverty, slum housing, crime and war through the poverty - stricken Mount Pleasant section of the capital.

In Milwaukee, Irish-born Michael Cullen has been sitting alone in a Roman Catholic cathedral pew, awaiting Easter morning and the end of his fast and vigil in protest against the war in Vietnam. Since Tuesday, the ex-seminarian has taken only water and a half-bowl of rice.

In Jerusalem, Western Christian churches observed Holy Saturday with services of blessings of the fire by the stone of unction.

STUDENTS RUN WILD

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Frolicking U.S. collegians basking under Florida's sun received a stern Easter weekend message today from police: Have a good time but obey the police.

The warning followed a Good Friday riotous rampage quelled by helmeted police.

"We want you to have fun, but we are not going to condone what went on out here yesterday," said Fort Lauderdale Police Chief Robert Johnston.

He said his men, who have been reinforced, would take precautions today to prevent another rampage. About 30 students were under arrest.

Husky students attacked a passing bakery truck Friday and began taking cakes and bread. As bikini-clad co-eds cheered and jeered, a soft drink truck was looted and bottles and their contents hurled at onlookers.

At the height of the turmoil, a chanting group lifted an empty foreign car and paraded through the palm-lined street, the girls cheering.

The men also rocked a bus, nearly causing it to overturn.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1967—PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

In the towns where my father preached, it was expected that the minister's son should know his Bible; and more from duty than natural zeal, I plowed my way from Genesis through to Revelations.

It was grand reading, and still is; but through repetition, I developed a primitive critical facility.

There was, for instance, a puzzling line of division between the Old Testament, with its emphasis on violence, slaughter and revenge, and the New Testament Christ to whom all three were plainly abhorrent.

Rather nervously, and half-expecting a thunderbolt, I decided that where Jehovah might frown upon a kid who sneaked in a discreet hour of woods-roving on a Sabbath afternoon, his Son mightn't mind.

My father—the earthy one—was partial to the Gospels himself, and more sparing with the fire-and-brimstone ladle than his sterner congregation members approved. He did not go so far as to agree outright with my sore-thumb theology, but if I happened to turn up for evening service with wet feet and a breakfast trout handkerchief-wrapped in my pocket, he delivered no censures.

★

Like many another small-church minister, he did not confine his attentions to his own church.

While we were living, and he preaching, in a Fraser Valley town, he would drive each Sunday afternoon to a log mission a mere angel's flutter from the rushing Alouette.

There he would hold a service for a handful of Japanese Christians—berry growers ruddy and weathered, who came from miles away with their families.

I used to go along with my father for company on these T-model junkets, on the tacit understanding that no one would miss me if I happened to drift off quietly into the streamside woods.

We made the trip in summer, fall, and also winter when the roads permitted. But the times I best remember were in spring.

To take a rod along would have been too blatant a flight into paganry. I had line, leader and hook, though; plus a jack-knife to cut a sapling, and a rotted log is more often than not a storehouse of acceptable bait.

I never wandered far—that was part of our covenant—and often if the rain happened to change from drizzle to downpour, returned to slip into a back pew.

Even there, the feel of the woods was not lost. It never is in a structure so fundamentally related to wild nature as a log cabin.

★

The last Easter Sunday of the two on which we drove out to the Japanese mission, the rain came down in a wild spring flurry. I pocketed my gear, speared my pole into a thicket, and eased into the rearmost pew as my father was warming up to his sermon.

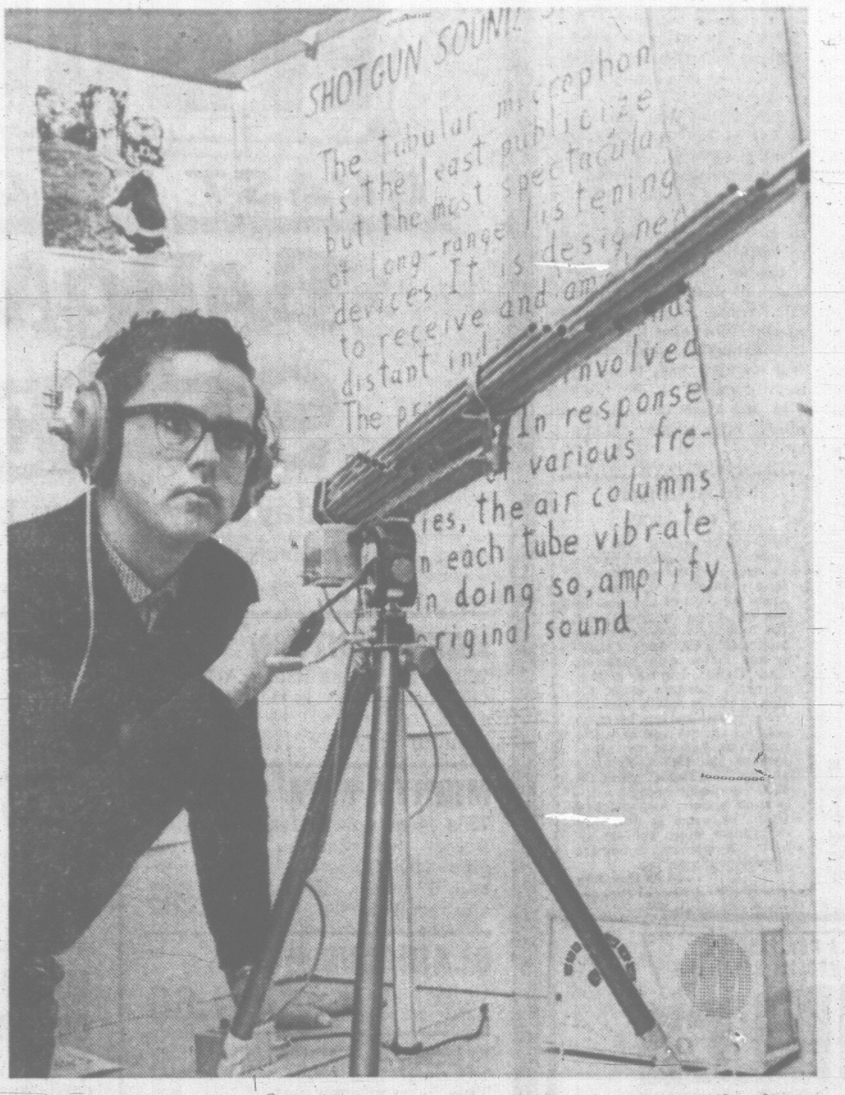
It was the same I had heard that morning, and would hear again in the evening. However, perhaps because the listeners were a different people than our rock-bound congregation, my father delivered it very gently, and with an air of happiness.

I suppose there was a certain amount of exhortation; but I remember only the tapping of spring rain on cedar shakes, and the smell of spring through an open window, and a familiar story.

The fishing disciples, obedient to the voice from an early morning beach, spread their net on the right side of the boat and make their wondrous haul.

The Master whom they had followed and loved in His mortal life is waiting for them, with a fire of coals, 'and fish laid thereon, and bread'.

That was long ago, and I have not concerned myself much with theology in the years between. But the memory of man, sermon and springtime setting comes back sometimes at Easter, even now.



NO SECRET is safe when Brock Fowles, and his project partner Gordon Fish set up their Shotgun Sound Snooper. Brock demonstrates it at Science Fair, shows how it will receive and amplify distant sounds. The tubular microphones are the least publicized but the most spectacular of long-range listening devices known to science. The boys attend Oak Bay Junior Secondary. (Times photo Bill Halkett)

'REPREHENSIBLE, REGRETTABLE'

Tory Defends Ailing Grit Against Fulton Statement

GEORGE CHATTERTON
. . . slaps colleague

Conservative leadership candidate E. Davie Fulton was criticized here today by a colleague, Esquimalt-Saanich Tory MP George Chatterton.

Mr. Chatterton, home for the Easter holiday, blamed Mr. Fulton for a "most reprehensible and regrettable statement" concerning Victoria Liberal MP David Groos.

Speaking recently in Halifax, Mr. Fulton suggested that a recent illness by Mr. Groos was a sham.

Mr. Fulton, former minister of justice in the Diefenbaker administration, suggested that Mr. Groos was using the illness as an excuse to resign from the Commons defence committee.

The real reason, Mr. Fulton implied, was that Mr. Groos differed from his party in its pursuit of service unification.

"This was a most regrettable statement," said Mr. Chatterton.

"I have know Mr. Groos has not been well. Mr. Fulton should have checked first of all. I know Mr. Groos was under great pressure from long meetings.

"It was a most reprehensible and regrettable statement and it must have been terrible for Mr. Groos" to hear this charge. (Mr. Groos issued a denial of the Fulton charge.)

Mr. Chatterton arrived home Thursday and returns to Ottawa Wednesday. Except for a 24-hour trip to Victoria it is his first visit here this year. He plans no speaking engagements but will meet with friends and supporters privately.

Mr. Chatterton predicted there will be no postponement by the government of the services unification bill.

FIGHT ON

"I expect the government will bring it up right after the Easter recess. We'll fight it right down the line."

He said the Conservative party offered the government an opportunity to adjourn the current session before Easter and bring the matter back at the next session at the point where it was dropped. This would have permitted a shelving of the question for a cooling-off period. But the offer was refused, said Mr. Chatterton.

Mr. Chatterton was asked to comment on criticisms directed at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation this week. Two MPs charged the CBC with showing an anti-American bias.

Mr. Chatterton said he does not watch enough television to comment on that.

"But in many respects the CBC does not act too responsibly. It is not required to make an accounting to Parliament.

"If they had to go to Parliament for their finances they might be more cautious in their approach.

"Right now they are thumbing their nose at Parliament. And I know there is a tremendous waste of money in the CBC."

Ever See a Shotgun Bug Or a Mouse That Thinks?

By PETE LOUDON

Adults mayy soon be obsolete.

You get this feeling at the Sixth Annual Greater Victoria Regional Science Fair.

You see the parents walking around with a slightly frightened look.

How would you feel if your teen-age son or daughter suddenly built a binary computer, a salt water powered radio or a model of an atomic power station?

Yesterday he couldn't tie his shoes. Today he's demonstrating the uses of solar energy or a cathode ray oscilloscope.

●

Here's the adult society worrying about "bugging" and junior's built a shotgun sound snooper, a device you aim at someone you can hardly see and you can hear him burp.

You see all these things at the science fair which opened today at the Education Arts Building, University of Victoria. These marvels are the work of youngsters ranging from 11-year-olds in grade 6 to grade 12.

Chris Taylor, is 15 and attends Mount View Senior Secondary School. He's in grade 10. His project demonstrates the effect of selected gases on insects. It's the sort of interest that one day my save our forests from ruin.

●

His work won the grand trophy and an expense paid trip to the Canada Science Fair at Quebec. He knocked off two other awards just for good measure.

Colin Griffiths is 14. He's a winner in the junior division. He built an apparatus and trained rats to climb a ladder to a first stage, pull a chain to raise the ladder, then climb to a second stage. The training took him only six hours.

You get the idea that in 60 hours he could have the rats bringing him breakfast in bed.

●

George Davidson, grade 9, Shawnigan Lake, built a mechanical mouse that follows a maze. When it makes a mistake and takes a wrong path, it remembers. It makes the next trip flawlessly.

What a boon if George's device was built into cars for women drivers, one father commented thoughtfully.

Dr. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education, opened the fair which continues Sunday.

Here is the full list of award winners:

Burn Victim's Condition Poor

A hydro lineman severely burned in an accident Thursday morning is described in poor condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Gabriel Arcuri, 47, of 2922 Austin, was injured when he came in contact with a high voltage line on Metchosin Road near Sangster School.

Boys' High School Planned on Grounds Of St. Ann Academy

Co-institutional high school facilities for over 500 students will be provided soon on the grounds of St. Ann's Academy on Humbodt Street.

Bishop Remi J. De Roo said today a new boys' high school complex will replace outmoded St. Louis College on Pandora Avenue.

Bishop De Roo said the school will fill a long overdue need in Catholic educational circles.

"The new complex will have a total of 16 to 20 classrooms, a gymnasium-auditorium, laboratories and other facilities required to meet modern educational standards," the bishop said.

The first stage may cost as much as $500,000, but a planning committee will meet shortly to draft detailed procedures and finance.

Historic St. Louis College, first opened with a handful of students on Jan. 17, 1864, will continue to function as an education centre, but in a different role.

"The old college building will be completely renovated and brought up to modern standards and will be renamed St. Andrew's Cathedral Elementary School," the bishop said. "It will continue to serve, for many years, we hope, in this capacity."

With the decision to build the new boys' school now made, Bishop De Roo said work will start immediately on the drawing of plans to be followed by a construction start sometime later this year.

September, 1968, Opening Date

Tentative opening date for the new boys' high school has been set as September, 1968.

Bishop De Roo said an overall plan for a major co-institutional education centre on St. Ann's site is to be developed, and today's major stride is but the first step. Also planned immediately is a re-located residence for the Christian Brothers of Ireland who will continue to staff the boys' school.

The only school property to be abandoned in the over-all scheme to provide modern, spacious facilities will be the buildings now occupied by students at Holy Angels School at North Park and Quadra.

The new St. Ann-St. Louis complex will be financed entirely by voluntary donations.

A major contribution is expected from the Diocese of Victoria and another from St. Andrew's Cathedral. Parish contributions will make up the balance.

Michael J. Griffin, chairman of the St. Andrew's Cathedral parish board of directors, applauded the bishop's plan.

'Bold, Imaginative Answer'

"The bishop's plan of decisive action is a bold, imaginative answer to a most pressing problem," Mr. Griffin said. "With the inthusiastic support which the project is certain to enjoy, fruition is well within the means of the Catholic community to achive without undue sacrifice by any one individual.

"The proposal also pays a most deserving tribute to the Sisters of St. Ann in their work both in the schools and hospitals of our community dating to the time well before Confederation."

Mr. Griffin said the bishop's announcement also demonstrated complete confidence in the Christian Brothers of Ireland who have served this community for more than 53 years.

"The complete project will take time, naturally," the bishop said. "But I am confident that this is but the start of a program which, with full consultation with the Catholic people, will be implemented in the future."

PROTESTERS CALLED 'RIFF-RAFF'

Canadian university students "protesting one thing and another" have been labelled bums and riff-raff by the president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to the Jaycee membership written Thursday and released today in the Jaycee "official bulletin," president Grant Johnstone said:

"I personally feel (such students) are nothing but a bunch of lazy bums, as the student who is genuinely interested in learning expresses himself in the type of work he turns out.

★

"Students pay fees to the university, but you and I as taxpayers also help to pay their way and I think it is time that we, as young men, stood up an spoke out strongly against some of the riff-raff who presently attend the universities of Canada.

"The groups are in the minority but they are the ones who receive the news media coverage and it makes me wonder whether it is worth their while to go to our universities.

"Many of you have children and you will probably say 'my children will never be like that'.

"I know I feel that way, but somebody's children are growing up like this, are revolting against our society, and the only thing I can see wrong with our society is the tendency to give our children too much."

HISTORY PROJECT GETS $7,500

Canada Council Grant Helps Launch Study of Aussie Ports

The Canada Council has granted $7,500 for a departmental project at the University of Victoria and $6,500 to a professor doing a study of ports.

The university's Social Sciences Research and Information Centre will use its grant for the compilation and printing of the first bibliography of British Columbia history.

The first volume, to deal with the period from 1849 to 1899, will be published this summer.

Research is headed by Mrs. Barbara Lowther, the centre's bibliographer. Chairman of the faculty's research committee is Dr. R. H. Roy.

Dr. Charles N. Forward of the university's department of geography will begin a year's field work in Australia this fall studying waterfront land usage and port functions.

He will do detailed work in Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Hobart, Adelaide, and Fremantle, and general surveys in the bulk cargo ports of Newcastle, Port Kembla, Geelong and Whyalla.

Findings are to be compared with studies of Canadian ports.

Also announced today was a $5,000 grant to the university's library to build up its research collections.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Surge by Western Oils Baffles Stock Experts

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

High-flying western oil issues captured the spotlight on Canada's stock exchanges this week while other major groups seemed to lack direction.

Brokers were baffled by the late-week surge in oils and were unable to give any specific reasons for their success.

The Toronto exchange's western oil index, which measures the price movements of key oil stocks, jumped 5.45 to 145.27.

Sharpest gains involved companies exploring the Rainbow and Zama Lake regions of northwestern Alberta.

Dome Pete climbed 4⅞ to 56 after touching a high of 56¼. Canadian Superior 2⅛ to 33⅛, Banff 1½ to 14⅞ and Provo 1.05 to 5.95.

U.S. MAY NEED MORE

There have been reports Canada may become an increasingly important supplier of oil to the United States because U.S. reserves are not keeping pace with demand.

Brokers said this could only account for part of the move.

Industrials continued to fluctuate within a narrow range despite a strong New York market.

Volume also remained listless and totalled only 9,064,000 shares in the four-day week compared with the five-day total last week of 11,510,000.

GIVE SAME REASONS

Analysts continued to give the same reasons for the slumping volumes as they did in early February, including a weak mining and oil market, an increasing number of Canadians investing in U.S. securities and a lack of U.S. investor participation here.

The TSE's industrial index only managed a .27 gain to 162.76.

Moore Corp. advanced 2¼ to 93¼, Abestos Corp. 1⅝ to 25¼ and Distillers 1 to 39.

On the loss side, Great West Life fell 4 to 51½, International Minerals 3⅝ to 40⅝, Famous Players and Beaver Lumber 1½ each to 37 and 34'.

Banks fared better following Parliament's approval of changes in the Bank Act. Royal moved up 1¾ to 80¾ and Toronto-Dominion and Nova Scotia ½ each to 67½ and 76. Imperial-Commerce was down ¾ to 70.

Uranium stocks appeared headed for a breakout early in the week but profit takers trimmed their gains.

Denison added 1½ at 59 and Rio Algom ⅛ at 27⅝ after touching a high of 28⅛.

There has been considerable speculation that the U.S. may import Canadian uranium sooner than expected.

Among other base metals, Falconbridge and Inco each rose 1 to 88 and 94¾ while Pine Point eased ⅛ to 51⅛ despite a sharp increase in the company's 1966 earnings to $34,194,000 compared with $22,132,000 in 1965.

Home Building Boom Predicted

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Nicholson has predicted a record housing construction boom this spring.

He told a press conference the country is going to have housing problems for an indefinite period but that the crisis stage appears to be over.

Mr. Nicholson, responsible for the federal government's housing program, also said that big city dwellers of the future are going to have to settle for apartments rather than single family dwellings.

Basis of his housing boom forecast was a set of figures on loan applications for direct government loans and government-insured loans.

Mr. Nicholson said that by mid-March, applications for insured loans were 80 per cent higher than 1966. They probably would be up 100 per cent by the end of April.

So far this year, direct government loans were 210 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year. In addition, non-government lending activity was substantially ahead of last year.

"We have no doubt whatever . . . that we will reach a level of 170,000 housing starts in the next five or six months," he said. "All our figures are, if anything, conservative."

Steelworkers Accept Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 650 steelworkers at an east-end Montreal plant, who had threatened to go on strike against Noranda Copper Mills Ltd., Friday voted by a narrow margin to accept a final offer from the company.

The employees, who now make a basic wage of $1.98 an hour, will get raises spread over four years to bring their salaries to a basic $2.55 by June, 1969.

Each man will also get a lump sum of $300.

Toronto-Dominion Boosts Dividend

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-Dominion Bank announced Thursday it has increased its quarterly dividend to 60 cents a share from 55 cents, payable May 1 to shareholders of record March 31.

In 1966, the bank paid regular dividends of $2.20, plus a 20-cent extra dividend.

Banks Prepare To Re-Enter NHA Mortgage Field

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto-Dominion Bank said Thursday all its branches will be ready to accept applications for conventional mortgages April 1, subject to the new banking legislation now before the Senate becoming law.

The legislation, which would allow chartered banks to enter the conventional mortgage field, has been approved by the Commons.

Banks previously could accept mortgages under the National Housing Act, but bank officials say that since 1958 interest rates made it uneconomical for them to do so.

The new legislation would permit an increase in the interest ceiling banks could charge, giving them leeway to re-enter the NHA mortgage field.

The Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal also announced it will offer conventional and NHA mortgages to the public as soon as the new act becomes law.

Sulphate Mill Set

EDMONTON (CP) — Inland Chemicals Canada Ltd. has announced an aluminum sulphate mill will be built at Prince George. The plant, which initially will produce liquid alum for pulp mills, is scheduled for completion in November this year.

3-Month Lag in U.S. Business

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. business lagged in the first quarter of 1967 but the head of the federal reserve board predicts improvement later in the year.

Automobile sales in mid-March declined, steel demand slipped and the rise in personal income slowed in February.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the federal reserve board, said "a resurgence in economic activity is the most likely prospect as 1967 progresses."

He told the Senate finance committee this week that reinstatement of business investment tax incentives now would help avoid hesitation in the economy in coming months.

Martin said abatement of inflationary pressures has permitted the federal reserve to resume vigorous expansion of bank reserves and that the economy can take a faster pace of investment without spurring new pressures on prices.

Martin also supported President Johnson's proposal for a six-per-cent surcharge on income taxes later this year.

Later the Senate finance committee voted to restore the seven-per-cent business investment but tax credit but on far less liberal terms than approved by the House of Representatives.

Sales of U.S.-made cars in mid-March fell 19.6 per cent to 191,661 from 238,349 a year earlier. General Motors reported a decline of 20.5 per cent in its sales. Ford 23.3 per cent, Chrysler 10.8 per cent, and American Motors 5.1 per cent.

Steel mills reported demand is continuing to weaken as they move into a period when purchases normally climb seasonally.

Future Looks Bleak for Gold Mines

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's troubled gold-mining industry probably will have to struggle along for another few years without a substantial increase in federal assistance.

The industry's problem—rising production costs while the gold price remains fixed and a shortage of skilled labor—will get a thorough airing here next week at the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

But informants say there is little chance of increased federal aid in the near future.

The Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, passed in 1948, runs out at the end of this year. It provides subsidies of about $15,000,000 a year and is certain to be renewed at the next session of Parliament. But changes in its application are unlikely.

PRICE $35 U.S. AN OUNCE

The price of gold has been fixed at $35 U.S. an ounce since 1934. Production costs have risen steadily since then.

The federal government now pays a subsidy of up to $12.33 an ounce for gold from mines where production costs exceed $26.50 an ounce. Even with this subsidy, mines have difficulty staying in business.

The present subsidy is based on only two-thirds of a mine's gold production, and a delegation from Canadian mining communities last fall asked the act be amended to include all production.

The Mining Association of Canada asked last month for a 50-per-cent increase in federal subsidies, warning that half of Canada's 47 operating mines will be forced to close unless extra aid is granted.

A dramatic rise in the price of gold, say to the $70-an-ounce level advocated by President de Gaulle of France, could change the picture. But experts say any price increase of this magnitude is a long way off.

There is some speculation Energy Minister Pepin is considering a long-term solution to the problems of gold communities along the lines of the government's decision on the Cape Breton coal field.

In Cape Breton, the government is taking over the uneconomic coal mines and plans to close them down gradually, using money saved from subsidies along with other capital to help establish alternative industry.

The largest gold centres in Ontario already are shifting to new industrial bases, although these too are dependent on minerals.

Despite pockets of unemployment near some mining areas, gold mines are facing an increasing labor shortage, due in part to low wages forced by the uneconomic position of many mines.

The industry has advocated a lowering of education standards for immigrants to help fill these jobs, but sources say the government is not sure this would solve the problem.

"Immigrants might work in the mines for a few months but they'd want to head south to other industries once they become aware of differences in pay scales," says a mines branch official.

"If we forced them to stay in the mines we'd be accused of bringing in slave labor for the mine owners."

Small Seattle Plane Missing

SEATTLE (AP) — Search was under way today for a light plane in which four young Seattle area men took off Friday to fly to Sun Valley, Idaho, for a weekend of skiing. The plane did not reach Pendleton, Ore., where a refuelling stop was scheduled.

Firm Supports Proposed Boycott

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has disclosed that it will back a proposed boycott by Chrysler owners and drivers of the Atlanta 500-mile stock car race April 2 because of a rules dispute. Ford entries have been winning the major races so far this year.

Chrysler is protesting the use of a new intake manifold and cylinder head developed for Ford's 427-cubic-inch wedge engine. Chrysler insists the new Ford head has not been produced in enough quantity to make it a production item. Ford disputes the contention.

Aden Terrorists Kill 2 Arabs

CAIRO (UPI) — Two more Arabs were killed by terrorists in Aden today as a United Nations fact-finding mission flew to Cairo for discussion on the future of the strategic British colony in southern Arabia.

Closure Seen on Unification

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Russell Honey, chairman of the Liberal caucus in Parliament, says the government may have to use closure to force armed forces unification into the law books.

Mr. Honey, Liberal member for Durham in Ontario, predicted: "The Conservative Party will undoubtedly launch a filibuster to prevent a decision being taken."

Super 'Weapons' Available to U.S.

WASHINGTON (WP) — Several new types of nuclear weapons have been offered to the Pentagon for the Vietnam war and conflicts like it.

One of the highly secret devices would demolish Viet Cong tunnels in South Vietnam for thousands of feet around the blast area. Another would be for such hard targets as steel bridges in North Vietnam.

It is virtually certain President Johnson would not break the test ban treaty to use such fearsome weapons, even though he is anxious to end the Vietnam war quickly.

But the fact that such superweapons are being discussed at all indicates that the growing frustration with the grinding war is spawning all kinds of proposals for bringing more U.S. power to bear on North Vietnam.

The latest nuclear weapons proposals go beyond the Vietnam war itself and represent part of a larger, behind-the-scenes debate on U.S. nuclear strategy.

The hawks on the one side believe the U.S. should continue diversifying its nuclear arsenal to provide the president with as many options as possible for Vietnam and future emergencies. The doves contend it is time to retrench and seek disarmament agreements.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says no consideration is being given to use of nuclear weapons in the Vietnam war.

The U.S. defence department said Friday, "there is no military requirement for nuclear weapons orders in the current situation in Vietnam."

Waves of Oil Washing Up On U.K. Coast

PENZANCE, England (UPI) — Waves of oil began washing up along miles of picturesque Cornish coast today and the battle of Britain's beaches was under way in earnest. It may be years before it is finished.

Britons by the thousand deserted pubs, movies and their homes to do battle with a tide of oil, 118,000 tons of it, which threatened the English Channel shoreline.

The crude oil has been flowing for seven days from shattered tanks of the American tanker Torrey Canyon, aground on the Channel's notorious Seven Stones reef.

"Great balls of oil on the Lizard!" the coast guard radio flashed at 3:20 a.m. today when the tip of a 260-square-mile blanket of oil touched the white sands near Land's End, the southwest tip of England.

The carpet of oil, earlier thought to be moving out to sea, was pushed inland by gale force winds. It was pushing along 60 miles of coastline.

On some beaches, the oil was reported 18 inches thick as it rolled in from sea. "There is still worse to come," said a navy spokesman. He said the situation was "very bad."

Police in the villages of Cornwall, which is almost completely dependent on vacationers who come to enjoy its beautiful beaches, rushed to round up volunteers to do battle with the black tide.

NATO Russ Spy Search Spreads

ATHENS (AP) — The hunt for members of an alleged Soviet ring spying on NATO bases spread from Italy to Greece and Cyprus today.

SHAHABIAN
. . . suspect

Three persons were unofficially reported arrested and a Soviet diplomat was expelled from Cyprus.

Reliable sources said one person had been arrested by Greek counter-intelligence agents, but there was no official confirmation The Athens newspaper Agon said that officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had arrived Thursday night to help track down leads on the alleged spy ring.

In Cyprus, the government confirmed that two Greek-Cypriots had been picked up there, and it was believed they were part of the espionage network.

Sources in the Cypriot capital of Nicosia said a Soviet diplomat and an employee of the Soviet airline Aeroflot had been deported for spying on British NATO facilities on the Mediterranean island.

ARREST THREE

The case broke in Turin, Italy, with the March 15 arrest of Giorgio Rinaldi, 39, a parachutist, his wife and their chauffeur, Armando Girard. They were charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

In Lausanne, Swiss police said they had evidence the spy ring was active in Switzerland.

Neither Cyprus nor Switzerland is a member of NATO, but Greece is.

The Cypriots arrested in Nicosia were identified as Vikentian Boutros and David Shahabian.

Boutros was said to work for the Cyprus Telecommunications Authority at a radio station handling diplomatic traffic and all overseas telephone calls. Shahabian was reported employed by the RAF at the Nicosia airport.

The Soviet citizens deported — embassy attache Boris Petrin and Aeroflot employee Nicolai Ranoff — left Friday on a regular Nicosia-to-Moscow flight.

Hey! What About Paying Our Bills?

It was a fantastic finish to the legislature Thursday night.

A slight oversight — of $739.3 million — which could have produced the biggest April fool joke Premier and Finance Minister W. A. C. Bennett and B.C. have ever had, was narrowly averted.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes had prorogued the legislature at 9:40 p.m. and, with the MLAs all standing respectfully, was just about to stride out of the chamber behind his aides when:

"Hey, wait a minute! What about the supply vote?" called Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in sotto voce.

The vice-regal party, Speaker William Murray and cabinet ministers were frozen into a tableau of horrified embarrassment for a moment.

Back went the aides, up onto the chair went Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, down sat the MLAs and "harmuph" went Speaker Murray.

"And is an Act for Granting Certain Sums of Money for the Public Service of the Province of British Columbia," Mr. Murray intoned, after a short message to the lieutenant-governor.

Without those words spoken before Gen. Pearkes finally left the chamber, there would

COMMEMORATING Christ's journey to Calvary Pope Paul VI carried cross in procession observing Good Friday in Rome near Colosseum. The procession made its way to the 14 prayer stations.

EASTER SERVICES

Christians Pray For World Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From the serene St. Peter's Basilica in Rome to the battle-scarred rice paddies of Vietnam, Christians the world over observed Holy Saturday today in preparation for the Easter celebration of Christ's resurrection. They prayed for peace in Vietnam and social justice.

Holy Saturday recalls the period of Christ's entombment and leads to the rejoicing of His resurrection. The Holy Saturday rites included the "blessing of the new fire," which starts a three-hour evening vigil ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica led by Pope Paul.

The vigil service will be climaxed with a papal mass of joy shortly before midnight tonight commemorating the resurrection of Christ. At the same time, the bells of Rome's 400 churches will ring.

The Pope will celebrate two masses Easter Sunday. At noon he will deliver his Easter message in which he will announce that he has prepared an encyclical on social justice.

In Good Friday services, many Christians took note of contemporary social issues and the war in Vietnam.

PROTEST SLUMS

Four Methodist churches in Chicago sponsored a fast to protest slum housing.

"Christ was crucified in this neighborhood this year," cried more than 200 Christians in Washington who followed such symbolic stations of the cross as racial strife, poverty, slum housing, crime and war through the poverty-stricken Mount Pleasant section of the capital.

In Milwaukee, Irish-born Michael Cullen has been sitting alone in a Roman Catholic cathedral pew, awaiting Easter morning and the end of his fast and vigil in protest against the war in Vietnam. Since Tuesday, the ex-seminarian has taken only water and a half-bowl of rice.

In Jerusalem, Western Christian churches observed Holy Saturday with services of blessings of the fire by the stone of unction.

Pilgrims carrying crosses walked in rain along the Way of the Cross Friday as Jordanian troops guarded Jerusalem's shrines.

STUDENTS RUN WILD

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Frolicking U.S. collegians basking under Florida's sun received a stern Easter weekend message today from police: Have a good time but obey the police.

The warning followed a Good Friday riotous rampage quelled by helmeted police.

"We want you to have fun, but we are not going to condone what went on out here yesterday," said Fort Lauderdale Police Chief Robert Johnston.

He said his men, who have been reinforced, would take precautions today to prevent another rampage. About 30 students were under arrest.

Husky students attacked a passing bakery truck Friday and began taking cakes and bread. As bikini-clad co-eds cheered and jeered, a soft drink truck was looted and bottles and their contents hurled at onlookers.

At the height of the turmoil, a chanting group lifted an empty foreign car and paraded through the palm-lined street, the girls cheering.

The men also rocked a bus, nearly causing it to overturn.

Russians Win, Take Over Lead

VIENNA — Canada and Czechoslovakia battled to a 1-1 tie here tonight before a jammed arena in the world hockey tournament. Earlier, the defending champion Russia squad routed Sweden 9-1 and took over first place in the championship.

By tying with the Czechs the Canadian club kept its hopes alive to regain the crown but must beat the powerful Russians to finish on top. Canada now is one point behind the Soviet club and a tie with Russia would see the champions take the series on a better goals average.

After a scoreless first period Canada took the lead on a goal by Bill MacMillan late in the second period. The Czechs rallied to tie the score six minutes into the third on a goal by Jaroslav Jirik.

GOALS DISALLOWED

Canada had two goals disallowed during the game, one for a player having his stick above his shoulder in knocking down a pass and the other for being in the crease.

The referee dealt the Czech team a stiff blow at 8:13 of the third period when he sent star centre Holik into the penalty box for interference, then added a 10-minute misconduct when Holik banged his stick on the ice and protested loudly.

U.S. referee Ted Daily penalized defenceman Gary Begg, a native of Moosimin, Sask., at 2:10 of the first period for high-sticking. The Canadians rode out the disadvantage, and then returned to the attack.

The Canadians were hitting hard—a practice that produced Begg's penalty. At the six-minute mark a Czech assault upset the Canadian net in the ensuing scramble.

Billy MacMillan of Charlottetown had a great chance at the eight-minute mark but Holecek saved.

At 9:55, Roger Bourbonnais of Edmonton drew a cross-checking penalty after Oldrich Machac fell to the ice. But the Canadian penalty-killers kept the Czechs from getting a clean shot at Martin.

Just after 16 minutes of play, Jean Cusson, a native of Verdun, Que., took a pass from Montreal's Gary Dineen and beat Holecek. However, the referees disallowed the goal because of the high stick. The Canadians protested.

The strong Czech defence kept the Canadians from scoring while Pryl was off serving a holding penalty at 17:48 and Frantisek Tikal, the Czech defensive star, was in the penalty box for tripping at 19:24.

The first period ended with neither country able to score. While Tikal was serving his penalty Cusson almost scored as the Dineen line swarmed around Holecek.

Canada had 10 shots on goal in the first period to four for Czechoslovakia.

The Canadians claimed that referee Daily miscalled the game when Cusson's goal was disallowed. Daily ruled that Dineen had his stick too high when he knocked down the puck. The Canadians claimed Dineen's stick was no higher than his shoulder.

MacMillan put Canada ahead 1-0 at 15:54 of the second period with a shot from 10 feet in front of the net.

Persistent forechecking by the Canadians paid off. MacMillan and Dineen were harassing the Czechs when the puck slid loose and MacMillan beat Holecek with a shot that went by the goalie's stick hand about three feet above the ice.

The Czechs stormed back. Hrbaty and Frantisek Pospisil tested Martin around the 17-minute mark on a two-man break. Josef Golonka fired twice from close range with two minutes left in the session, but Martin made the saves.

Macmillan beat Holecek for the second time at 2:30 of the third period but the goal was disallowed when the referee ruled that Cusson was standing in the crease at the moment.

The disallowed goal came during a power play while Jaroslav Holik was serving a hocking penalty.

Defenceman Jack Bownass of Winnipeg had broken though and centred a pass to MacMillan from behind the Czech goal. MacMillan then flipped it past Holecek.

Czechoslovakia tied the score 1-1 at 6:34 of the final period when Jaroslav Jirik broke in and beat Martin shortly after the Czechs had successfully killed a holding penalty to Pryl.

'TAKE MY GIRL' LOAN FIRM TOLD

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville mother who sent her five-year-old daughter to a loan company that garnisheed her pay cheque says she "would do anything" to get the child back.

But the pretty blonde daughter now is a ward of juvenile court, and the mother, Wanda Lee Thompson, 27, has been charged with neglect.

Mrs. Thompson pinned a note on young Teresa Lynn Thompson's coat Thursday and sent the child alone in a taxi to a downtown finance company. The note read in part:

"Here is my baby. Since you took my cheque you can take care of her till I'm able to."

The mother, divorced, said Friday night that she regrets sending Teresa Lynn to the loan company.

WANTS BABY BACK

"I got to thinking about Easter and her needing shoes and clothes and knowing that I would not get a cheque for the next two weeks," she said. "I couldn't pay a babysitter to stay with her while I worked and everything just seemed to mount up. . . .

"If I had it to do over, I wouldn't do what I did again—not after all the agony I've been through. I'm going to do everything in my power to get my baby back," she said.

Meanwhile, Teresa Lynn was removed from the custody of juvenile court so she could spend Easter with a great-aunt.

Martha Marsh, a court probation officer, said the child may be allowed to stay with the aunt, Beatrice Clements, pending final action in the case.

Teresa Lynn was turned over to police by Bill McMaster, manager of the loan company, who said he was tired of being the "bad guy" in the case.

"I'm not inhuman," he said. "Had the woman called me or done anything and said, 'Look, I can't feed my child' and we would have done something for her — released her cheque or something."

McMaster said the amount of Mrs. Thompson's loan was confidential but added, "she obviously was very far behind or we wouldn't have taken the drastic step to garnishee her cheque."

The mother is employed by a Nashville manufacturing plant.

WHEN LOVE TALK FAILS VIET HOMES SET ABLAZE

GIONGH DINH (AP) — The Vietnamese woman ignored the crying baby in her arms. She stared in hatred as the American infantrymen with shotguns blasted away at chickens and ducks. Others shot a water buffalo and the family dog.

While her husband, father and young son were led away, the torch was put to the hut that still contained the family belongings. The flames consumed everything — including the shrine to the family ancestors.

The American troops were acting under orders: destroy everything of any use to the Viet Cong along the main Communist infiltration route from the delta and Cambodia into War Zones C and D. Leave the Viet Cong nothing to eat, no shelter. Remove all civilians who could give the enemy a helping hand.

The area had been so thoroughly dominated by the Viet Cong for so long that pacification, "winning the hearts and minds of the people," was considered out of the question by higher headquarters.

The job was done in an area involving more than 100 square miles.

"God, my wife would faint if she could see what I'm doing now," an infantryman said.

"Killing ole Charlie (Viet Cong) is one thing, but killing puppies and baby ducks and stuff like that — it's something else, man."

Extravagance is a new hat thet completely covers a new hairdo.

Students to Make Decision Tuesday

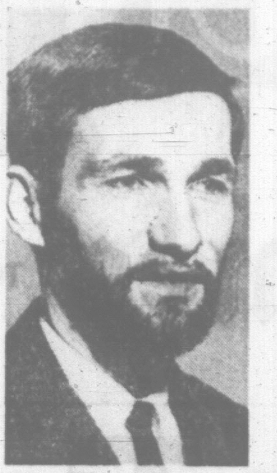
By DESMOND BILL

University of Victoria students will decide next Tuesday whether to boycott classes the folowing day in protest against the ouster of three teachers.

A meeting of 500 students Thursday heard three of their leaders mount a sustained attack on the removal of the three professors.

But one of the men being let go by the university, Dr. Charles Tarlton, told them, "Whatever you do, don't do it with me in mind. I'm gone. I'm no longer a part of this (university) at all. I feel alienated from it."

Despite this, the students unanimously decided to hold a mass rally in the gymnasium Tuesday to make up their minds whether or not to "strike".



WILLIAMSON
. . . supports strike

AGAINST FIRINGS

Paul Williamsons, a former president of the students' council, said the students must "make it clear to the faculty and the administration, to the newspapers and the public" that the students are against the firings.

Mr. Williamson warned the students that the press and the public will oppose any strike action.

But, he said, they should have a one-day strike next Wednesday to show the university administration it has "lost the confidence of the majority of students and of many members of faculty who for various reasons have not spoken out."

The three men whose contracts were not renewed by the university this year are Dr. Tarlton, of the political science department, and J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, both of the English department.

HIGHLY POPULAR

All three are outspoken in criticism of some aspects of university life but are highly popular with students. The students' council has offered to hire Mr. Schwartz next year as an independent lecturer.

Mr. Williamson said the public is not "getting the facts" in the controversy over the non-renewal of their contracts.

He said an editorial in the Times Wednesday noted large research grants being awarded to Uvic's biology department and implied this gave the lie to criticisms of the university.

Said Mr. Williamson, "The man who got the largest award was Dr. Tom Algard. I tell you that last October the dean and his committee tried to dump Algard the same way" as Dr. Tarlton, Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Mackenzie were ousted.

Mr. Williamson also referred to an interview in which Arts and Science Dean A. J. Wood told seven students that if Tarlton, Schwartz and Mackenzie did not go, then the university would lose four and maybe 10 good men.

'NO ONE IS SAFE'

Mr. Williamson said, "No one is safe if he crosses a group of professors unknown to me who have threatened the dean."

Stephen Bigsby, another former students' council president, said the real issue in the row is whether the administration is "100 per cent correct, 100 per cent of the time."

He said president Malcolm Taylor and Dean Wood have refused to defend their decision to let the instructors go because they "cannot justify" it.

Mr. Bigsby said some people believe that those in authority must have good reason for doing what they did. They think "there must be something to be said for the other side."

Said Mr. Bigsby, "I want to hear it. I would like to hear it."

He said some persons will construe a student strike as a revolt against authority. In fact, he said, a strike will be a demonstration in favor of moderation.

He said true moderation is "tolerance of diversity within the law. Let's not purge those we don't agree with."

'SERIOUS PRECEDENT'

Dr. Tarlton told the meeting the ouster of himself and his two colleagues "set a serious precedent here. Decisions can openly be made on non-academic grounds that are not specified."

He said the "sorest point" in the whole affair, as far as he is concerned, is the "general complacency" of the faculty. "No one cares what is going on."

Mr. Schwartz said he and his colleagues during the past two months "have been living under a mud-wagon and it's been tipped on us."

When one student asked him why he had been fired — "the real reason"—he told them that he could not give an answer.

But he said he has in recent months been the victim of the "foulest innuendo I have ever seen" and when it is necessary to "defend a case by slander" it does not say very much for the case.

During most of the meeting a shorthand notetaker was in the audience recording all that was said by various speakers. She sat beside Professor Robin Skelton, a senior member of the English department.

Asked the reason for the presence of the notetaker, Prof. Skelton said, "She was simply there so that if anything important was said we would have a record."

He said he himself would have taken notes but the shorthand writer saved him the trouble. He said the record of the proceedings was not kept "for any particular purpose."

Students' Leaders Hit 'Nothing' Statement

Student leaders at the University of Victoria today said a statement by president Malcolm Taylor "said nothing that in any way clarified the situation."

An open letter to Dr. Taylor signed by Alma Mater Society president David McLean and past AMS heads Stephen Bigsby and Paul Williamson said: "Once more we ask you to answer professors Tarlton and Schwartz when they ask 'Why were we dismissed?' "

"Once more we ask you to state that faculty members shall be judged only by their colleagues.

"Once more we ask you to repudiate the action of those faculty members who in secret threatened the dean with their resignation, and once more we state our disappointment that the administration would bow to such coercion.

"We appeal to you to act decisively and to ensure that never again will an excellent teacher and unimpeachable scholar be lost to this university because of secretive threats to the dean."

A statement from Dr. Taylor outlining threats to the "good name" of the university was published in Thursday's Times.

have been no budget money in the provincial coffers on April 1 at the start of the new fiscal year.

They constitute the final reading of the bill to make it legal—capping the scores of hours the MLAs spent on estimates.

They should have been spoken early in the ceremony before Gen. Pearkes began reading the formal closing speech — which also is written by Premier Bennett — but no one noticed something was askew except Mr. Strachan and one of the house clerks.

The Opposition Leader scanned back through the list of procedure and checked the jounrnals during the remainder of the ceremony waiting in vain for an unobtrusive opportunity to remind someone of the slip.

He tried, but never succeded, in catching Premier Bennett's eye and, in desperation, hissed the electrifying words after the ceremony was officially over and Gen. Pearkes was about to leave and the clerk was whispering in agitation to Mr. Murray.

So the legislature actually was protogued twice — and if the slip had not been retrieved then, a constitutional dilemma would have ensued that could well have required re-convening of the MLAs after Easter to patch things

Gangster Graveyard Located

JACKSON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP)—FBI agents using bulldozers churned up the muddy grounds of a suspected Cosa Nostra cemetery today in the search for more gangland murder victims. Two bodies already have been dug up.

Disclosing the investigation Friday, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover issued a statement saying the search was the product of an extensive two-year investigation of the Cosa Nostra in New York and New Jersey.

Hoover said the investigation "specifically concerned a number of individuals who had disappeared, allegedly as a result of having incurred the disfavor of Cosa Nostra officials or leaders as far back as 1960, and who are thought to be buried on these sites."

The two bodies found Thursday night in this sparsely populated area 60 miles from New York were little more than skeletons in tattered remnants of clothing.

One was tentatively identified as that of Angelo Sonnessa, who was 48 when he disappeared in September, 1961.

SECOND WAS BROKER

The remains of the other victim were tentatively identified as Kenneth Later, who was 55 when he disappeared March 29, 1963. He was identified as a New York city stockbroker.

The bodies were found on what was once a 20 - acre chicken farm. Later's body was found in an oil drum filled with hydrochloric acid and was largely disintegrated.

The owners of the farm, Joseph Celso, 49, and his 46-year-wife, were arraigned Friday in Asbury Park as material witnesses. Each was held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

The FBI said Sonnessa was a business partner of the late Joseph Vecchio in the All State Asphalt Co., a contracting firm in Nutley, N.J. Vecchio was indicted in May, 1960, with 29 other men alleged to be the prime distributing organization for heroin in the United States.

The FBI said Sonnessa "had allegedly gained the disfavor of an identified member of Cosa Nostra who is presently serving a term in a federal penitentiary on a narcotics violation." The FBI declined to identify the narcotics violator.

An FBI spokesman would not say what, if any, link had been established between Later and the Cosa Nostra, but it is known that the crime syndicate has infiltrated some brokerage houses and has the money to manipulate the stock market.

Sierra L. Gets New Strongman

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A sudden turn in Sierra Leone's week-long power struggle has boosted Lt.-Col. Ambrose Patrick Genda from fifth rank on his country's six-man UN mission to head of the country's new military junta.

"I think it was very kind and thoughtful of my brother officers back there," Genda said Friday after learning that he had been named chairman of a national reformation council of six army and two police officials. He said he is awaiting word from Freetown on his next move.

A year ago, Genda, 39, was retired as deputy commander of the armed forces and sent here as a second secretary because of a dispute with some of Sierra Leone's leaders. Some of those leaders were under arrest today.

The strife in the West African nation, a Commonwealth member of about 2,200,000 persons, broke out after its general election March 17. Neither Prime Minister Sir Albert Margai's Sierra Leone People's party nor the All Peoples Congress of Siaka Stevens won a majority in Parliament. But Governor-General Henry J. Lightfoot-Boston swore in Stevens as the new prime minister.

Brig. David Lansana, commander of the army, said the election results were incomplete and seized power. About 20 persons were reported killed in clashes between mobs and military units.

The national reformation council took control of the country Friday.

New Suspect Faces N. Orleans Jury

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Layton Martens, arrested here three days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and held for "investigation of subversive activities" was subpoenaed by District-Attorney Jim Garrison Thursday in his investigation of the crime.

The district-attorney also ordered the arrest of Gordon Novel, 29, a former bar owner whom he described as an important material witness for the grand jury considering the case.

Martens, 24, was ordered to appear before the grand jury next Wednesday.

He formerly roomed with the late David W. Ferrie. Martens, Ferrie and Roland Beauboeuf, then 19, were arrested by Garrison's men at the request of the secret service and FBI Nov. 25, 1963. Ferrie was booked for being a fugitive from Texas; Martens and Beauboeuf were booked for vagrancy.

Police records show that Martens was held for the FBI and secret service "under investigation of subversive activities."

Garrison said at that time that Ferrie, Beauboeuf and Martens were picked up "in connection with some leads of our own."

All three men were released the next day.

Also subpoenaed Thursday was Donald Dooty, a balding, red-bearded man about 35 years old. No background information was available on Dooty.
